BARUCH PLAN WOULD STEM WAR PROFITS

Proposals for Drafting Capital and Labor Termed Absurd.

President Might Be Given Power Over Firms Out for More Money.

(Associated Press.)

A plan for taking the profit out of war by governmental price fixing was presented to the War Policies Commission yesterday by Bernard M. Baruch.

The man who, as chairman of the War Industries Board, virtually dictated the mobilization of American industry during the World War, characterized proposals to draft capital and labor in war time as "absurd."

He recommended enactment of legislation to give the President power immediately upon declaration of war to "freeze" all prices, not only of commodities, but of rents, wages, interest rates, commissions and fees, on the level of prewar prices.

He also recommended creation of a war-time governmental agency patterned after the lines of the War Industries Board to supervise prices, control distribution, and commandeer when necessary.

Elimination of Profiteering.

This plan, Mr. Baruch said, would eliminate profiteering, reduce the cost of war by 50 per cent, mobilize war supplies almost as quickly as men, and while thus increasing efficiency "go very far toward keeping the peace of the world."

Mr. Baruch testified his plan was based upon the Government's experience in the last war.

"This is neither dream nor theory," he said. "I recommend no principle that was not in actual practice and accomplishment in 1918."

The inflation which has accompanied every past war, Mr. Baruch said, has not only increased the cost, but resulted in "destruction of morale through a just and bitter resentment of soldiers and their families at the spectacle of grotesquely exaggerated profits to those engaged in trade"

Tells of War Board.

Mr. Baruch said America found out in 1918 how to check this inflation. He told of the work of the War Industries Board.

"Had the war gone on another year," he said, "our whole civil population would have gradually emerged in cheap but serviceable uniform. Types of shoes were to be reduced to two or three. The manufacture of pleasure automobiles was to cease. Flaps from pockets and unnecessary trim in clothing would have disappeared. Steel had already been taken out of women's corsets."

Mr. Baruch said his plan required no change in the Constitution as would the universal draft.

He recommended immediate enactment of a law "the very existence of which would be a constant warning to everybody that never again in America will any man make as much profit in war as he can make in peace."

Proclamation Is Cited.

It would authorize the President to issue a proclamation "freezing prices" as of some prewar date and making it unlawful for any one to

Hoover Names Stone As Farm Board Head

Assistant Is Elevated as Legge's Resignation Is Accepted.

JAMES C. STONE.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday accepted the resignation of Alexander Legge, of Chicago, as chairman of the Federal Farm Board, and appointed James C. Stone, of Kentucky, to succeed him.

In making the announcement, President Hoover said he knew he reflected "the view of the agricultural community when I express intense regret upon the retirement of Mr. Legge."

At the same time President Hoover announced the appointment of C. C. Teague, of California, a member of the board, as vice chairman. The vacancy, Mr. Hoover said, will not be filled for two or three weeks.

"Chairman Legge has been urged by every farm organization in the United States to continue his work," the President said, "and I have urged him with all the force I could command. He, however, feels that he must go back to his business."

The retiring Farm Board chairman came into office nearly two years ago and has been a storm center since the Hoover agricultural policy was put into operation. On numerous occasions he has become involved in controversies.

In a statement at the Farm Board about the time the President named his successor, Mr. Legge expressed "greater confidence in the ultimate success" of the agricultural marketing act than when he undertook the work.

The chairman termed his resignation as "a mere formality."

"As a matter of fact," the statement continued, "I have been working on overtime for nearly eight

DETECTIVE FIRM TO PROBE CLEW IN GORDON CASE

Prosecutor Announces All Tips Over Nation to Be Run Down.

MYSTERIOUS DIARY LEAD IS FOLLOWED

Benita Bischoff Is Buried as Police Keep Off All Reporters.

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—Private detectives were at work today on the murder of moose-slain Vivian Gordon as New York's Police Department, with 18,000 of the "finest" at its command, knocked in vain at a "wall of silence."

It was Charles B. McLaughlin, district attorney of the Bronx, who disclosed the employment of a national detective agency, a step almost unprecedented in the long history of unsolved killings here.

The private detectives have been authorized to proceed "regardless of cost," and to concentrate on what were called the "world-wide ramifications" of the slaying of the hennahaired demimondaine and blackmailer, who had been seeking evidence to back her charge that a policeman and her former husband "framed" her on a vice charge eight years ago.

Clews Lead Nowhere.

Dozens of witnesses have been questioned and scores of leads followed since her body was tossed into a Bronx park eight nights ago, but "no headway of any great importance" has been made, McLaughlin said today. He explained he was paying the detectives out of his own pocket, but expected to get his money back.

Private detectives have been employed in many crimes in the past, notably jewel robberies, but police could recall no outstanding murder case in which they were used.

Although McLaughlin said the detectives had been at work since the body was found, Police Commissioner Mulrooney said he knew nothing about it.

Clews Widespread.

The voluminous diaries of the slain woman, who had contact with the half-world and the realm of finance, were believed to contain names of persons in Canada, Europe and distant parts of the United States. The private detective agency has a far-flung organization suited to running down distant clues, McLaughlin said.

One of the first tasks is to discover the meaning of a mysterious entry referring to money paid out by Miss Gordon to a "Bank in Oslo, Norway."

Meanwhile the grand jury continued digging out of the woman's past a strange admixture of racketeers and play-boys, mother love and fear of murder, and such names as Arnold Rothstein, gambler who "got his," and the bull-necked Vannie Higgins.

McLaughlin today brushed aside as worthless the story of Leonora Halsey, Cuban masseuse from Mount Vernon, who told of taking a limousine ride with Miss Gordon and two stiff-shirted men the Wednesday night of the slaying.

Refutes Her Story.

"She can not identify Vivian Gordon," he said, "and she states that the episode referred to with the men in the automobile positively occurred on Tuesday night and not on Wednesday, with a woman other than Vivian Gordon."

"I haven't told them the half of it yet," she exclaimed to a reporter as she left the court building.

Philadelphia, March 6 (A.P.).—Benita Bischoff, whose mother was slain in New York more than a week ago, was laid to rest today.

MILLS' DECREE AROUSES IRE OF U. S. EMPLOYES

HALF-HOLIDAY LAW PRECIPITATES CLASH

Undersecretary of Treasury and Director Long Remain Obdurate.

Sharp challenge was issued yesterday by the National Federation of Federal Employes to the decision of Acting Director Charles R. Long, of the bureau, and Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills to continue enforced lay-offs of bureau employes without regard to the new Saturday half-holiday law which takes effect today.

The challenge was contained in a letter to Mr. Long from Miss Gertrude M. McNally, secretary-treasurer of the federation.

In view of previous assurances given by Alvin W. Hall, director of the bureau, who now is vacationing in Europe, Miss McNally said she believed Mr. Long had been misquoted in The Post.

Overtime at Night.

Although Mr. Long was not available to reporters last night Undersecretary Mills took his place and reiterated Mr. Long's statement of the day before, with considerable more emphasis.

The Saturday half-holiday law, Mr. Mills said, would not make an hour's difference in the enforced furlough. Employes of the bureau who are worked overtime at night and on Sundays and furloughed on week days like the overtime work because it cuts down their furlough, Mr. Mills said.

Publication of the situation in the bureau caused something of a furore. Miss McNally wrote Mr. Long. Mr. Long went to see Mr. Mills. Others went to see Mr. Mills, too, including Thomas W. Littlepage, who has been described as the Republican boss of the District, and Frank T. Coleman, editor of the Plate Printer, who is another of those active in fighting for better conditions for workers in the bureau. Mr. Mills made it clear to every one that what Mr. Long had been quoted as saying in The Post would be enforced and he made it known, too, that he resented publication of the story. Mr. Mills, however, refused to say that there would not be a change in the present furlough system in effect in the bureau.

Held Contrary to Promises.

The policy which has been determined on by Mr. Mills and Mr. Long, Miss McNally said in her letter to the acting director, is directly contrary to the promises made representatives of the workers by Director Hall, now in Europe.

"Director Hall," Miss McNally wrote the acting director, "stated very positively to President Steward and to me that the enactment of the half-holiday legislation would reduce the month furlough by at least two days, and I am, of course, assuming that you were incorrectly quoted in The Post.

"With the bureau working until 8 o'clock at night and Sundays in some divisions, it is inconceivable that you plan to continue the furlough. There is no justification for working employes overtime certain days in the month and furloughing them other days.

Merits of Situation.

"As I am sure you have not been correctly quoted, however, I shall not go into the merits of the situation at this time. May we please have a statement from you on this matter?"

Mr. Long promised Miss McNally a statement of policy in reply to her letter as soon as he had conferred with Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills. The statement was not given last night, however.

Mr. Mills declared that he had gone over the matter in conference with

SHOUSE PLANS TOUR TO AID RASKOB IDEA; WET PLANK LOOMING

378 VOTES BY LIQUOR BLOC TO BE NUCLEUS

Various Groups Reinforced by Instructions Against Prohibition.

(United Press.)

The probability of an antiprohibition plank in the next Democratic national platform increased yesterday as party leaders began counting noses to appraise the possibilities involved in Chairman John J. Raskob's "home rule plan."

Neither side claimed a victory in the tumultuous meeting of the national committee Thursday, but the impression grew that Mr. Raskob has accomplished his real objective by focusing attention on the prohibition issue. He hopes public sentiment will crystallize in favor of his proposal in time to force action at the next meeting of the national committee or in the national convention of next year.

In the national convention the antiprohibitionists will have the support of huge delegations from populous industrial States where the existing law is unpopular. Democratic State organizations in 12 States came out flatly for repeal of the eighteenth amendment in their local platforms last year. These States are New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Illinois, Wisconsin, and Washington.

Wet Group Is Large.

Out of a total of 1,100 votes in the national convention, the States listed will have 378 votes, which are regarded as a nucleus around which the antiprohibition forces may gather.

A bloc of ten other States with an aggregate representation of 244 votes, in which the Democratic organizations have shown antiprohibition leanings, forms the field from which additional recruits may be expected for a revisionist declaration in the platform. This bloc includes California, Iowa, Louisiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, Ohio and Oklahoma.

Midwest Leans to Repeal.

Ohio elected Senator Robert J. Bulkley, who advocates repeal, in what amounted to a political landslide.

In Oklahoma Senator Thomas P. Gore was elected after declaring against prohibition.

Nevada and Montana are regarded as likely to send antiprohibitionist delegates since both States have repealed their local enforcement laws.

In both Missouri and Minnesota the Democratic organizations are regarded as predominantly on the antiprohibition side.

Should the advocates of repeal or modification obtain the solid support of delegations from the ten States just listed they would have a total of 622 votes, or a margin of 71 more than a majority of the entire convention.

Several Candidates Loom.

Senators Joseph T. Robinson (Democrat), Arkansas, and Cordell

TO TAKE STUMP

MOUNTAINEER HELD IN VETERAN'S DEATH

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., March 6.—Trailed from the scene of the murder to his home by bloodhounds, David Sours, a resident of the Blue Ridge Mountains in Page County, tonight was lodged in the Luray jail in connection with the murder of Edward F. Buracker, 40, a World War veteran, whose body was found covered with leaves along a mountain road. Two bullet holes were in Buracker's head.

In Sours' house were found a shotgun and a pair of bloody overalls, police say. Sours denies any connection with the murder.

Buracker is said to have been to Luray to inquire about borrowing money on World War compensation certificates. He left for his home. Today his body was found a short distance from the mountain road toward his home.

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., March 6.—Edward F. Buracker, 40, was murdered sometime last night about half a mile from his home in the Blue Ridge, of this county.

The murdered man left the home of Emmett Buracker, about 12 o'clock, going up a path on the mountain side in the direction of his home. Failing to reach his home, searchers were sent out this morning. His body was found by his brother, Wilbur Buracker, near the path.

Half a dozen bullet holes in Buracker's head and body showed that his slayer met him on the mountain path, murdered him and dragged his body several hundred yards away, covering it with leaves and brush. Buracker's body was terribly beaten.

No arrests have been made, but it is known that Buracker had recently incurred the enmity of moonshiners living in the neighborhood where his body was found. He was shot with a .38-caliber revolver. The murdered man was a son of James Buracker, of Page County.

Editor and Engineer Appointed.

The appointment of Dr. Everett P. Partridge, of Ann Arbor, Mich., as supervising engineer of the Nonmetallic Minerals Experiment Station at New Brunswick, N. J., and of Harold W. Robbins, of Chicago, as editor, have been announced by Scott Turner, director of the Bureau of Mines, United States Department of Agriculture.

Democratic Chief Would Speak as Individual on "Home Rule."

ITINERARY TO INCLUDE NORTH AND DRY SOUTH

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Whatever the Southern drys may think, Jouett Shouse, chairman of the executive committee of the Democratic national committee, is convinced that the Democratic party ought to stand for a change in the prohibition law. He said as much at Thursday's hectic meeting at the Mayflower.

Consequently, between now and the next national convention, Shouse is expected to take the stump and attempt to "sell" the "home rule" liquor plan that was put forward by John J. Raskob, chairman of the national committee.

Shouse is virtually the spokesman for the Democratic party at this time. However, he would not talk for the party if he advocated the Raskob, or "home rule" plan.

Would Ask Plan's Study.

He would make it clear, just as he did at Thursday's meeting, that the national committee can not fix policies; that this power is reserved to the national convention. At the same time, he would ask the voters to consider the reasonable terms of the Raskob plan.

Under this plan the country would be asked to adopt a "new constitutional amendment, one that would permit wet States to have liquor and dry States to stay dry. The eighteenth amendment would remain and the Federal Government would be obliged to help the dry States to prevent the smuggling in of liquor.

Shouse is expected to urge this plan upon the voters of both the wet North and the dry South.

Wet Plank Indicated.

Notwithstanding the criticism that Southern drys are heaping on the Raskob plan, the indications are that the Democratic party will adopt a wet plank in its 1932 platform and nominate a wet candidate to run on that platform.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, is out in front now. There is no question about that. But there are no smart Democrats who are willing to bet money that he will stay there.

The talk continues that at the convention Chairman Raskob and his cohorts will attempt to stampede the convention for Alfred E. Smith. Those who know Smith, however, say that the 1928 nominee has no intention of running again.

Dark Horse in Prospect.

The prospect, according to many of those who attended Thursday's meeting, is that Roosevelt, Owen D. Young and Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, will stymie each other, and that, in the end, a dark horse will be selected, just as John W. Davis was selected in 1924.

One significant thing about the aftermath of the national committee meeting was the drop in the stock of Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas.

As a result of his violent attack on Chairman Raskob, Senator Robinson was virtually eliminated as a presidential possibility. Not only that, but there was talk of replacing him as the Democratic leader in the Senate.

Had No Prepared Speech.

Contrary to what some of Robinson's critics said at Thursday's meeting, the Arkansas senator did not go to the meeting with a prepared speech. He was talked into making a speech by his colleague, Senator Thaddeus H. Caraway.

The two Arkansas senators were sitting together. Once Chairman Raskob had submitted his recom-

BLAZE HITS BRIDGE; 9 FIREMEN INJURED

Harpers Ferry, W. Va., March 6 (U. P.).—Fire roared along a new 1,400-foot railroad bridge across the Potomac River gorge here today. Fire departments raced over country roads from four towns to extinguish the blaze. At the end there was left festooned across the river a tangle of buckled rails and spans.

A fire truck speeding from Charles Town, W. Va., in response to urgent telephone calls, overturned on a sharp curve at Halltown, 4 miles from here. Eleven men were pitched into the ditch or pinned under the wreckage. Two escaped unhurt. Two of the injured are in a serious condition at Charles Town Hospital. The others sustained cuts, bruises and minor fractures.

The seriously hurt are Charles Herks and Filmore Davis. At first they were reported killed. Later their lives were despaired of, but at a later hour they were reported "doing nicely."

The first broke out shortly after noon in the middle of the bridge. Workmen returning from lunch shouted "Fire!" A rush of flame shot up from the creosote-soaked ties and raced along the bridge in either direction.

A large crowd gathered from nearby towns and the surrounding countryside of three States. Automobiles filled the roads from all directions.

Fire apparatus arrived from Charles Town, Harpers Ferry, Martinsburg, W. Va., and from Brunswick, Md., but efforts were largely futile due to the inflammable nature of the creosoted ties. About 1,000 feet of the bridge was wrecked.

Late today Baltimore & Ohio Railroad engineers sought to determine the cause of the fire and the extent of the damage. The bridge, which was to have replaced the old bridge in order to eliminate a sharp curve at that point, was to have been opened to traffic April 15. It is on the main Washington-Pittsburgh line.

CUBAN 'HIGHER-UPS' LINKED IN BOMB QUIZ

Regime's Political Foes Are Accused in Confession of Two Ringleaders.

Havana, Cuba, March 6 (U.P.).—Sensational charges that men "higher up," including at least one member of congress, were patrons of a notorious bomb gang that has terrorized the capital recently, were made by two ringleaders of the bombers, police revealed today.

Political opponents of the government were declared to be responsible for outrages which have been occurring with increasing frequency recently, including one abortive attempt on the life of President Gerardo Machado.

The two men, described as confessed bomb-makers, gave their names as Antonio Torres and Luis Mutiz. Police said the gangsters had confessed to preparing upwards of 200 bombs of various sorts—noise only, tear and destructive dynamite machines—and that one of their bombs was designed and ready for delivery to a "client" to be placed in the residence of the mayor of the City of Matanzas.

The arrest of the two men followed the discovery of a great quantity of dynamite, tubes and other paraphernalia used in the manufacture of bombs, in a hide-out under the banks of the Almendares River, near Havana, the police report said. This cache was believed to have been hidden in the headquarters of the gang, which, the authorities maintain, operates in conjunction with the connivance and financial aid of political personages.

Working on this theory, and with the purported confessions of the two bombers, the police were confident this evening that they were on the trail of others implicated in the terrorizing mystery which for the past fortnight has aroused Havana and shaken the capital with the recurrent boom of explosions.

The city was startled by a half dozen explosions last night, which sent police scurrying about in search of clues. Little damage was caused in most places, but one bomb wrecked the workshop of Dr. Enrique Bacin, director of the national laboratories.

Japanse Empress Gives Birth to Girl

Calvin Coolidge Says:

With the close of the Congress many men in both parties retiring to private life will be missed because the knowledge and experience gained by long service made them extremely useful public servants. Few people seem to realize that politics is an art. While they are particular to have even unimportant professions examined and licensed they take little heed of the training and qualifications of those who seek elective office. It is usual to snear at the politician and utterly to condemn the practical politician.

In a republic, knowing what ought to be done is different from knowing how to do it. The trained business man and experienced lawyer often fail in public life. Business buys what it wants and gives orders. The law demands its rights. Politics can only plead for support. It makes an appeal to a combination of a sense of duty and self-interest.

Men like Jefferson, Lincoln and Speaker Reed, who made a profound impression on public affairs, gained their success by a lifelong study of the art of politics. They knew how to get the people to take action. More care in selection and less unmerited abuse of public officers will be required to conduct our increasingly complicated government.

9 Latin American Nations Change Heads in 14 Months

Bolivia Has Third Regime and Peru Its Fourth in Less Time Than Hoover Has Been in White House; Violence Held to Minimum.

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—Made in the United States was the adage that every boy has a chance to be President—but the chances are even better in countries south of the Rio Grande.

Nine Central and South American nations have had 24 presidents and provisional presidents in less time than Herbert Hoover has been in the White House, and the parade is still going by. Bolivia installed yesterday its third chief executive in a year, and Peru's fourth—a provisional executive—came to the government house at Lima by a coup last night.

If some latter-day Richard Harding Davis or O. Henry were to try to beguile readers or moviegoers with a story of revolution in some mythical "banana republic" he would get only yawns for his pains. Yet the wave of revolution which has swept from south of Mexico to Cape Horn since the beginning of 1930 surpasses anything of Davis' day—with this difference.

Itinerant soldiers of fortune are generally missing from the picture and the overthrow of authority represent discontents born in most cases of economic causes.

Here is the record of fourteen months to the south:

Argentina—President Irigoyen overthrown and Gen. Jose Uriburu succeeded him.

Bolivia—President Hernando Siles resigned under military pressure on May 29 and only yesterday civil government was restored.

Features in Tomorrow's Post

"Whoever heard of harmony at a Democratic meeting," asked former Gov. Alfred E. Smith. In an entertaining and instructive article by David Rankin Barbee in Sunday's Washington Post, the dissension and strife in the party of Jefferson is pictured in all its mud-slinging setting. His observations on the present prohibition war in the party as an example of the factional discord generated in recent years is absorbing.

What will the poor deb do now? Are the matrimonial prizes really being captured by their more practical sisters as secretaries, stenographers and office workers with successful business men. This timely story will be found as a feature in The Post magazine tomorrow.

Senator Hausbrough, in the final installment of his reminiscences of public and private life in Washington, discloses why he threw over the traces as a stalwart of regular Republicans and went to the support of President Wilson, an act that kindled the fires of hatred in certain circles.

"Making the Streets Safe for Children" is an interesting story by a Post staff writer, describing the manner in which school patrols protect their fellow pupils from traffic dangers.

Other features in the tabloid magazine tomorrow tell of a woman's experiences in a bread line, a doughboy who made himself premier fight promoter of Paris and advice to the lovelorn by Edith Johnson, among others.

$430,000 British Tax Claim Laid to Sir Charles Ross

Scot Baronet, Summoned to Appear in 34 Days to Answer Court, Accepts Service Without Protest After Deputy's Four-Hour Wait.

A summons to appear in London to answer the claim that he owes $430,000 in British income taxes yesterday was served on Sir Charles Ross, Scot baronet and multimillionaire, who recently was sued by his wife for separate maintenance in the District Supreme Court here.

Deputy United States Marshal John J. Clarkson served the summons on Sir Charles at his Washington home at 1619 Massachusetts avenue. He accepted service without protest. Under its terms he is allowed 34 days in which to appear, either in person or through counsel.

Sir Charles was arrested here a fortnight ago when his estranged wife, Lady Patricia, nee Ellison, of Louisville, Ky., who married him in 1911, sued him for separate maintenance. He remained a prisoner in a hotel suite while raising the necessary $60,000 bond.

Lady Patricia lost a similar action in 1920, when the House of Lords found a verdict in favor of the baronet. He contends she already is receiving $5,000 annually from a trust fund he created for her.

The summons served by Clarkson yesterday, after waiting at the Ross home from 11 o'clock in the morning until 3 in the afternoon, reads:

"Georve V to Sir Charles Henry Augustus Frederick Lockhart Ross, Bt., Washington, D. C.

"We command you within 34 days from the service of this writ to cause an appearance to be entered for you in the king's bench division of our high court of justice to answer us concerning certain articles against you, and take notice that in default of your doing so we shall proceed thereon to judgment and execution."

mendations for a new liquor amendment, for a liberalization of the anti-trust law, and for other things, Mr. Caraway could be heard urging Robinson to get up on the platform and say something.

Held Challenge Necessary.

The word had gone out that there would be no discord. Former Gov. Harry Flood Byrd of Virginia had even told Chairman Raskob as much. A group of Southern drys had held a huddle and had decided that Senator-elect Cordell Hull, of Tennessee, would do their talking for them.

All the Southerners agreed that Raskob's recommendations could not go unchallenged. If they did, it was agreed, the country would think that the committee approved them.

And so it was agreed that Hull should make it clear that Raskob did not speak for the party. At the same time, it was understood that Hull should make a speech that would not be likely to cause a row. And that was the kind of speech that Hull made.

Robinson Is Assailed.

Then, egged on by Caraway, Robinson got up and made a speech that turned the meeting into a near riot. He charged that Raskob had precipitated a "crisis" that would divide the party, and that he had rendered service to President Herbert Hoover and the Republican party.

Representative Mary Norton, of New Jersey, gave Robinson what was perhaps the most embarrassing verbal chastising that the big Arkansas senator has ever received, and then former Gov. Smith, the senator's running mate in 1928, also took a crack at him.

There were many yesterday, drys as well as wets, who believed that Robinson's speech not only was intemperate and ill-timed, but that it killed whatever chances he had for a place on the national ticket.

Cox Hero of Meeting.

The hero of the meeting was former Gov. James M. Cox, of Ohio, the party's presidential nominee in 1920. Cox made a harmony speech. He asked the North to try to understand how the South feels about prohibition and he asked the South to try and bear in mind that the North is anxious to rid itself of the shackles that gangsters and racketeers have placed on it. Also he told the committee that he preferred a man like Chairman Raskob, a man who had the courage to speak what was on his mind.

Senator Cameron Morrison, of North Carolina, described by some as the "new Heflin" of the Senate, later congratulated Cox. Senator Morrison followed Senator Robinson in attacking Raskob on Thursday, and as a consequence was hissed and jeered.

Will Circulate Speech.

When he saw Cox later in the evening he said:

"You are the only one of us who didn't make a fool out of himself."

If certain Democrats have their way, the Cox speech is going to be widely circulated, with the hope that it will help bridge the gulf that divides the party.

Chairman Raskob and other Democratic leaders are well satisfied with what happened Thursday. They think that it has cleared the atmosphere and has paved the way for tolerance at future Democratic gatherings.

Raskob Planned to Quit.

When he heard that the Southern drys were prepared to launch an attack on him, it is said, Raskob decided to offer his resignation, but was dissuaded by former Gov. Byrd.

Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, was called upon to make a speech at Thursday's meeting, but he declined. Yesterday, however, he said that prohibition was not a "party question" and declared that it would be "fatal for either party to attempt to make it one."

Senator Sheppard, coauthor of the eighteenth amendment, appealed to all Americans, wets and drys alike, to oppose Chairman Raskob's liquor plan.

Walsh for Home Rule.

Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, approved the Raskob plan, but stated that it was contrary to custom for the national committee to make any recommendations to the national convention.

Senator Wheeler, of Montana, a wet, criticised the economic views of Raskob. His recommendation that big business be allowed more freedom in bringing about mergers, he said, would not be accepted by the party.

"I also disagree with his views on the power problem," Wheeler said.

Senator Smith, of South Carolina, urged the party to forget prohibition and to unite on "issues that are patent to all—the economic distress of the country."

Sees Danger of Neglect.

Senator Robinson said pretty much the same thing.

"There is great danger," he said, "that in bringing forward now the subject of prohibition, even more important issues may be neglected and submerged."

Senator Robinson said the same thing in an appearance before the men who represent the sound talking pictures.

WET PLANK LOOMS AMONG DEMOCRATS

Hull (Democrat), Tennessee, moved to the front as leaders of the prohibition faction of the national Democracy, as a result of their dramatic break with Chairman Raskob and former Gov. Alfred E. Smith Thursday. Both Hull and Robinson are potential presidential candidates if the prohibition element controls the next convention.

On the other hand, in the antiprohibition field of possibilities there are Smith, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, Owen D. Young and Gov. Franklin Roosevelt of New York.

The ovation accorded Smith yesterday has revived talk that he might be a candidate again, although Roosevelt is more frequently mentioned and his friends point to what they believe to be his greater acceptability to the South. Young is in the dark horse class so far and Ritchie's supporters ground their hopes upon a deadlock in the convention in which he could be brought forward as a compromise candidate acceptable to many elements.

Texas G. O. P. Hails Foe Meeting as Good Omen

Dallas, Tex., March 6 (A.P.).—Texas Republican party leaders, meeting here today to make preliminary plans for the 1932 campaign, expressed the belief that yesterday's Washington meeting of Democrats indicated "easy sailing" for the G. O. P.

The meeting voted "unqualified indorsement" to the first half of President Hoover's administration and R. B. Creager, of Brownsville, Texas national committeeman, told members of the State executive committee that "as long as Smith and Raskob remain in control of the Democratic party, republicanism will have little serious opposition." Creager was cheered when he predicted President Hoover would be renominated and reelected.

KENSINGTON FILES PLAINT ON GAS FEE

Montgomery County Town Charges Discrimination Is Practiced.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4206.

Protesting alleged discrimination between Rockville and Kensington, Mayor Frederick W. Brown of Kensington has written to the Washington Gas Light Co. of Montgomery County. A copy of his protest has been sent to the Public Service Commission in Baltimore.

Mayor Brown declares that when the company was negotiating with town officials for permission to enter Kensington the town officials were told that the cost of 47 cents a foot and the charging for installation from the main were regular practices and that they could not be changed for the benefit of Kensington.

The practice penalized some of the new users, inasmuch as the mains are not always in the center of the street, the mayor wrote, but the council approved the plans because it had been informed that this was general practice.

"Recently we note in the press that the agreement reached by your company with officials of the town of Rockville provides (1) that the charge for making service connections shall be 45 cents a foot and (2) that the property holder shall be assessed only that portion of the cost of connection which covers the cost between the property line and the meter, the company assuming the expenses of the portion lying in the street between the main and the property line.

"If these statements as to this Rockville agreement are correct, the town council and citizens of Kensington feel very strongly that they have been discriminated against. We can not believe that there is any less expense in making service connections in Rockville than in Kensington or that there is any sound reason for assessing the entire cost of such connections on the residents of Kensington while the residents of Rockville are asked to bear only a portion of such cost.

"I can not emphasize too forcibly that our citizens at present feel that they have been unfairly treated in the matter of these service connection charges," the mayor said.

Taxpayers of Gaithersburg will meet tonight at the Gaithersburg School to discuss the proposal to assess a fire tax of 5 cents in the Gaithersburg district. The meeting was called by Mayor William McBain and the town council in response to a request from the Gaithersburg-Washington Grove Volunteer Fire Department.

Firemen point out that the department serves the entire section and because of its presence that the insurance rate is appreciably lower. With a definite amount that can be figured on, the department can prepare its budget more intelligently and in the long run the fire tax will prove the most equitable method of collecting funds.

A final decree of absolute divorce from Mrs. Angline E. Harmon was awarded Otis B. Harmon, of near Rockville, yesterday by Judge Robert B. Peter in circuit court at Rockville. In the petition filed by Attorney Harold C. Smith, of Rockville, the husband alleged infidelity and named a corespondent. The couple was married in Rockville April 3, 1920.

The Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission has disapproved an application for a permit to establish a cemetery next to the Union Cemetery on the Rockville-Norbeck road, it was announced yesterday by Irving C. Root, chief engineer. The petition was filed on behalf of E. C. Algire, Warner E. Pumphrey and O. K. Duvall.

The petitioners informed the planning body that the cemetery would be separate from the Union Cemetery. The commission opposed the petition on the general rule of opposing cemeteries in the metropolitan area.

The commission disapproved a petition for a building permit to repair the R. P. Lizear oil refracting plant in the rear of the Maryland Garage, Silver Spring, on the ground that it constituted a fire menace for the neighborhood. The plant recently was damaged by fire.

Wealthy Traveler Dies in Winchester

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., March 6.—William H. Smith, 62, of Phoenixville, Pa., fell dead today in the bathroom at a local rooming house from a heart attack, according to a physician's report to the coroner.

He came here Tuesday, saying he was traveling leisurely over the country. He had just gone into the bathroom after listening to a radio program when Mrs. H. W. Swartz, the proprietress, heard him fall.

Among personal effects was a bankbook showing over $10,000 on deposit at Malvern, Pa., and building and loan association books showing several thousand additional; receipts indicated tax payments on large improved real estate holdings in several Pennsylvania communities.

Jury Frees Norfolk Man Of Criminal Assault

Norfolk, Va., March 6 (A.P.).—William Harper, 22 years old, colored, was acquitted tonight of criminally assaulting Mrs. E. S. Skaggs, of Portsmouth, Va. At a previous trial of the same case he was convicted.

At retrial of the case this week the defense produced several witnesses who testified Mrs. Skaggs was not in Norfolk at the time of the assault.

Bartlett Will Not Run Against Senator Moses

Portsmouth, N. H., March 6 (A.P.).—Former Gov. John H. Bartlett of New Hampshire detraining here from Washington today, spiked rumors that he would oppose Senator George H. Moses in the 1932 senatorial race.

The former governor used the phrase made famous by former President Coolidge when he said: "I do not choose to run for senator against Senator Moses." He predicted Senator Moses' reelection.

State troopers clearing the steps of the New York State Capitol in Albany when about 200 Communists staged a demonstration to procure an audience for the "army of the unemployed" in the State legislature. Bruised heads of the rioters and a few mauled troopers was the result of the "hunger march on Albany."

RITCHIE IS FAVORED AS NEW PRESIDENT

Maryland Senate, 19 to 1, Urges His Nomination for 1932 Race.

Annapolis, Md., March 6 (A.P.).—A resolution indorsing Gov. Albert C. Ritchie for the Democratic nomination for President was approved today by the State Senate, and almost immediately the governor's record became a matter of State politics.

Galen L. Tait, chairman of the Republican State central committee, issued a statement in which he declared that "Mr. Ritchie's own cherished reorganized administration in Maryland is a flagrant example of that overcentralization in Government from which he diverts attention by alleging its existence in the Federal Government."

The legislative resolution, approved yesterday by the House of Delegates, called Gov. Ritchie, long an outspoken foe of the eighteenth amendment, a "champion of the rights of free people and free States in a free country," and an opponent of "overcentralization of power in the Federal Government and Federal invasion of the rights of the States."

The vote in the Senate was 19 to 1, the lone ballot against adoption of the resolution being cast by a Republican, William N. Andrews, of Dorchester County, though four members of the Republican minority refrained from voting.

The approval of the House yesterday was registered by viva voce vote, and no nay votes were recorded.

"If I may assume to interpret the views of Maryland Republicans on the question of the support of Mr. Ritchie for the Democratic nomination for President," said Mr. Tait's statement, "I would observe that we would certainly not favor for President a man whom we have opposed four times for governor.

"We Republicans would oppose Mr. Ritchie for President not only by reason of his contempt for the Jeffersonian principles of rotation in high executive office, but also by reason of his attempted reincarnation of the dead principles of John C. Calhoun as well as for Gov. Ritchie's antagonism to the Federal Nation, whose Constitution we respect and whose flag we revere."

Lindbergh Plans No New Speed Try.

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has no definite plan for attack on commercial speed records with the new Lockheed Sirius monoplane waiting for him at Burbank, Calif., it was said at his office today.

Dr. T. R. Sanford Quits Pastorate

Fredericksburg Cleric Will Accept Call to Norfolk Baptist Church.

Special to The Washington Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., March 6.—Dr. T. Ryland Sanford, for five years pastor of the First Baptist Church here, handed in his resignation at a largely attended congregational business session in order to accept a call from the First Baptist Church of Norfolk.

The pastor's action came as a distinct surprise, as he last week stated that he would reconsider leaving the local church after an informal voting at last Sunday's service indicated that a majority of the members wished him to remain in Fredericksburg.

Dr. Sanford stated that there were many things he would like to mention before leaving here, but hesitated for papers," adding that this was the only fear they would "get into the newspaper he knew where "newspapermen felt at home in church."

STREETS MAY BEAR NAMES OF SOLDIERS

Battles of Bull Run Chiefs Would Be Honored by Manassas Plan.

The historic old town of Manassas, Va., may rename all of its streets for generals who fought in the Battles of Bull Run, under a proposal before the public affairs committee of the Manassas Kiwanis Club. The suggestion was made by Frank G. Sigman at a dinner last night at the Manassas Masonic Temple.

Former Representative R. Walton Moore has requested Assistant Secretary of War Payne to make a survey of the battlefield to determine what should be done in the way of marking the historic site, W. H. Cocke informed the club. He read a letter from Mr. Moore and another from State Conservation Commissioner William E. Carson, announcing the appointment of Thomas Lomack Hunter as historian for Prince William County, of which Manassas is the county seat.

The club was addressed by Edwin F. Hill, vice president of the Washington Club and a member of the international committee on publicity, who motored to Manassas with F. Archibald Meatyard, also of the Washington Club. Kiwanis, Mr. Hill told the club, owes its standing in the community it serves to the newspaper more than any other agency.

ALEXANDRIA NAMES CHAMBER DIRECTORS

Fourteen Nominated to Fill Posts of Seven Officials; Final List Soon.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU. 907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va. Phone Alexandria 523.

Fourteen members of the Chamber of Commerce have been nominated to fill the positions of seven directors of that body, and today the secretary, James T. Preston, will send to the entire membership the names of the nominees for the selection of the required number. Those nominated are: Dr. Robert South Barrett, Gardner L. Boothe, Robert G. Carter, George F. Downham, Francis H. Fannon, A. W. Higgins, Robert S. Jones, F. Clinton Knight, Clyde C. Lamond, J. William May, A. M. Remschel, Lawrence E. Roland, C. Page Waller and Benedict Weil.

The ballot box will be placed in the Chamber of Commerce room Tuesday morning and members will deposit their ballots up to Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Result of the election will be announced at the annual meeting of the chamber March 16.

It was stated yesterday that George E. Warfield, director for a number of years, had notified the secretary he would not accept nomination again, and although he received far more than enough votes for renomination, his name is not included in the list of candidates.

Dan S. Hollenga, business manager of the chamber of commerce, yesterday interviewed Government officials regarding the location of a new veterans' hospital, with a view to interesting those in charge in Alexandria as a possibility. It has been stated that a new hospital costing approximately $1,000,000 is to be built in Virginia.

An announcement of interest to a number of Alexandrians is that the Rev. William T. Winston, of Warrenton, former pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, this city, has been made editor in chief of the Virginia Knights, formerly a fraternal paper of the Knights of Columbus, but recently purchased by the head of the Catholic Diocese in Virginia for its official organ.

Virginia Kilby, 9, daughter of Eugene Kilby, of Accotink, Fairfax County, is a patient at Alexandria Hospital with a fractured ankle. The child and a brother alighted from a school bus near their home yesterday afternoon, and while the boy waited to watch for traffic, the girl darted from in front of the bus in the path of an automobile driven by Dr. Harold Young, of Washington, and was injured.

ADULT CAR FARE RISE WILL BE CONSIDERED

Utilities Commission Plans Early Decision; Student Tickets Agreed On.

The requests of the two street car lines that the Public Utilities Commission, on its own initiative, take steps to adjust adult fares so as to compensate them for anticipated losses resulting from the 3-cent school fare, will be considered at the regular meeting of the body Monday, Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman, said yesterday afternoon. He declined to predict what action will be taken.

Without mentioning figures or proposing any plans, William F. Ham, president of the Washington Railway & Electric Co., and John H. Hanna, president of the Capital Traction Co., asked for relief in letters received by the commission yesterday.

Both traction heads expressed doubt as to the legality of the order of the utilities body placing the 3-cent fare into effect, but they added that they would not attempt to block it.

The two street car companies and the Washington Rapid Transit Co. had previously asked the commission to provide compensation to them in the school fare order. This request was ignored.

After expressing the opinion that the order "is illegal and unfair to this company," Mr. Hanna added that "in view of the popular demand for this reduction" the Capital Traction Co. will do its utmost to place the system in effect next Tuesday, in as satisfactory a manner as possible.

The letter recalled that the District Supreme Court almost two years ago had found that the revenues of the company were inadequate and added:

"Since that time, as our reports show, our revenues have sharply declined. Any reduction in revenues resulting from reduced school children's fares must be reflected in full in income available for return and in net income, as the alteration will tend to increase rather than decrease expenses."

Mr. Ham likewise recalled the Supreme Court's ruling in the case of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. and continued: "As you well know, our present net operating revenues are less than those recently found by the Supreme Court to be inadequate and insufficient."

Adding that the revenues would "be further reduced" through the school fares, Mr. Ham concluded that "it would be constructive and helpful if the commission, acting upon its own initiative, might take steps for providing this company with additional net revenue."

A final settlement between school officials and the street car companies in the matter of the 3-cent fare for students was reached yesterday afternoon.

Tickets are to be sold in books of 10 and 40 on the presentation of an application by the student. These applications are to be signed by the pupils and teachers. Separate tickets are to be sold for buses. Each time a pupil buys a book of tickets he will have to present a properly filled application.

Two Colors for Tickets.

Application forms and tickets for day school pupils will be purple. Tickets for night students will be yellow. Application forms were being distributed yesterday at high and junior high schools, teachers colleges and vocational schools. Night schools will receive application forms Monday evening.

A preliminary sale of tickets will take place Monday at the high, and junior high schools, the teachers colleges and the vocational schools. Representatives of the street car companies will visit these schools at 11 o'clock Monday morning for the purpose of selling tickets.

After Monday tickets must be bought at one of the 43 places designated in a list at the end of this column. Earl V. Fisher, executive secretary of the Public Utilities Commission, who will be in direct charge of the sale of tickets, points out that these agencies have been carefully selected so that few children will be inconvenienced in making purchases.

Must Buy at Agencies.

Tickets will not be sold at elementary schools. Pupils at these schools will be able to buy tickets at any one of the designated agencies Monday afternoon.

School officials, it was learned at the Franklin School, believe that the plan of selling tickets in books of ten is unreasonable because of the additional burden such a system will impose on teachers. Buying tickets in smaller portions, the school heads contended, will necessitate teachers signing their names to application forms many thousand times a week.

The school officials are understood to have made an agreement with the street car companies to "try out" the ten-ticket book for a week. After this, if it is found that the system is interfering with the duties of the teachers, the school heads will ask that only the 40-ticket books be sold, it was learned.

Ordered to Cooperate.

Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, yesterday issued orders to all schools to cooperate with the traction companies in handling the application blanks. School principals were asked to notify their pupils that tickets will be sold at all schools except the elementary ones on Monday morning.

The reduced fare applies to all school children under 18 going to or from school between the hours of 7:30 o'clock in the morning and 7 o'clock in the evening on school days. Night school tickets will be good between 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon and 11 o'clock at night.

The tickets will not be good on Saturdays, Sundays or holidays.

Free transfers will be issued between street cars and buses operated by the traction companies. Free transfers will also be issued between the Capital Traction line and the Washington Rapid Transit line at Colorado avenue and Fourteenth street northwest. Separate tickets will be used on bus lines where transfers are not recognized.

A list of places where tickets may be bought follows:

American Security & Trust Co., Seventh and E streets southwest; American Security & Trust Co., Eighth and H streets northeast; Anacostia Bank, Nichols avenue and U street southeast; Capital Traction Co., Thirty-sixth and M streets northwest; Capital Traction Co. Extremists Open Campaign To Discredit Gandhi Pact

Radicals Spread Propaganda Against Peace Terms Calling It Betrayal of Nationalist Movement at Best.

Bombay, March 6 (U.P.).—Propaganda seeking to discredit the Irwin-Gandhi accord which has resulted in a truce in the civil disobedience campaign was begun today in Bombay, almost before the ink had dried on the document signed in New Delhi yesterday.

The propaganda was spread by extremists, most of them young radicals, denouncing the accord and declaring in fiery terms that it betray the Nationalist movement. Their agitation was not regarded as serious, but believed significant.

It was seen by some as presaging the split which many fear is imminent in the All-India Congress as a result of the concessions made by their leader, the elderly little mahatma, M. K. Ghandi, when he signed the agreement with Lord Irwin, viceroy. The working committee of the congress approved the accord only after acrimonious debate during which Gandhi threatened to accept their ultimatum and break off negotiations with Lord Irwin at a moment when it appeared peace was assured.

Even such men as Jawaharlal Nehru, president of the congress, in the committee session declared that the accord was a defeat for the Nationalists, and a surrender to the diplomacy of Great Britain. Gandhi, himself, admitted that the "new era of peace" was purchased only by compromise, which at best was provisional and transitory.

Nevertheless, business men here and elsewhere remained optimistic. At Calcutta, the stock exchange reacted to this optimism, and was bullish even before the terms had been published. Speculative stocks, however, eased when the market opened today. Government promissory notes were steady.

The Irwin-Gandhi accord has accelerated preparations for the All-India Congress meeting at the end of this month, at which many of the delegates will be former prisoners. The wholesale release of some 25,000 political prisoners still held will begin Sunday.

The Gazette today published the government's cancellation of the various ordinances against unlawful assembly and the press, established during the height of the anti-British campaign last spring and summer. A parade of 1,500 congress volunteer corps members paraded during the day.

Newton Abbott, England, March 6 (U.P.).—Stanley Baldwin, leader of the Conservatives, today pledged his party to full cooperation in the effort to create a new system of government in India as outlined at the recent India round table conference.

"Our main objective," he said, "is an all-Indian federation. Meanwhile, we intend to give full support to the government of India in maintaining law and order."

Alluding to the native boycott of British goods, he said: "As a party, we intend to insist that in any future settlement of an Indian constitution there shall be a fundamental provision prohibiting unfair discrimination against British trade."

Actress Cleared of Spying Charge by Military Court

Beautiful Young Czechoslovak Film Star Declares Actions Were Intended to Prepare Her for Great Espionage Role Some Day.

Vienna, March 6 (A.P.).—A beautiful young Czechoslovak film star actress, Louise Malmax, was acquitted today of trying to spy out Austrian military secrets. She convinced a court her suspicious actions were merely practice for the role of a vampire spy which she hopes some day to play.

The world was a stage to her, she testified in her secret trial. She said she fell in love with Franz Brandner, a young cadet at a military college. Dramatizing her love affair, she pretended she was an international spy and asked him questions she admitted were indiscreet.

Cadet Brandner became frightened at the apparent attempts of the comely actress to obtain military information and reported her actions to his superiors. They had Miss Malmax arrested on charges of trying to obtain military secrets from a foreign power.

In prison awaiting trial, the actress became hysterical at the turn her harmless hoax had taken. She threw dishes at the guards and three weeks ago she swallowed broken glass in an attempted suicide. During her two-day trial she was given frequent hypodermic injections to deaden the pains resulting from her suicide effort. Yesterday, when she found her trial set for room 13, she threatened to jump out the window, and got it moved to room 12.

Acquitting her today, the judge said the actress had brought her troubles upon her self by her suspicious actions, but declared she was obviously innocent of the grave charges. "You merely liked to talk too much," he said, "and had a too lively imagination."

FIVE ARMY OFFICERS GET HIGHER RANKING

Three Are Made Major Generals and Two Brigadiers to Fill Vacancies.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Hurley announced yesterday the appointment of five general officers to fill vacancies in the Army.

Two brigadier generals and a colonel were promoted to the rank of major general and two colonels were appointed brigadier generals.

Col. Blanton Winship, of Macon, Georgia, was appointed judge advocate general of the Army with the rank of major general, replacing Maj. Gen. E. A. Kreger, who retired recently for physical disability.

Brig. Gen. Albert J. Bowley, of Westminister, Calif., was made a major general on the general staff in place of the late Maj. Gen. George L. Irwin.

Brig. Gen. Robert E. Callan, of Baltimore, Md., was made a major general and general staff officer ranking from April 1 to replace Maj. Gen. Charles P. Summerall, former chief of staff, who retires March 31.

Col. John F. Madden, of Sacramento, Calif., will take the rank of brigadier general to be vacated by Gen. Bowley. Col. Howard L. Laubach, of Allentown, Pa., now in command of the New York general depot, will take the brigadier generalship to be vacated through the promotion of Gen. Callan.

MRS. BENNETT WINS FREEDOM IN KILLING

Kansas City, March 6 (A.P.).—A verdict of acquittal today ended Mrs. Myrtle A. Bennett's bridge game slaying trial.

The jury charged with determining whether the 35-year-old widow feloniously killed her husband, John G. Bennett, freed her after deliberating eight and one-half hours. Upon hearing the verdict Mrs. Bennett wept, smiled and again was tearful.

"I thank you," she sobbed to the jury, as J. Francis O'Sullivan of defense counsel placed his arms about her to support her in her chair.

Former Senator James A. Reed, stood above her, gray-haired, and grim from two weeks of legal battling to establish that Bennett's death was accidental, and not the deliberate act of a wife enraged by her husband's slaps in a bridge game quarrel.

Talks to Mother.

Before leaving the court building, Mrs. Bennett hastened to telephone her 67-year-old mother, Mrs. Alice Adkins, who collapsed after taking the stand in her daughter's defense.

"It has been from first to last a frightful ordeal," Mrs. Bennett said. "The loss of my husband whom I loved, and then to be charged with his murder and subjected to this long trial, has been almost more than I could stand. Words can never express my thanks for my vindication."

Former Senator Reed, wearily retiring from the courtroom said: "Of course I am gratified. But I'm out of this criminal court business."

Cause of Quarrel.

A contract bridge bid four spades that wasn't fulfilled caused the quarrel between the Bennetts. Bennett and Mrs. Bennett were the opponents of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hofman in a Sunday evening game September 29, 1929, for stakes of one-tenth a cent a point.

Bennett bid one spade, Mrs. Hofman rasied to two diamonds, Mrs. Bennett jumped to four spades and Hofman doubled. Playing out the hand, Bennett went down two tricks. His wife called him a "bum bridge player."

It was testified Bennett became enraged, slapped his wife four or five times and rushed about the Bennett apartment, packing his clothes to leave.

Mrs. Bennett testified he told her he was leaving immediately on a business trip which he had planned for the next day and instructed her to bring his pistol which he was in the habit of carrying while on the road.

Bennett Rushed Forward.

She said she obtained the weapon from her mother's room and in approaching her husband stumbled against a chair. The weapon was discharged, she said, and Bennett rushed forward, twisted her arm as he grappled with her. The automatic pistol went off again, she testified, and her husband slumped to the floor.

"I'd rather have been dead myself," the sobbing widow told the jury in denying that she had fired deliberately.

A paperhanger and a building repair man testified they had seen Bennett slap his wife—once when he became enraged over finding a shirt unlaundered and again over a necktie.

The trial marked the return of Reed to the scene of early courtroom triumphs, where he made a name for himself as a vigorous prosecutor when he was beginning a political career that led to the United States Senate and candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1928.

Bennett, district representative of a perfume company, carried $30,000 in life insurance which will be the subject of litigation. The money will go to the widow if it is decided in the civil suits that she did not feloniously kill her husband. A verdict against her would permit payment of the insurance to Bennett's blood relatives.

Element of Time Clouds Testimony

20 Minutes Unaccounted For in Bowles Killing, State Claims.

Hillsboro, Oreg., March 6 (A.P.).—Stressing the time element in the mysterious death of Mrs. Leone Bowles, Portland society matron, the State introduced today statements of her husband, Nelson C. Bowles, and Miss Irma Loucks, jointly on trial for the murder.

The statements were made to officials the day after Mrs. Bowles was stabbed to death last November 12 in the apartment of Miss Loucks, former secretary to Bowles. The defense case is built around the contention Mrs. Bowles killed herself when she learned of her husband's unfaithfulness.

A matter of 20 minutes, yet unaccounted for, was the point about which testimony revolved today. Both statements declared Mrs. Bowles killed herself shortly after Bowles arrived.

ELLIOTT IS NAMED COMPTROLLER AID

Hoover Selects Representative Who Was Defeated to Fill Vacancy.

Former Representative Richard N. Elliott (Republican), of Indiana, yesterday was given a recess appointment by President Hoover as Assistant Comptroller General of the United States.

The new position of the former chairman of the public buildings committee of the House will mean a loss of $2,000 a year in salary. The Assistant Comptroller General receives $8,000 a year, but the appointment is for a period of fifteen years. This long term was decided on when the comptroller's office was created, so that the decisions of the Comptroller General and his chief assistant would not be subject to political pressure.

Announcement of the recess appointment was made at the White House late yesterday afternoon. The action of the President had been expected. Because Mr. Elliott's name was submitted to Congress and failed of formal confirmation, he will not be permitted to draw his salary until such time as Congress confirms his appointment.

Little doubt exists that the appointment will be confirmed. The nomination was favorably reported to the Senate at the session just closed by Senator Smoot, (Republican), Utah, and probably would have been formally approved by the Senate had it not been for the filibuster by Senator Thomas, (Democrat), Oklahoma.

Though there has been some caustic comment about the appointment of "lame ducks" to executive jobs in the Government on many occasions, the appointment of Mr. Elliott who was defeated in the last election, has raised no protest. As chairman of the public buildings commission of the House the Indiana Congressman, a veteran member of the House, has played a major part in furthering development of the National Capital.

The confidence of President Hoover in Mr. Elliott was made clear at the White House yesterday and in the last night session of the House his colleagues, tired, angry and in fighting mood, accorded him the honor of unanimously passing the last measure he asked action on.

Takoma Park Man Victim of Poison

Raymond Hoffman Expires After Being Found on Steps at Home.

Raymond Hoffman, 45, died in Washington Sanitarium last night, an hour after he had been admitted to be treated for poisoning. He had been removed to the institution from his home in Takoma Park, Md., by the volunteer fire department after being found lying on the steps leading into his house by his 15-year-old daughter, Magdalene.

The theory was expressed that Hoffman drank poison by mistake.

Miss Hoffman summoned J. N. Romm, Washington merchant and next-door neighbor, who notified the volunteer firemen, while his wife, Mrs. Helen Romm, was giving the victim an antidote.

Hoffman was pronounced dead by Dr. H. W. Middelsen, of the sanitarium staff. His wife, Lillian, also survives.

Actress Sues Author Of Book for $50,000

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—Cecil Spooner, actress, today started suit for $50,000 against Will W. Whalen, author of a book called "Costars: Cecil Spooner and Oscar Wilde."

She charges that the "dishonest, misleading, unique and extraordinary title is used solely for the purpose of deceiving the public." She denies that she knew Wilde and describes him as an "immoral, degenerate character."

contract for anything at a rate in excess of the proclaimed rate.

It also would authorize the President to license all business and decide the priority in which industry would fill orders.

Mr. Baruch said proposals for drafting capital were "crazy" because "every man with fair warning that his dollars were about to be taken away from him and never given back would cause them to disappear with amazing rapidity on the first rumor of war."

"Let the management run the plant and you run the management," he said.

Girls Held in Vice Probe to Go Free

Release of 48 Is Ordered in Reversal of Decision in New York.

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—Forty-eight girls, found by the Seabury inquiry into magistrates' courts to have been illegally committed to Bedford Reformatory on vice charges, must be freed without undergoing retrial. The appellate division of the Supreme Court so ruled today in reversing Supreme Court Justice Townley.

Referee Samuel Seabury's contention that the girls should be forthwith released followed revelation that many of them had been committed on charges trumped up by policemen seeking graft.

The ruling made today was in the case of Anna Peltz, one of the 48 girls who were brought to New York from Bedford some weeks ago to be released and taken back again when authorities couldn't agree on procedure.

DETECTIVE FIRM TAKES GORDON CASE

tragic end were revealed to her, was buried in Upper Darby on the western fringe of Philadelphia.

Benita, a high school girl, fearing to face the world, turned on the gas in the kitchen stove of her home in Audubon, N. J., last Tuesday.

Diary Told Story.

Before ending her life she had poured out her heart in a diary which plainly showed her feelings. Her father, John E. C. Bischoff, former husband of Vivian Gordon, had publicly stated the diary would be buried with his daughter, but at the last moment he decided to keep it in his possession, fearing the grave might be opened and the little book stolen. Cemetery officials placed a guard over the grave.

Funeral services for Benita were held in a funeral chapel at Collingswood, N. J., and were strictly private. A woman reporter who sought to gain admission to the chapel was recognized and held at a police station until the funeral was over.

The services were conducted by the Rev. J. Swain Garrison, of the Audubon Methodist Episcopal Church.

Eight schoolmates, all girls, carried the casket to the hearse.

Famous Burmese Pagoda Hit by Fire

Costly Tazaungs Containing Images Are Destroyed as Blaze Spreads.

Rangoon, Burma, March 6 (A.P.).—Fire starting in rubbish nearby today spread to the famous Shwe Dagon Pagoda and destroyed several costly tazaungs, or carved wooden structure containing images to which costly offerings are made.

The Pagoda, which tradition says was founded in 585 B. C., is one of the greatest pilgrimage shrines of Buddhism. Its magnificent gilding is one of the most remarkable sights in the East. The great Shwe Dagon Pagoda has particular sanctity to Buddhists because it is credited with containing actual relics of Gautama and the three Buddhas before him.

W. W. Easterday Draws Sentence

Former Arnstein Associate Sent to Atlanta for Three-and-Half Years.

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—W. W. Easterday, former prison mate of "Nicky" Arnstein, was sentenced to three and one-half years in Atlanta Penitentiary by Federal Judge Knox today. He was convicted Tuesday of using the mails to defraud in connection with his New York bucket shop.

Charles H. Greenhaus, one-time "boy wizard of Wall street," received a sentence of three years; Joseph Cataldo, two years, and Harry Greenhaus, younger brother of Charles, thirteen months. In addition, each prisoner was sentenced to five additional years, to be suspended during good behavior.

Trio Hurt in Explosion Of Bomb in Cathedral

Mexico City, March 6 (A.P.).—Three persons were injured and great confusion resulted today when two bombs were exploded in the doorway of the cathedral at Jalapa, in the State of Vera Cruz, during morning services. The bombing was believed to have been perpetrated by Communist sympathizers.

Two hundred children had just filed out of the door when the explosions occurred. All of them escaped injury. No one has been found who saw the bombs placed under the floor just in the doorway and no arrests have been made.

College Men Get Chain-Store Jobs

Graduates of West Virginia Business Colleges Are Entertained.

Twenty-five graduates of West Virginia Business Colleges at Fairmont and Clarksburg, W. Va., who have been given positions in Washington by the Sanitary Grocery Co., were entertained at a dinner last night at the Raleigh Hotel at which C. G. Shafer, vice president of the college at Fairmont, was host.

Addresses were made to the young men by E. F. Morgan, former governor of West Virginia and now solicitor in the Department of Commerce; R. Whitmer, personnel manager of the Sanitary Grocery Co.; T. B. Cain, president of the West Virginia Business College at Clarksburg, W. V., and Inspector A. L. Headley, of the Washington Police Department.

Announcement was made at the dinner that 100 young men and women graduates of the colleges are to be given positions in the Washington Sanitary Grocery Stores each year. They will be started as salesmen and saleswomen and will be given the opportunity to work up to the positions of assistant store managers and managers. A dinner will be given each year in Washington to the graduates.

Woman Mistakes Poison for Tablet

Fall Injures Her Head After Eating Drug in Dark; Is in Hospital.

Mrs. Marie A. Krouse, 37, was in a serious condition at Georgetown Hospital last night with a possible fracture of the skull and suffering from the effects of three poison tablets which she took by mistake in her Kensington home.

Realizing that she had taken the wrong capsules in the bathroom, which was not lighted, she staggered downstairs and told her husband. She fainted, her head striking the floor heavily.

Mr. Krouse telephoned Dr. Eugene Jones who prescribed an antidote to be administered while he was en route to the house. On his arrival, he removed the woman to Georgetown Hospital after further treatment.

Democrat Claims Race on Recount

Mauch Chunk, Pa., March 6 (A.P.).—Friends of Everett Kent, Democrat, today claimed a majority of 132 votes for him over William R. Coyle, Republican, in the disputed congressional election in the Thirtieth Pennsylvania district last November.

On the face of the official returns, Coyle had been declared elected by a majority of 882 in the district. Kent contested the election and his friends petitioned for the reopening of ballot boxes in Carbon County, one of three counties composing the district.

Eight boxes in the county were opened and recounted and, according to friends of Kent, gave him the 132 majority.

Judge William G. Thomas, of the Carbon County Court, is expected to rule next week on a charge of fraud in the congressional election.

CUBAN 'HIGHER-UPS' LINKED IN BOMB QUIZ

Most of the laboratories' valuable collection of specimens was destroyed and considerable property damage done in the outrage.

The implication that members of congress and other political opponents to the Machado regime might be involved in the plots recalled the attempt to assassinate the president on the night of February 23, a week ago last Monday. A bomb was placed in a bathroom of the palace. The machine exploded early in the morning—but it was on the floor above Machado's apartments. The bathroom was wrecked, but no one was hurt.

Many of the bombs exploded have contained tear gas or a quantity of powder sufficient to make a frightening noise, but do little damage. The police are working on the theory that the gang, or its "patrons," sought only to cause disturbances and unrest in an effort to arouse uneasiness and keep the people in turmoil in order that they might be ready for an uprising against Machado.

NEW RECTOR

DR. THOMAS F. OPIE, who has accepted a call to St. Bartholomew's Church at Olney, Md.

CHURCH IN OLNEY GETS NEW RECTOR

Rev. T. F. Opie Noted for His Effective Work in Parish in Burlington, N. C.

The Rev. Thomas F. Opie, D. D. rector of the Church of the Holy Comforter at Burlington, N. C., has accepted a call to St. Bartholomew's Church, Olney, Md., in the Diocese of Washington. He will be installed formally very shortly.

The new member of the diocesan clerical family has a splendid reputation in the Episcopal Church not only as a devoted pastor, an eloquent preacher and capable executive, but also as a writer chiefly on religious themes for church periodicals and the secular press. He has had several books published.

Dr. Opie passed eight years in Burlington, where he was one of the leading religious figures in that section of the South. During his rectorship of the Church of the Holy Comforter he organized a free community kindergarten, serving 700 boys and girls, with a mother's club and playground. He held a special mission for the deaf with services in the sign language—also weekly Bible class and deaf circle of the Woman's Auxiliary and religious motion picture services. One of his special interests was clinics for crippled people and babies. Dr. Opie built a parish house and greatly increased the membership and activity of the parish with more baptisms and confirmations than in any ten-year period previously.

The new rector of St. Bartholomew's Church is married. His wife is a composer, pianist and singer and was a leader in the choir of the Church of the Holy Comforter in Burlington, where she recently organized a children's choir. Some of her original compositions were published by a leading music house in New York City. At one time Mrs. Opie was president of the Burlington Music Club and president of the Piedmont District of the Music Federation.

Dr. Opie is a native of Staunton, Va. He is an alumnus of Washington and Lee University.

Dr. and Mrs. Opie have arrived in Olney, and he is already taking up his new duties.

Men's Bible Class To Hold Service

Rev. Mark Depp to Preach at Calvary Methodist Church.

Tomorrow evening, at the Calvary Methodist Church, on Columbia road, the Men's Bible Class will have charge of the service. About 100 men of the class will sit together in reserved space. Invitations to attend have been extended to the men of similar classes throughout the city and it is expected that a large number of visiting men will occupy a block of seats in the auditorium.

The Rev. Mark Depp, Calvary's pastor, will, at the invitation of the Men's Class, deliver the address.

Mrs. Ruth Bronson Logan will render a violin solo "Andante Cantabile," by Tschaikowsky, and the ladies' chorus will sing "Faith, Hope and Love," by Shelley. A ten-minute organ recital will be given by Louis A. Potter, commencing at 7:50.

Preachers, Next Week, At Epiphany Announced

The preacher at the Lenten noonday services at the Church of the Epiphany, Monday to Friday inclusive, will be the Rev. R. Cary Montague, of Richmond.

The addresses at the afternoon services at 4:45 will be delivered by different ministers. Monday, the Rev. John Temple, rector of Christ Church, Georgetown; Tuesday, the Rev. Alvin Lamar Wills; Wednesday, the Rev. James W. Morris; Thursday, the Rev. P. Bland Tucker, rector, St. John's Church, Georgetown, and Friday, John E. Hines, undergraduate of the Virginia Theological Seminary.

Covenant Men's Society Planning Indoor Games

The Men's Society of the Covenant-First Presbyterian Church is initiating a new plan of entertainment. They will meet each Monday night in the recreation room of the church at 8 o'clock to enjoy the new equipment of indoor golf, Ping pong tables, chess and checker boards, &c., also have been installed.

Various contests will be initiated and, perhaps, challenges sent out to other men's societies. L. M. Proctor, L. L. Spessard and Dr. Albert Joseph McCartney constitute the committee in charge of these indoor sports. The men of the congregation are most enthusiastic over it.

Labor Leader to Speak in Church.

Mr. Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, will speak at the meeting of the adult discussion group of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. His subject will be "The Ideals of Labor."

Will Conduct Healing Service.

The Rev. Clyde Brown, rector of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, Hyattsville, will conduct the Christian healing service at the Church of St. Stephen and the Incarnation, Sixteenth and Newton streets northwest, Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Sentence Sermons

By the REV. SAMUEL JUDSON PORTER
(Pastor First Baptist Church, Washington, D. C.)

Sensing Christ

IN a series of paintings on the ceiling of the Library of Congress the Senses are idealized as beautiful young women. Taste is sipping from a shell; Touch is looking with delight upon a butterfly that has alighted on her arm; Smell inhales the fragrance of a full-blown rose; Sight contemplates her own face in a hand glass; Hearing presses to her ear a shell which murmurs of the sea. As truly as through the region of the five senses we experience the material world, there is another region fronting spiritward through which immediate commerce can be established with Christ. This is the plain teaching of Scripture and is attested by an age-long line of Christian experience.

We have direct sensing powers to which Christ is as truly revealed as we know the existence of objects perceived through the bodily senses. Our physical senses illustrate and emphasize these powers of spiritual perception; so that we are called to hear, to see, and to taste; thus testing and appropriating God. So also we are told of those who "feel after God," while in Isaiah xi:3 the words "And his delight shall be in the fear of the Lord," if more literally rendered, would read, "And he shall be of quickened scent to discover the fear of the Lord." Thus all the senses, seeing, hearing, tasting, feeling and smelling, illustrate the soul's quest of God and its entrance into relations with Him.

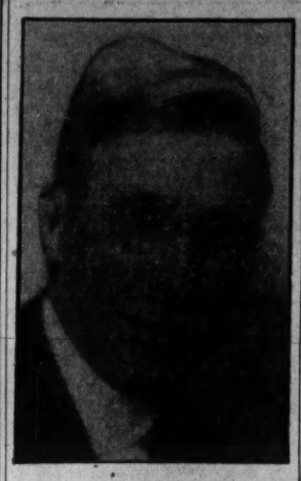
PLANS REVIVAL



DR. JOHN COMPTON BALL, pastor of Metropolitan Baptist Church, who will have two young women preach and sing for him.

2 BAPTIST WOMEN WILL LEAD REVIVALS

Came Here From Detroit to Hold Services 3 Weeks at Metropolitan.

Dr. John Compton Ball, pastor of the Metropolitan Baptist Church, Sixth and A streets northeast, where he has been for more than a generation, has invited two nationally known young women evangelists, Miss Amy Lee Stockton and Miss Rita Gould, of California, to hold a revival at his church. They will begin tomorrow.

Miss Gould will lead a large chorus choir and will sing solos, and Miss Stockton will deliver the gospel message. This revival will hold for three weeks.

These young ladies have just completed successful evangelistic meetings in Detroit, Grand Rapids and Buffalo, and write Pastor Ball that they were amazed at the interest manifested in those places.

Themes Next Week.

Miss Stockton's themes for the week are as follows:

Sunday morning—"The Need of the Hour." Miss Gould will sing "Awake, O Church of Christ."

Sunday evening—"What Does the World Need Most?" Enthusiastic song service. Miss Gould will sing "Give Me Jesus."

Monday—"On to Victory." Regimental review. Every soldier out for inspection and answer to roll call. Regimental colors on display. Miss Gould will sing, "Go On With the Lord."

Topics on Wednesday.

Wednesday—"Behold He Cometh: When?" What prophecies have been fulfilled in 1930? What are the signs of the times? Miss Gould will sing "When Jesus Comes."

Thursday—"Do I Preach a Book of Myths or Miracles?" Bible night and a community bread line. A satisfying portion to every one. Hear Miss Gould sing, "The Wonderful Book."

Friday—Rainbow chorus for boys and girls. This will be an entirely new program. Miss Gould will meet the boys and girls from our Bible School each afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in preparation for this meeting. You never heard anything like it. Come!

Meetings will be held every night except Saturday at 7:45 o'clock.

Calvary Baptist Class To Greet Store Men

The Vaughn Class, of Calvary Baptist Church, will have as special guests tomorrow morning the men employes of Woodward & Lothrop's store. They will be headed by W. W. Everett, vice president and general manager of the store and past president of the class, who will preside.

Dr. Homer J. Councilor, general superintendent of the Sunday school, will extend the greeting and William Knowles Cooper will teach the lesson. There will be special music by the Woodlothian Quartet and the class orchestra.

Secretary to Preach At Christian Church

The Rev. C. N. Williams, district secretary of the Christian Missionary Society for Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia, will occupy the pulpit of the National City Christian Church tomorrow at both services.

Mr. Williams was local secretary of the World Convention of the Disciples of Christ held in Washington last October. He has had many years of experience in connection with the business side of religious life.

First Congregational To Hear Dr. Boynton

Dr. Nehemiah Boynton, of New York, one of the eminent preachers of the Congregational denomination, will preach tomorrow morning and evening at First Congregational Church, Tenth and G streets northwest. Dr. Boynton is a former moderator of the National Council of Congregational Churches.

J. A. C. F. Auer, professor of theology in Harvard University, will speak at the Howard University religious services tomorrow at 11 o'clock.

HONOR FROM FRANCE IS GIVEN TOMORROW

Degree of Doctor of Divinity Will Be Bestowed on Rev. F. Vurpillot.

As a special feature of the French service at St. John's Church, Lafayette Square, Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, the pastor of the French congregation of that church, the Rev Florian Vurpillot, will receive the diploma of docteur en theologie, honoris causa, from the Faculte de Theologie Protestante of Paris, the institution from which he was graduated some years ago. This distinction has been conferred upon only three other persons in the United States.

The diploma and accompanying insignia will be presented by the Rev. Dr. J. A. Maynard, rector of the French Episcopal Church of St. Esprit, in New York, who comes to Washington as the special representative of the Paris faculty for this ceremony. Following the presentation Dr. Maynard will preach.

Founded by Huguenots.

The French church in New York, of which Dr. Maynard is rector, was founded in the seventeenth century by refugee Huguenots and is one of the oldest churches in the United States.

Instead of the hood of American and other universities, recipients of degrees from universities in France and other Latin countries wear what is termed an apitoga, a kind of stole worn on the left shoulder. In the present instance it has three bands of ermine, representing the doctorate, on purple silk, the color for theology. Each major branch of learning is designated in France by a different color, the other colors being old gold for letters and different shades of red for science, law and medicine.

Transferred to Paris.

The Faculte de Theologie was originally a part of the University of Strasbourg, but after the loss of Alsace in 1870 it was transferred to Paris and affiliated with the university there. It was at Paris that Dr. Vurpillot pursued his studies and graduated.

The French services at St. John's Church were started by Dr. Vurpillot during Lent in 1927 and have been continued each winter since then. They are held every Sunday at 4 p. m. and on Fridays at 4:45. The entire service is in French.

Churches to Give Pageant in Lent

"Men Shall See Visions" to Be Presented During Week of March 23.

Under the auspices of the Washington Federation of Churches, and with the cooperation of representatives of various denominations in the District of Columbia, the committee on drama and pageantry of the federation, is making plans to present a Lenten drama, "Men Shall See Visions," being the symbolic quest of the Holy Grail by the Christian knight, Galahad, based upon the poem of the Holy Grail by Tennyson, the Abbey paintings of the Holy Grail, in the Boston Public Library, and the Parsifal music by Wagner.

A cast of 100 players is rapidly being assembled from the various churches in Washington for the presentation of this symbolic legend, so spiritually appropriate to the Lenten season. It will be given in a prominent midcity church during the week of March 23.

Eastern Men's Class Has Annual Election

The men's Bible class of Eastern Presbyterian Church elected the following officers to serve for the year beginning April 1: Teacher, George H. Winslow, twenty-first year; president, J. C. Rundles; first vice president, T. J. McAdams; second vice president, Earl J. Bush; secretary, R. E. West; assistant secretary, Beverly M. Leache; treasurer, J. P. Hunnicutt; assistant treasurer, J. C. Kauffman, and social secretary, D. J. Roberts.

The class voted to become an associate member of the Gideon Society and the budget for the new year was increased 40 per cent over last year's. The class will attend the joint services to be held at the Calvary Methodist Church Sunday evening.

Petworth Methodists To Visit in Baltimore

On Friday evening the Petworth Methodist congregation will journey to Baltimore to attend the Gospel Crusade conducted in that city by Dr. George W. Cooke at the Caroline Street Methodist Episcopal Church.

Dr. Cooke recently closed a crusade at the Petworth Church, and the large number of friends he has left here are planning the visit. Buses have been chartered for the trip and will leave Petworth Church, Grant Circle and New Hampshire avenue, at 6:30 Friday evening. Plans have been made for at least 100 to make the trip.

Dr. Patterson to Preach Farewell at Covenant

Dr. Newton Preston Patterson, associate minister to the Covenant-First Presbyterian Church, will preach his farewell service to the members of his congregation Sunday morning.

Dr. Patterson has resigned as associate minister to accept the invitation to become minister of the First Presbyterian Church, San Jose, Calif. He became associate minister of the Covenant-First Church when the old First Presbyterian Church, of this city, of which he was minister, merged in July, 1930, with the Covenant Church.

Purim Celebration To Show Deliverance

A Purim celebration, commemorating the deliverance of the Jews of Persia from the hands of the wicked Haman, will take place at the Tifereth Israel Synagogue, Fourteenth and Euclid streets northwest, tomorrow at 6:30 p. m. under the auspices of the Hebrew school of the congregation.

A program has been arranged by the school committee, under the chairmanship of S. Goodman.

Reformation Topic of Dr. Phillips.

Dr. Z. B. Phillips, rector of the Church of the Epiphany, will continue his series of special lecture-sermons on the history of the Christian Church tomorrow evening, when he will speak on the Reformation.

CURRENT EVENTS IN VIRGINIA AND MARYLAND

STATE ROAD WORK BEGINS MONDAY

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 500. Clarendon, Va.

Prior to the opening of bids for the widening of the Lee highway from Hall's Hill to the corporate line of Falls Church, contractors will be taken over the highway Thursday morning, March 12, according to an announcement last night made by resident State Highway Engineer Robert I. Mount. The bids will be opened Tuesday, March 17, at Richmond.

The highway according to the specifications will be widened from 18 to 28 feet.

The project will show the Lee Highway widened to width of 28 feet from Rosslyn to Falls Church. With the camp completed which will house the 100 convicts who will work on the Lee boulevard, Mount stated yesterday that work of clearing the right of way will start on Monday.

Yesterday a survey party was at work laying out the right of way.

Mrs. E. M. Moreland, of Lyon Park, has been appointed secretary of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Harold E. Stelle.

Notices went out yesterday for the meeting of the board of directors which will be held in the new headquarters in the Kelley Building Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Frank A. Parkhust, of Lyon Park, who has been retired from the Navy Yard gun factory after 28 years of active service, left yesterday for Pittsburgh, where he will make an extended visit with his daughter, Mrs. Roland Hyett.

According to the records in the county clerk's office the State Corporation Commission has granted a charter to the Mount Vernon Land and Lumber Co., with principal offices in Lee Heights.

According to the charter the corporation will buy, sell, exchange and generally deal in real improved and unimproved property.

The maximum capital stock will be 100 shares without nominal or par value. The officers are: I. S. Culver, president and treasurer; E. M. Reese, vice president, and A. B. Honts, secretary.

Members of the board of directors are: I. S. Culver, and E. M. Reese.

President E. L. Bennett asks all members and those interested in the development of the community and county to attend this meeting.

Mrs. Albert H. Cohen, president of the Business and Professional Woman's Club of Arlington County, accompanied by Mrs. Pearl Sharp, Mrs. D. R. Collins, Mrs. Dorothy J. Dunn and Mrs. N. Rex Hunt left yesterday for Lynchburg, Va., where they will attend a meeting of the Board of the Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs of the State. The meeting has been called, it is understood, to formulate plans for the annual State convention to be held July 6 at Richmond, Va.

J. G. Pepper, of Barcroft, last night announced that he will be a candidate for membership on the county board of five, which replaces the present three members of the Board of Supervisors.

Mr. Pepper has been a resident of Arlington County for 26 years.

In addition to the announcement of Mr. Pepper, there are already two candidates in the field. They are Dr. Frank T. Stone, president of the Clarendon Trust Co., and George M. Yeatman, president of the Ashton Heights Citizens Association.

Funeral services for Jonah R. Donaldson, 73 years old, who died at his home, 215 Girault avenue, Virginia Highlands, Thursday, will be conducted from the home Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial will be in Glenwood Cemetery.

The Creative Arts Club, of Arlington County, will hold its monthly meeting Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Mary Perkins Snyder, 111 Clarendon avenue. Mrs. Snyder will be assisted by Miss Peggy Kearney and Miss Margaret Broxton.

The evening's program will include a group of soprano solos by Mrs. Virginia Simmerman, with Mrs. Sade Catherine Coles at the piano.

Bruce Kilgore, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kilgore, of Clarendon, narrowly escaped injury when he fell from a truck on Garrison road yesterday morning while on his way to the Washington-Lee High School.

More than 200 persons attended the benefit oyster supper given last night by the ladies auxiliary to the Cherrydale Fire Department. The supper was given in the auditorium of the Firemen's Hall.

Mrs. A. V. Thomas has been elected president of the Missionary Society of the Cherrydale Methodist Protestant Church. Other officers are Mrs. Frank Van Doren, vice president; Mrs. Fred Dertzbach, secretary, and Mrs. Doorman, treasurer.

Services tomorrow at the Clarendon Presbyterian Church will be conducted by the pastor, the Rev. Isaac Steenson. At the morning service his subject will be "The Great Commission." In the evening, at 8 o'clock, there will be a song service followed by Questionnaire Period: "How Will Chirst Come Again?"

POLITICAL CAMPAIGN OPENED IN BEDFORD

F. K. Saunders, G. G. Ballard Make Announcements of Candidacies.

Special to The Washington Post.

Bedford, Va., March 6—The county political campaign opened actively here today with the public announcement of two candidates, Frank K. Saunders for treasurer, and Garrett G. Ballard for commissioner of revenue.

Mr. Saunders is the eldest son of the late W. R. Saunders, who was widely known in the county as a tobacconist. He is a veteran of the World War and is captain of the local military company, Company A 116th Virginia Infantry. He is a member of the firm of the Peoples Garage, Inc.

Mr. Ballard is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Ballard, of Bedford. He has farming interests in the county and operates a large dairy on the northside. For some years he has been connected with Peoples Garage.

Announcement of other candidates is expected soon.

University Plans For Debating Tests

Virginia Team Selection to Be Made by 3 Judges on Forensic Value.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., March 6.—Tryouts, for the University of Virginia debating team will be held next Monday, with all regular students eligible to compete. There will be three judges, one of whom will be Dr. C. W. Paul, coach of the debating team. The judges will select three men to represent the university. Judgment will be made on the standpoint of forensic ability.

The subject to be discussed is the same as the subject of the coming debate with the University of North Carolina: "Resolved, That the talking movies in this country during the next ten years will promote civilization more than they will retard it." Contestants in the try-outs may defend either side of the question.

The three men who are chosen to make up the varsity debating team will journey to Richmond about the last of April, where they will meet the representatives of North Carolina. In this debate, which will be broadcast, no judges' decision will be rendered. However, the listeners-in will be invited to advance their impressions as to which side argued its case the more convincingly.

Winners Listed In Herd Contest

Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., March 6. — The monthly report of the Loudoun County Dairy Herd Improvement Association shows that in group No. 1, Nichols and Hindman had a high herd with an average production of 698 pounds of milk and 33.1 pounds of butterfat. $100 HIT-RUN FINE APPEALED BY DRIVER

Marlboro Man Admits Crash, but Declares That He Left Scene Frightened.

Ignatius M. Mayhew, of Marlboro, was fined $100 yesterday in Police Court on a hit-and-run charge arising out of the death Sunday of Henry Garner, also of Marlboro. Mayhew, through George Merrick, his attorney, filed an appeal from the fine and was released on bond of $500.

Police say that Mayhew became frightened after his car struck the young farmer, who was walking on the road, and left the scene. He returned about an hour later, however. Mayhew pleaded not guilty to the charge. A coroner's jury freed Mayhew of blame in the accident.

Percy Rawlings, of Bowie, who was struck on the head by two colored men recently during a fight near that town, was fined a total of $135 on three traffic charges. He was committed to jail in default of the fine, after being convicted of driving while drunk, reckless driving and having no license. The first charge cost him $100, the second $25 and the third $10.

Albert E. Norton, agent for a Washington bottling company, was fined $50 for failing to register a soft drink. He pleaded guilty. The case against Rex Ward, driver for another company, was continued for a week.

Conviction on a charge of being disorderly in the office of Judge Harry I. Anderson when being arraigned cost Clarence E. Hamilton, of New Hampshire avenue near M street northwest, $5 in addition to his fine on two traffic charges. He was fined $100 for driving while drunk and $1 for reckless driving. He was committed to jail.

According to Deputy Sheriff A. C. Thompson, Hamilton abused the judge and spit on the floor of his office.

Vernon J. Worsham, who gave an address on Eighth street northeast near L street, forfeited $101 on charges of driving while drunk and reckless driving. He was arrested by State Policeman W. A. Rogers. Jesse Green, of Massachusetts avenue near Thirteenth street northwest, forfeited $10 for having no license.

Simon Crowdy, of Forestville, was fined $5 on a charge of being drunk and disorderly and $10 for assault and battery on Elizabeth Crowdy. The woman swore out both warrants. Crowdy was committed in default of his fine. Joseph Weems was committed to the House of Reformation by Judge J. Chew Sheriff on a charge of incorrigibility.

Harry Sheinbaum, of Ontario road northwest near Euclid street northwest, was fined $5 for reckless driving. The charge arose out of a collision between his machine and one driven by John F. Burgess, of 1018 G street southeast at Silver Hill. Two other traffic charges against the man were dismissed.

George Stewart, of Boulevard Heights, was fined $10 for having fictitious markers and $5 for not having his car titled. Albert Maske paid $5 for being drunk and disorderly and $2 for assault and battery on Charles F. Maske.

Careful study of the necessity for the State's construction of the Lanham-Severn road was promised by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie to a delegation in favor of the new route to Baltimore.

The governor admitted the road was desirable, but pointed out that a bond issue of $750,000 for the construction would raise the State tax rate.

In addition to the Prince Georges and Anne Arundel delegations, those who called on the governor were Noah Joffe, president of the Lanham-Severn Road Association; J. T. Graham, chairman of the executive committee of the association; John E. Nichol, George W. Morgan, Jacob Berlin, J. W. Ryon, Edward S. Perkins, John Watts, and Frank S. Reverdy.

The milk fund drive of the Exchange Club of Prince Georges County will end today if the goal of $100 is found to be reached when the money boxes distributed in the county are collected. If this sum is not reached, it is possible that the drive will be continued.

Money boxes were placed in stores in the north end of the county early this week. Nearly all of them contain something, but no estimate has been made of the total amount. The milk is being furnished by the Harvey Dairy at 10 cents a quart, 5 cents less than the usual cost. Eleven quarts daily are being distributed by the club from its own funds.

Following a conference of a committee of Bowie citizens and the county's delegation to the Legislature, it was announced that the school bond issue bill would contain some provision for repairs to the present high and graded school.

A new school for Bowie was asked, but was not included in the recommendations of the school board. Repairs to the present school include an addition of two rooms, installation of fire escapes and a new heating plant at an estimated cost of $25,000.

The Bowie delegation included Albert Gantt, chairman of the board of trustees of the school; Mrs. Clara Baden, president of the Parent-Teacher Association; Robert Weagley, principal; Jacob Berlin, J. W. Ryon, Mr. and Mrs. Millard Schaefer, Mrs. Nettie Fowler, Mrs. Harry Kuhel and Mrs. William Quinn. Delegates J. Guy Bell, Kent R. Mullikin and Charles C. Marbury represented the legislators.

The Maryland branch of the Susan B. Anthony Foundation, Inc., has gone on record as being opposed to compulsory jury service for women in a letter written by Mrs. Virginia Peters Parkhurst, of Berwyn, to the State Legislature. Mrs. Parkhurst is president of the State branch of the foundation.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., March 6.—Maj. Gen. Richmond P. Davis, of Washington, has been designated to represent the War Department at the reserve officers' convention, to be held at the Farmington Country Club, March 14. Gen. Davis will make the principal address at the banquet.

Maj. Gen. John A. Lejune will also make an address. Maj. Gen. F. W. Sladen, commanding the Third Corps Area, will be unable to attend, but will be represented by Col. George T. Bowman, a member of his staff.

Brig. Gen. S. Gardner Waller, acting adjutant general of Virginia, expects to attend and talk.

OYSTER PROTECTIVE MEASURE IN HOUSE

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 6.—Passage of a number of bills by either the Senate or House, introduction of several new measures, progress of others through regular channels by way of committee reports, and sounding the death knell of three, marked the closing day of the ninth week of the Maryland General Assembly's 90-day session here today. Added interest was given the day's proceedings by a hearing given several hundred persons from all parts of the State opposed to the antibillboard measure by coming on the heels of the demonstration of yesterday when those who would have the scenic beauty of the State highways preserved, had their say.

An important measure affecting the oyster industry of both Maryland and Virginia made its appearance in the House today, when an admnistration bill that would close the waters of the Potomac River to dredgers and scrapers for six years was introduced in the Senate. The bill is sponsored jointly by President Walter J. Mitchell (Democrat), Charles County, and Senator Allan Coad (Democrat), St. Marys County.

Bars Dredge Scrapers.

This bill is the outgrowth of conference between conservation officials of Maryland and Virginia. It is pointed out that dredgers and scrapers have worked the river so incessantly that oyster bars have become greatly depleted. Any vessel equipped with a dredge or scrape will be regarded as prima facie evidence of violation of the proposed law, and forfeiture of the cargoes of those found guilty is provided.

A fish bill that finally passed through legislative channels was that adding February to the open season for taking shad and herring. It originated in the Senate and passed the House and now goes to the governor.

Three Bills Killed.

Three election bills were killed in the Senate through the medium of unfavorable reports. One, sponsored by Senator Altfeld, Baltimore City, was the absentee voters proposal, providing that persons absent from the State could vote by mail under certain circumstances; the second, by Senator Beck, Kent County, providing that all nominated candidates be required to place filing fees, and the third, by Senator Frick, Baltimore City, proposed proportional representation in the elector college, that is, permitting the State's delegates to cast split votes for one or more candidates in national conventions. The Senate also killed the bill by Senator Frick, Baltimore City, to tax malt syrup and extracts.

The Senate passed the measure proposing a postponement of the general tax assessment until 1935, after it was amended to permit Baltimore City to continue under its present system. The bill, which was originated by Senator McIntosh, Baltimore County, originally provided for a delay until 1937. Under existing law such assessments are held every five years.

Seek High Commissions.

The six members of the Allegany County delegation sponsored a bill to increase the commissions allowed for collection of taxes. The proposed law would raise the rate from 1 to 1½ per cent, and remove $3,500 as the maximum amount that would go to one agent under present law.

Three bills relating to the preservation of fish in waters of Washington County were offered in the House by Delegate Raymond Miller, and Delegate Bushong, of the same county, sponsored a measure to make the State antibookmaking law applicable to Washington County. When the law was originally passed, the county was exempted from its operation. It is understood this latter bill is directed as a bar against betting on races held in connection with the annual fair at Hagerstown.

Slayer of Housekeeper Gets Life Sentence

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., March 6.—Chester A. G. Smith, 45, found guilty by a jury in court here Tuesday of first degree murder, growing out of the fatal shooting of his former housekeeper, Mrs. Annie Smith, 33, was sentenced to life in the Maryland penitentiary this afternoon by Judge Frank G. Wagaman.

Smith shot the woman as she walked with a rival, Earl Griffith, and then tried to shoot Griffith, but a cartridge failed to explode. In his defense, he testified that God told him to kill the woman. The prosecution contended he shot the woman because of jealousy.

Tobacco Selling Season Is Closed

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., March 6.—The Danville tobacco selling season came to a close today with 200,000 pounds as the final offering. The season receipts totaled 50,221,787 pounds and sold for $4,678,724.82 the average price being $9.03 per 100 pounds.

The average was the lowest since the year 1924 and the season generally was unprofitable to the farmers for three reasons, the drought, which produced a bad crop; economic conditions and excessive acreage or more production than the trade could conveniently consume.

The close of the season found growers working to form a tobacco cooperative and with the belief that the next crop will be greatly reduced through the inability of farmers to buy fertilizer.

MONTGOMERY BILLS PUT BEFORE HOUSE

$2,144,000 Bond Issue for County Schools Urged in Legislature.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 6—Eight Democratic administration measures embracing legislation for Montgomery County, including a bond issue for a school construction program, and regulating compensation officials were introduced in the House of Delegates today. They are sponsored by four Democrats, Dr. George Edmonds, chairman; Miss Lavinia Engle, Marvin Farrington and Odorion W. Roby.

The principal measure authorizes the commissioners to issue $2,144,000 in bonds for the construction, repair and equipment of school buildings. Funds would be divided in three allotments designated as general construction bonds for 1931, 1932, and 1933. Specifically $1,055,000 would be for 1931, $1,000,000 for 1932, and $89,000, for 1933. Expenditures would be under jurisdiction of the county board of education.

The commissioners would be empowered to levy $1,500 annually for the County Farm Bureau to be used in aiding farmers in marketing their products and in disseminating agricultural information under provisions of a second bill. Similarly the commissioners are authorized to levy for $1,400 as the salary for the director of the Home Demonstration Bureau.

Salary of $3,000.

A bill provides for an annual salary of $3,000 for the fourth veterinarian, who conducts tubercular tests of cattle, the county commissioners to provide that sum in the regular tax levy.

Another bill authorizes an increase in the number of police officers of the county to 27, by appointing 2 additional sergeants, 1 additional first-class patrolman and also provides compensation for 4 park policemen and establishment of a bureau of criminal identification.

Power for dividing any election precinct or district of the county would be vested in the board of supervisors of elections under provisions of a bill.

To provide more police protection for the fourth, seventh and thirteenth election districts of the county a proposed act empowering the commissioners to appoint additional constables. Another measure provides for placing the judges and clerks of elections on a per diem basis, and fixes additional compensation for overtime service.

Clerks of Registration.

Judges and clerks of registration who serve in the same capacity at elections will be paid at the rate of $10 and $8, respectively, and a ten-hour day, and 50 cents per hour for overtime, under the provisions of the proposed act.

Provisions for incorporating the Town of Seat Pleasant, Prince Georges County, scene of the Brady bombing on New Year's Day, 1930, is made in a bill introduced by Delegate William F. Keyes. Government of the city would be vested in a mayor and common council, the latter to consist of five, and all to serve without pay.

Persons seeking the offices must be property owners of at least two years residence and at least 25 years old. The bill carries the usual regulations for the government of municipal corporations and provides for a referendum of the questions of incorporation to be by qualified voters of the area.

VIRGINIA PAIR KILLED AS AUTO OVERTURNS

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., March 6.—Miss Beulah Basham, 23, and Wyatt Pick, 28, were killed, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Coleman of Lynchburg, were hurt this morning about 1:30 o'clock in an automobile accident 40 miles south of Lynchburg. They were returning to Lynchburg when the mishap occurred.

The car left the highway, struck a tree and turned over. Mr. Pick's neck was broken and Miss Basham's skull fractured. Mr Coleman and his wife, with numerous cuts and bruises, were brought to Baptist Hospital here. They are not seriously hurt. Mr. Pick assisted Mr Coleman in lifting the car off Mrs. Coleman and then fell unconscious. He died before they could get him to Brookneal.

Mr. Coleman said the steering gear locked and caused the accident.

Mr. Pick is survived by his widow and three brothers and three sisters. Miss Basham, a shoe factory worker, came here five years ago from Bedford County.

Sick Parents' Plea Wins Freedom for Prisoner

Portsmouth, N. H., March 6 (A.P.).—An appeal on behalf of the sick parents of Benjamin T. Cripp, former captain in the United States Marine Corps, led today to his discharge from the Portsmouth naval prison. He had served four and one-half years of a ten year term for disorderly conduct. His parents live in Flint, Mich.

He was appointed to the Marine Corps from Maryland.

LEGGE GIVES IT UP.

Alexander Legge's resignation as chairman of the Farm Board will be generally regarded as a confession of failure, notwithstanding the limitation he placed upon his term of service when he accepted office.

The Farm Board was driven to the alternative of an immediate breakdown or a gigantic plunge in the wheat market. It chose the latter, and from that time it has been extremely difficult to defend its operations against the charge of "price fixing." Mr. Legge probably saw long ago that the chance of emerging successfully from this daring plunge was very small, and that the chairman of the Farm Board at the time of the smash would be held accountable for the failure. He decided to leave before the catastrophe.

The new chairman of the board, James C. Stone, is well qualified to succeed Mr. Legge, and possibly different methods of approach may bring about better cooperation between the farmers and the Farm Board. The inherent difficulties remain, however, and there is no indication that farmers generally will give the cooperation that is indispensable to the success of the plan which the board is charged to set up. This plan contemplates the substitution of farmers' organizations for private enterprise in the marketing of farm products, but this reform, even if effected, will not give prosperity to farmers unless they also adjust their output to the market demand. They have turned a deaf ear to Mr. Legge in this particular. There is no coordination whatever in the United States between wheat output and wheat consumption. Consequently it does not matter much whether farm cooperatives do the marketing or whether private traders carry on the business. The surplus bears down prices in any event.

REFRIGERATION IN SUMMER.

America has long been famed abroad for the multiplicity of its bathtubs and the perfection of its heating arrangements. Winter visitors from abroad find residences, offices and railroad trains superheated and most uncomfortable. Counteracting the effects of a falling thermometer seems to have been the limit of American ingenuity. But what of the reverse picture? The mercury climbs to altitude-breaking heights and nothing is done about it.

Some of the newer hotels have installed artificial atmosphere plants for summer as well as winter, and the big movie palaces give you a two-hour respite without extra charge. But American inventiveness has been very slow in devising antiheat equipment for dwellings.

It is understood that some of the new Government office buildings now being erected are to be fitted with cooling as well as heating systems. Surely plans can be made to reverse the radiations that come from the basement so that they may temper torridity during the summer.

It is not an unusual thing in Washington to see Government employes endeavoring to do their work in offices that for days in succession reach a temperature of over 90 degrees. With the frequent humidity attending such heat it means that labor in such an atmosphere is not 50 per cent effective. Therefore, from the standpoint of economy and efficiency, if not from humanitarian motives, cool air should be provided for the big offices, and as soon as possible some device should be attached to the electric refrigerator, so that mother and the kids and the tired business man may all be comfortable even in the summer time.

APPROACHES TO WASHINGTON.

Washington has a vital interest in the bills before the General Assembly of Maryland for regulation of billboards. Unless Maryland takes steps to rid its highways of obnoxious signs the program of beautifying approaches to the National Capital can not be carried out. Congress recently enacted a law giving to the District government control of roadside advertising. The Legislature of Maryland is no doubt fully aware of the necessity for its cooperation.

Maryland is not being asked, however, to enact this proposed law for the sole benefit of the National Capital. Thousands of tourists visit Maryland every year and carry away impressions of the State based on what they see along the highways. If every spot of beauty is made hideous by billboards the State will be less attractive to tourists.

No convincing arguments against regulation of billboards have been advanced. Firms that erect unsightly signs along the highways take advantage of an asset that belongs to the whole people. Why should they not be restricted? When the natural beauty of a State is marred irreparable damage is done to the entire community.

Col. Grant, director of public buildings and grounds, swept away the arguments of the outdoor advertising companies by showing that their own business is injured by the unlicensed cluttering of right-of-ways with ugly signs. Outdoor advertising would be much more effective if it were properly regulated so as not to disgust the public.

The details of this regulation must be left to the Legislature of Maryland. It can not be too strongly urged, however, that some constructive action be taken.

A MUSCLE SHOALS PLAN.

When President Hoover vetoed the Muscle Shoals resolution he did not strike at the plant itself, but at the plans of Senator Norris and his cohorts to commit the Government to socialism. No one is more anxious than President Hoover to see this plant put to economic use. The veto message contained a substitute plan whereby both the power and nitrate plants could be operated without plunging the Government into competition with its own citizens.

Indications are that President Hoover will appoint a commission to work out the details of a leasing agreement. Such a body would include representatives of Alabama and Tennessee, the two States primarily concerned, as well as representatives of the national farm organizations and the Army Engineer Corps. The President could not, of course, vest this commission with authority to lease the plants, as he asked Congress to do in his message, but if an agreement could be reached the administration would have a definite plan to submit to Congress at the next session.

The advocates of Government ownership and operation of public utilities do not intend to give up the fight on Muscle Shoals. The Norris bill unquestionably will be reintroduced in the next Congress, and it may be expected to pass again unless some constructive measure can be presented. During the last two years the administration has been on the defensive in this fight. The problem was not to force through a practical scheme for operation of Muscle Shoals, but to defeat the socialistic Norris bill.

If the administration now takes an aggressive attitude and evolves a definite program it will have an advantage in the coming struggle. Quite a number of senators voted for the Norris plan at the last session because there was no other measure to vote for. They were tired of seeing these plants idle for more than ten years, and would have voted for any plan to dispose of the question.

The Republican party has defeated the socialistic sortie of the Democrats and insurgents. Let the party now come forth with a definite constructive plan of its own. That is the only hope for an acceptable settlement of this intricate problem.

BUREAU OF ENGRAVING WORKERS.

Employes in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing have discovered a joker in the new law providing a Saturday half holiday for Government workers. The act specifically provides that four hours shall constitute a day's work on Saturdays throughout the year. Employes of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing are among the 400,000 Government workers whom Congress intended to benefit. Yet the acting director of the bureau announces that some employes will be deprived of those benefits.

This ruling is particularly disheartening to employes of the bureau, because a considerable number of them are working only part time. Some lose three days' pay each month, and others lose five. Acting Director Long has made known that this furlough policy will continue, despite the fact that some employes must work all day on Saturday. The bureau finds it is necessary to put some employes on part time and to work others overtime without extra pay to avoid a deficit.

For these employes the new half holiday act appears to be an empty gesture. It is necessary, of course, for department heads to have discretionary powers in regard to overtime work. But no department head has a right to ignore the policy adopted by Congress in regard to working hours. If the department has insufficient work to keep all its employes busy on full time why can not the slack be taken up by the Saturday half holidays? Certainly Congress did not intend that some employes should be laid off part time and others worked overtime to save money. This is tantamount to the doubling-up system which has been so bitterly condemned in private industry.

Attention ought to be given to the overtime problem before it grows into an abuse. It is an injustice to employes to ask them to work over hours as a regular practice. If the extra work is properly distributed it seems probable that the Saturday half holiday can be arranged without employing additional help. But care should be exercised so as not to throw the burden upon one group.

EQUALIZING WAR BURDENS.

A movement that should have the overwhelming support of the American people is the one actively sponsored by the American Legion to take profits out of war. If the United States ever should be drawn into another conflict of first magnitude the demand will be instant that not only men but money and materials shall all be brought into the contest on an equitable basis.

If circumstances should precipitate war the men who stay at home in peace jobs, the money required to finance gigantic preparations and equipment, the producers of raw material and the manufacturers who make it ready for the front must all come in on some basis of sacrifice comparable with that of the men who take their chances of becoming cannon fodder.

These elements of warfare, which are just as necessary as the men in the trenches, can not be drafted quite as simply as the men themselves, but rules and regulations will not be difficult of formulation. It would be necessary to give broad powers in the way of limiting profits and in condemnation and operation of plants when necessary. All of this can be worked out fairly with just regard for the rights of all. No one who stays at home to reap gains in any capacity without bodily risk could withstand the universal scorn of the best elements of the Nation if he should refuse to enlist his resources, his talents or his skill on a basis that will be just in comparison with the risks encountered by the men who do the actual fighting.

In the fervor of war preparations and enthusiasm these adjustments unquestionably would be demanded, but if such measures are to be made effective promptly in an emergency the legislative requirements must be worked out in advance. To further this end the Commission to Take the Profits Out of War is meeting in the Capital this week. It is composed of the Secretaries of State, War, Navy, Commerce and Labor, four senators and four members of the House. Officials of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Disabled American Veterans are aiding the movement.

INCREASED HIGHWAY WORK.

The nation-wide agitation in favor of supplying State road work as one means of aiding the unemployed has resulted in larger forces being used than usual in winter. State highway officials estimate the total employment in this work at 161,000. In 36 States from which complete reports have been received the total mileage of roads undergoing improvements of various grades totals nearly 4,000, at a cost exceeding $50,000,000.

A report just issued by the Highway Association says: "It is believed that reports for February will show an even larger amount of increase in employment. Without question the Federal emergency appropriation of $80,000,000 to be advanced to the States to match Federal aid funds in place of State funds not yet appropriated has materially aided in advancing the program."

The total number of men in winter road work is not formidable when the number out of work is taken into account, but in the majority of cases it has brought employment to cases of urgent necessity. As the weather moderates in the more northerly States a heavy increase in the amount of work available is expected.

By the end of this month much seasonal employment of other kinds will become available, and real improvement in the labor situation will be evident.

EVIL PRIMARY SYSTEM

From the Detroit Free Press.

Of late several competent and thoughtful political writers have had something to say about the deep distrust with which the country views Congress, a distrust which amounts to actual fear of what the legislative branch of the Federal Government may do. And unquestionably it is a fact that when the body is in session there is constant uneasiness and often dread regarding what may happen next, particularly in the Senate.

This condition is a highly significant symptom, and is a natural result of a great piece of foolishness of which the Nation became guilty a few years ago when it substituted the primary election system for the convention, and brought about the destruction of party responsibility and party authority, and so threw conscientious, patriotic leadership into the discard in favor of blatant, self-seeking demagogic control of factions.

The deterioration of public service and of public political conscience which have followed the advent of the primary have had so profoundly evil effect upon the country that our free institutions actually are trembling in the balance. So far as Congress is concerned, the neutral danger ahead if the present condition persists and grows, is repudiation of the body by the Nation, which will presage the end of the Republic.

In local and State governments the general situation is even worse than it is in Washington, because the dissatisfaction and suspicion extends to the executive and judicial branches of government and every year the difficulties in the way of getting competent officers for the Commonwealths and their subdivisions increases. Sometimes it seems impossible to find even honest ones, except now and then almost by accident. Good men generally are reluctant to run for office and when they do run there is no longer any reliable, representative body to examine the qualifications of candidates and tell the voters which are fit and which are unfit.

Of late there has been considerable contention that palliation may be found through resort to the so-called short ballot system, under which only a few principal officials would be elected and those few given wide appointive powers. Such a move was urged recently with respect to general Michigan State officers.

Under the short ballot plan governors, mayors and so forth, who might or might not be honest and trustworthy, and in the majority of cases would be irresponsible or mediocre, would be given the nominating power formerly enjoyed by responsible party conventions, and in addition would be accorded the elective privilege still maintained by the voters.

We fail to see any particular advantage in that sort of thing, in the long run. In the working out it would be one more step along the road to substitution of autocracy for free government.

Unquestionably there is a way of escape for the Nation, but it is going to be a hard one to travel, and the sooner a serious effort is made to find it the better for these United States.

If it were possible for the Nation to retrace its steps, and in that simple way correct its mistake without suffering consequences other than the performance of those acts meet for repentance, the situation would not be so bad. But it is no more within the power of a nation to escape natural punishment for a misstep than it is within the power of an individual to shake himself free from the penalties of sin merely by forsaking it. The error this country has sown it will have to reap and expiate. Restoration of sound political machinery will be a first step toward repudiation of the sin committed when the primary election system was adopted. But after that it will be necessary to revive a spirit of responsibility and common decency and honor in politics, and that will be a mammoth, painful task.

"Opportunity," says Mr. Shouse, "is knocking at the door of the Democratic party." Is he sure it isn't an echo from the knocking inside?

Some folks can make themselves believe that people are not even talking about prohibition.

Congress thought it had the President going South several times, but he outstayed them.

Colombia restores the Barco concession, from which oil will have to reach seaboard through Venezuela, thus recharging one of the potentialest little volcanoes in South America.

Mal Daugherty probably blames it on the early influence of his first name, which in Spanish means "bad."

Dr. Sherman in his child research work has discovered that there are 2,124 ways in which children can annoy their parents, but he is probably still a young father.

Come on, 'fess up, how many of you are already spending that $25,000 cigarette prize?

Getting the wrong number on a dial phone and then trying to get connection again, the operator or your nickel back, provides real sport and exercise, not to mention practice in temperamental control.

Has any one heard of Al Smith resigning his right to rule what the Democrats have left? Old Porfirio Diaz, when urged to step aside and stand behind a younger ruler of Mexico, declined with the comment: "Anybody can kick a dead lion."

New Mexico's proposal to go into the liquor business as a State is courting trouble that will make her look old before her time.

No one ever says C. Coolidge doesn't know his politics. He did scramble his pronouns on Wednesday, but Thursday and every other day he knows that politics is singular in more than ways grammatical.

A young Rockefeller was waiting to talk to Gandhi as soon as he got his salt back from Lord Irwin. If the kid's a real chip of John D., he doubtless now has an oil lease in his pocket covering India's 1,185,412,480 acres.

Capper's Capital discovered that, after fighting for a decade, Senator Norris saw two of his ideas incorporated into action of Congress—the starting of Muscle Shoals and the ending of lame ducks. Even a senator's newspaper can be wrong about the Senate.

Mexico's record of four governments in one month is now equaled by Peru, but one of hers is a repeater.

With a grand a month for "pin money," the "First Lady of the Land" can now have all the pickles she wants. P. H.

OLD READING.

The garden catalogues are here,
And once again I read them through
As I have done for many a year
In search of blossoms old and new.
Unchanged the style, unchanged the tale,
And yet the page grows never stale.

Some books I read and toss aside,
Some books a second time I'll con,
And some I can no more abide
Because their interest has gone,
But every year I sit for hours
Rereading catalogues of flowers.

The new is very like the old,
Whatever name the covers bear;
I know the yellow marigold
And modest mignonette are there.
The story of the daffodils
Is old as are the oldest hills.

The catalogue of life repeats
The self-same list of human needs.
One finds upon its printed sheets
The record of men's thoughts and deeds.
And all that daily is retold

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

MY DEAR LOUISE:

I'm sorry to hear you aren't feeling well. It's a penalty for something or other—peanuts at midnight, perhaps.

Life is full of penalties, big and little—so full of them that it would scarcely seem worth living if you knew in advance how many are in store for you.

But there is consolation in the thought that a penalty is something easy to avoid. To avoid losing a finger, you simply quit monkeying with the buzz saw.

Seriously, if you will pay me the compliment of believing that I know what I am talking about—I can teach you a simple little lesson that will prevent about nine-tenths of the aches and pains you would ordinarily endure and protect you from most of the unhappiness that falls to the lot of unwise people.

First, you must understand that there is no such thing as a simple disorder. If a man has pneumonia, he isn't sick only in his lungs. He is sick all over. We are such delicate machines that a disorder in one part of us disorganizes every part of us.

Now keep that basic fact in mind as you consider the second part of the lesson.

The part of you that dominates all other parts is your mind. It directs everything.

We speak of voluntary and involuntary muscles, meaning that one moves as directed by the brain while the other works without direction, but the words are misleading.

Your conscious mind—your will—tells your hand to move, and your involuntary muscles—the heart, for example—move without direction from your will; but these involuntary muscles don't think for themselves. They move only as the brain directs them, but their director is that part of the brain called the sub-conscious mind.

Thus you see, if one sick part makes all parts sick, and your mind is responsible for the working of all parts, it is clear that a sick mind can make the whole machine go haywire. That isn't very technical, but it will do.

Do you think a cut finger hurts? Well, it doesn't—not by itself. It's the mental picture of a cut finger that makes you howl. A man cut in a fight doesn't feel it because his mind is busy at something else. Only when the fight is over and his mind pictures the hurt does he begin to groan, and then he hurts much or little, depending on how vividly his mind can picture his disaster.

A bite from a snake that isn't poisonous can make a man dreadfully sick if he thinks it is poison.

As worry over something that doesn't happen can make your mind sick, handicap every gland and organ, fill your body with poison and put you in bed, so a sane mind that refuses to magnify or dwell upon troubles but deliberately pictures the sunny side can keep you in the game despite a broken leg.

The mind is absolute boss, dear. Teach it not to picture imaginary ills and most of life's troubles will pass you by.

Love, DAD.

Raskob's Break.

New York Times.

If the sensible and responsible majority of the Democratic national committee holds together until the next national convention, Chairman Raskob will never obtain from it the "official expression" on prohibition which he prudently failed to press for yesterday. Mr. Raskob has been beaten once in his attempt to make the national committee the platform committee of the convention. The dictates of common sense and the background of party procedure should be able to do it again.

The national committee is the business office, not the editorial department of the party. Its work is to raise money for campaigns and between campaigns, and to conduct the national canvass every four years. Its further function is to aid the congressional campaign committees every two years. If Mr. Raskob did not know this, his recent advent into politics must be the reason. At any rate, he knows it nw.

Democratic Explosion Coming.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

It appears inevitable that the regular Democratic convention will nominate a wet presidential candidate on a wet platform, even though it carries a Southern bolt. The prohibition question is going to be the great troublemaker for the Democratic party. The rumblings in the committee presage the explosion that is bound to occur in the national convention.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Why Not Hold Inaugural Ceremonies Later, Even if Presidents Take Office March 4?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: This morning the world from our windows is white. Each tree and bush is "edged inch deep with pearl." Road and sidewalks are hidden, while more snow is falling. On three March fourths I have seen in Washington such a storm as this when Presidents incoming and outgoing rode in open cars (one was an open horse-drawn carriage), their hats off most of the time in reply to cheers and greetings. Soaked spectators, soaked soldiers, soaked marines were a part of the picture.

Why can not our Presidents be inaugurated later—say the end of April, when Washington weather is usually delightful, instead of early in March? If the extra month matters, why not have the incoming President enter the White House on March 4 but have the public ceremony later? Why should our Presidents be subjected, together with soldiers and sailors and the public, to the risk of pneumonia on March 4 instead of enjoying the milder climate at a later date? Why should Washington citizens and visitors ruin their clothes and their health? Why should nearly every Chief Executive go into office with "cold feet?"

Marsh Wind Shows City to Be Badly in Need of Clean-up.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As the annual cleaning-up period approaches, the old question arises, Why not keep it up during the whole year? Why let trash accumulate from month to month instead of cleaning up at every season or, better still, making every month a clean-up month?

There are some details of city tidiness which, I am sure, might as well be attended to constantly.

I was out for a walk this windy morning (March 5), and the wind joined in the campaign of clean-up education at a great rate. Much loose debris was blown about on some blocks, to a great extent in the shape of scraps of paper. A whole page of The Post, or some other journal of civilization, was blown at me.

Newsboys should be cautioned to take more care in delivering papers and the regulation against dropping trash in the street should be as strictly enforced as possible.

George Washington was in all respects neat and orderly, and now as the celebration of his bicentennial approaches is a good time to begin keeping the streets of his city free all the year round from unsightly litter.

CLEAN-UP.

People Not Qualified for Self-Government, as Proved by Their Action in Destroying the Senate.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: With respect to the remarks of Calvin Coolidge in his platitudes of October 18, 1930, if the Congress now dying is representative of the people of the United States, it is my opinion that this country is not capable of or qualified for self-government.

In recent years my respect for the House of Representatives has grown since it has become the stabilizing unit of the Congress, a function formerly attributed to the Senate. The Senate as a body has steadily declined in caliber and statesmanship since the adoption of the seventeenth amendment, as I predicted at the time, and corroborating my opinion as to the fitness of the people to govern themselves. Of course, through experience and education, we shall finally reach that goal after several more generations, but for the present it is more apparent every year that the people of this country made another mistake when they adopted the seventeenth amendment to the Constitution.

Chalk Marks on Diagonal Corners Are Deadly Danger Zones to Pedestrians.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I know that the day has passed for petulant plaints by pedestrians. The average pedestrian now knows that, owing to the varying moods of motorists, he must work out his own traffic salvation.

Nevertheless, I can not help suggesting that there must be something wrong with the safety equation by which those diagonal chalk walks are laid from corner to corner at disjointed street crossings. The worst of these walks direct the pedestrian into oncoming traffic with the possibility of unseen danger at his rear. Any one who is thoughtlessly misled by them is in the worst kind of a traffic trap and in an emergency must trust to luck, no matter how great his of her agility of mind and limb. These are danger zones, not safety paths.

RENO BILL MAKES DIVORCE EASIER

Measure Answers Challenge of Idaho and Arkansas in Quick-Freedom Plan.

Carson City, Nev., March 6 (A.P.).—Nevada, recognized center of the Nation's transient divorce business, today answered recent competition inaugurated by Idaho and Arkansas with passage in the House of Representatives of a bill making a decree possible after six weeks' residence.

Today's action was a frank gesture to retain business estimated to be worth $3,000,000 annually to the Western State. The bill provides complaints may be filed, and decrees granted, after six weeks' residence. The Senate is expected to pass the measure.

The unanimous House vote was inspired by apprehension that if Nevada's present requirement of a three months' residence is not reduced Idaho and Arkansas, which recently enacted similar laws, will get the business.

Threatened opposition by representatives from central and eastern Nevada failed to materialize after a delegation of Reno business men and attorneys presented the situation to the legislators.

If the bill becomes a law it would make Nevada the easiest State in the Nation in which to obtain a divorce. In addition to the short residence required it would not be necessary to make specific allegations in a divorce petition. The wording of the law would be ample unless the defendant demanded a bill of particulars.

This is in wide contrast to South Carolina, the one State in the Union, where a divorce may not be obtained for any reason.

Eddie Dowling Goes Home to Mother at Close of Honeymoon.

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—The New York Daily News said today that Miss Betty Compton, musical comedy actress, and her husband, Eddie Dowling, parted ways at the conclusion of their honeymoon.

Returning from Havana last Thursday, the News said, Miss Compton went to the home of friends in Westchester and Dowling hied himself to his mother's apartment. They have denied themselves to interviewers and the cause of the purported separation could not be learned.

Miss Compton was said to be contemplating a trip to California, possibly to Hollywood. Dowling was reported seeking a job, though he has been employed as a scenario writer by the Paramount Studios. They were married secretly February 16.

DR. CHARLES R. BROWN.

DR. BROWN OF YALE LENTEN PREACHER

Former Divinity Dean Leads Services at New York Avenue Church.

Dr. Charles Reynolds Brown, dean emeritus of the Yale Divinity School, will open the series of noon-day Lenten services at New York Avenue Church Monday. These will be held daily (except Saturdays and Sundays) from 12:20 to 1 o'clock. As for several years past, they are under the auspices of the Washington Federation of Churches.

Dr. A. R. Bird, the president of the federation, and Dr. John Weidley, chairman of the committee on public meetings, will be the presiding officers during the week. Mr. Paul W. Fishbaugh will serve as organist and the music is under the direction of Mr. Norton M. Little, who will call to his assistance other well-known choristers.

Dr. Brown is a frequent visitor to Washington, and one of the most popular speakers who come to this city. He has a very clear, incisive style, rarely speaking over 20 or 25 minutes.

The services are open to the public. The speakers for the remaining portion of the Lenten period are to be Dr. Carl C. Rasmussen, of Luther Place Church; Dr. J. R. Sizoo, of New York Avenue, and Bishop William F. McDowell.

Hoovers to Visit Son Over Sunday

President Plans 11-Hour Trip, but Engagements Monday Are Off.

(Associated Press.)

President and Mrs. Hoover plan to leave Washington tonight for a hasty trip to Asheville, N. C., to visit their son, Herbert Hoover, jr., who has spent the winter there recovering from illness. With the party will be Lawrence Richey, one of the President's secretaries, and Dr. Joel Boone, White House physician.

The present plans of the President are to return tomorrow night, arriving in Washington early Monday morning. No engagements have been made for Monday, however, and there is a chance he may spend two days instead of nine hours in Asheville.

Tomorrow the President will see his eldest son for the first time since last fall when the latter went to the North Carolina resort. Mrs. Hoover, however, has made two trips to Asheville, the last one just before Washington's Birthday, when she spent four days at Blue Brier Cottage, where Herbert Hoover, jr., is living.

Behind the Screens

—With NELSON B. BELL—

SINCE motion picture theaters, especially those belonging to national chains, have so universally availed themselves of the protection of liability insurance against accident or injury to their patrons—on exactly the same policy—the theory that the driver of a motor car carries the same sort of policy—the actuaries of the companies assuming the risk have compiled a strange array of facts.

The types of theatergoers that lodge claims against the theaters, with or without justification in fact, the flimsy pretexts upon which many of them predicate their spurious attempts to collect and the variety of mishaps that may befall a customer in a theater are less pertinent to this particular comment than the fact that the insurance companies have definitely determined that accidents are most numerous in motion picture houses—and legitimate theaters, too, for that matter—during the engagements of attractions that induce tears. Niobe, it seems, is not on the side of the insurance writers.

This happened to come to my notice in most casual fashion during a discussion of certain entirely different aspects of the run of "East Lynne," just closed, at the Fox. I was informed that it was not so much the larger attendance that swelled the number of accident reports to proportions well above normal as the fact that a majority of the women in attendance left the theater with their vision appreciably affected by tears. The number of accident reports thus necessitated was a matter of some perplexity to the theater, but entirely expected by the insurance company to whose experts the condition appeared wholly in consonance with a normal graph, the nature of the film taken into consideration.

People who go dancing out of theaters with tears in their eyes, I am led to believe, have an unfortunate habit of walking into blank walls, descending steps that aren't there and failing to descend those that are, turning corners before they come to them and otherwise comporting themselves just like people who cry at pictures!

"East Lynne," by the buy, attracted cash customers to the wicket to the tune of something like $32,000 on the week. Not bad for the old meller that has done yeoman's service on the one-nights for something upward of half a century. But Ann Harding and that production . . . .

Tossed back to the Memorial Opera House and the days of my early youth in Valparaiso, Ind., by the unexpected fanfare, I thought for a minute there must be a minstrel show playing RKO-Keith's when I heard that band out in front of the theater early last night.

What it was was the Twentieth Regiment of Marines Band and regimental staff and men in uniform welcoming Maj. Gen. Ben Fuller, commandant of the U. S. Marine Corps, and Brig. Gen. Meyers, assistant major general commandant, with their staffs, to the 7 o'clock performance of "The Last Parade" in celebration of "Twentieth Marines Night" on Fifteenth street.

Revolving around the careers of three wartime buddies, the story of "The Last Parade" packs a wallop in both lines and situations that makes it gripping entertainment and a swell vehicle for Jack Holt, Constance Cummings and Tom Moore.

Naturally, Radio-Keith-Orpheum wanted to tell it to the Marines!

Beginning with the engagement of "Sit Tight," costarring Winnie Lightner and Joe E. Brown, beginning today, the Metropolitan Theater will temporarily abandon its recent habit of split weeks and present a series of full-week engagements. "Sit Tight" will be the first, to be followed by week runs of "Cimarron," "Dracula," and Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon in "My Past." These are already penciled in—but not necessarily in the order named—with others, no doubt, to come later.

Ruth Etting, Broadway's favorite songstress, would have been heard in one of the downtown, first-run picture houses even had she not been booked for a week of personal appearances as headliner of the vaudeville portion of the program at the Earle, beginning today.

Negotiations for her local appearance were under way a few weeks ago when the Warner Brothers signed her for five weeks—I hope I have my figures on straight—including this one on Thirteenth street. She's worth a little scrambling for.

And Elissa Landi comes dangerously near making good all of the extravagant advance claims recently made for her by postcard, and otherwise, in "Body and Soul," the new feature at the Fox, in which she plays opposite Charles Farrell for the first time.

Not another Garbo, nor yet a Marlene Dietrich, Miss Landi nevertheless will be found a thoroughly engaging young actress of peculiarly exotic beauty, warmth, intensity and personality to throw at cats.

FACTIONS OF PERU APPROACH ACCORD

4 Revolutions in 7 Months Arouse Impatience of 1879 Veterans.

Lima, Peru, March 6 (A.P.).—Hope that peace was at hand in Peru, shaken by four revolutions in the past seven months, was expressed by the new junta of Gustavo Jimenez tonight after a sympathetic attitude was shown the southern military leaders at Arequipa.

Followers of Lieut. Col. Jimenez, who overthrew the five-day old provisional junta headed by Dr. Ricardo Leoncio Elias by a surprise coup d'etat last night, conferred with representatives of the northern and southern forces today. While no official announcement was forthcoming of the support of the Arequipa group, a message from them to Jimenez led to the belief the southerners would line up behind the Lima government.

A telegram from Samanez Ocampo, leader of the Arequipa forces, welcomes Jimenez's manifesto promising a speedy return of constitutional government. Ocampo had refused to support the Elias junta which came into power after a naval ultimatum forced the resignation of Lieut. Col. Luis M. Sanchez Cerro as provisional president Sunday.

Troops of the northern expeditionary force today landed from the Urubamba at Pascamayo, which had been occupied by rebel troops belonging to the Eleventh Infantry, who retired when they learned of the approach of the loyalists. The latter proceeded to Guadalupe in search of the rebels but upon arriving there they received orders to return to Lima.

Veterans of the war of 1879 took a voice in affairs today saying they could no longer remain silent in the "sad hour which was tending to become dark." They urged the younger generations of the army and navy to abandon their warlike attitude and embrace each other as brothers.

Those signing the veterans' plea were headed by Vice Admiral Meliton Carbajal.

Thompson Wed Third Time in 1929

Former Coal Operator Once Controlled Fortune of $70,000,000.

Pittsburgh, March 6 (A.P.).—In the evening of his life, when he looks back on faded days of wealth and power, Josiah V. Thompson, former coal operator and banker of Uniontown, has married for the third time.

Joseph H. Bialas, Thompson's attorney, announced today that the 77-year-old man, a recluse in an almost deserted mansion at Uniontown, was married to Mrs. Rose Maloney, of Pittsburgh, in December, 1929. In applying for the marriage license at New Cumberland, W. Va., Mrs. Maloney said her age was 42. She is the mother of six children and widow of a former Pittsburgh bussiness man.

Thompson's wealth once was estimated at more than $70,000,000. He lived in splendor and was one of the most powerful political and business figures in southwestern Pennsylvania. His fortune collapsed several years ago and recently he was committed to jail for a week on a contempt of court charge growing out of his failure to meet obligations.

He was released on parole because of ill health.

2 Red Organizers Are Kindaped

Attorney Asks Police to Search for Clients Taken by Armed Men.

Dallas, Tex., March 6, (A.P.).—George Clifton Edwards, an attorney, reported today that two of his clients, C. J. Coder and Lewis Hurst, Communist organizers, were abducted by a group of armed men last night. They have not been heard from since.

Edwards expressed the belief that the men had been carried to some secluded spot and flogged.

Coder and Hurst recently had been implicated in difficulties with city authorities, and Edwards defended them when they were tried on vagrancy charges in police court. He was fined for contempt of court during the trial.

The attorney said the abductors were waiting when he and his clients emerged from the city hall after he had obtained the release of Coder and Hurst on an order from Chief of Police Claude Trammell.

Edwards said he was taken outside Dallas and released unharmed, while Coder and Hurst were carried away in another automobile.

Police reported they had no information about the kidnaping.

2 Suspects Held In Ship Slaying

U. S. to Act in Murder Case at Panama, Where Man Was Found Hanged.

New Orleans, March 6 (A.P.).—Indications were seen here today that the Federal Government would have a hand in investigating the death of Henry Sammartino, Youngstown, Ohio, diamond merchant, aboard the American steamer Pennsylvania in the Panama Canal Zone, February 11.

Death aboard a vessel flying the American flag on the high seas comes under the jurisdiction of Federal authorities.

Meanwhile, James Ryan, of New York, and Harry Henderson, of Tulsa, Okla., remained in custody here today, pending an investigation.

Both were said to have been traveling companions of Sammartino. The merchant was found hanging in his stateroom as the ship neared Panama, and a later examination, authorities said, revealed a fractured skull.

New York Firm to Test Soil on Monument Site

The Giles Drilling Corporation, of New York, was low bidder on the contract to drill eight holes within a radius of 500 feet of the Washington Monument, it was found yesterday when the bids of ten concerns were opened.

The purpose of the drilling, which is to be supervised by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission engineers, is to determine what type of garden is least dangerous to the shaft. Holes were previously drilled by the same firm, but the plans modified when it was found that the obelisk might be endangered.

BUREAU WORKERS CHALLENGE LEGALITY OF MILLS' DECREE

various persons yesterday and had explained to them that the question of the Saturday half-holiday law and the furloughs "were totally unrelated."

"The Saturday half-holiday law," Mr. Mills told The Post, "can have no effect on the furloughs because the two things are totally unrelated. That would be obvious to anyone with the mind of a 10-year-old child.

Cuts Down Furlough Time.

"The Saturday half-holiday law did not carry any provision for increasing the money available to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. The Constitution forbids an executive department to incur a deficit. The overtime work, which is being done is gratefully received by the employes who are given the overtime work because it cuts down their furlough time. Besides, the money to pay for this work is not paid out of bureau funds, but is reimbursable from another department. It's a very simple matter to any one who can understand it."

Representatives of the employes, however, saw matters in a different light. They declared that Congress had decreed that Saturday should be a half holiday and that meant that, regardless of the lack of a specific appropriation for any department, all Government agencies were compelled to obey the decree and, if necessary, incur deficits.

They pointed out that all Government departments had incurred deficits as a result of the enactment of the Welch law and of the Brookhart law and that the legality of these deficits had not been challenged and had been recognized with subsequent appropriations by Congress.

Situation Termed "Different."

Mr. Mills said that when these deficits were incurred funds were available and the situation was different from that which made him order the furlough of bureau employes to be continued just the same as in the past despite the Saturday half-holiday law.

The new law, Mr. Mills said, would make no difference in the furlough. Asked whether anything else in immediate prospect might make a difference Mr. Mills said he would not say.

"You don't operate a bureau through the newspapers and if there is to be any change then the change will be announced through proper announcement through the usual channels," he said.

Formal Order Issued.

A formal order governing the operation of the Saturday half-holiday law in the District government was issued yesterday by the Commissioners. It provided, as does the act, that whenever heads of departments were unable to permit all employes to take Saturday afternoons off, they shall give the workers equal vacation during the week.

District employes profit less than Federal workers by the law in that the District building has closed at 12:30 p. m. during the summer months and at 3 p. m. during the winter, fall and spring.

Thus a half hour is lost for the District employes on summer Saturdays, while at other times only about an hour and a half is gained, as the lunch period is now removed.

months," it being clearly understood, when I accepted the position, that it was for a one-year period in helping to get the organization set up and the work started.

"Personally I have a greater confidence in the ultimate success in the program laid down by Congress in the agricultural marketing act than when I undertook the work some twenty months ago and will cooperate in every way I may as a private citizen to bring this about."

Legge expressed belief that "the greatest general depression on record" had reached bottom and from now on improvement would be shown.

Attaches of the board then gathered in his office and presented him with flowers.

Legge was accompanied to the station by all members of the board except the new chairman, who was at the White House.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 19 (A.P.).—James C. Stone, appointed by President Hoover today as chairman of the Federal Farm Board, for many years has been active on cooperative marketing projects.

Born at Richmond, Ky., in a part of the State famous for its blue grass and burly tobacco, his efforts at cooperative marketing were devoted entirely to banding together the tobacco growers until he became vice chairman of the Federal board when it was organized in 1929.

He was one of the organizers in 1921 of the Burley Tobacco Association, which included growers in Kentucky, Tennessee, Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia and Missouri. On its establishment he became its first president and general manager, and by 1925 it had approximately 180,000 members and its annual business was $50,000,000.

The association flourished for five or six years, then growers began to sell outside the pool whose backers claimed it caused the rise in prices. Finally the association dwindled away as growers ceased to sign up for the coming year and it had to be dissolved. A decided drop in the price of tobacco followed.

Mr. Stone, who was 53 years old last January, went to work in the State insurance department, of which his father was head, after graduation from college in 1896.

In addition to his connections with the tobacco industry, he was a director of the Fayette National Bank at Lexington and of the Kentucky Joint Stock Land Bank of that city.

MARCH 7, 1906.

It was declared by members of a women's conference now in session in Washington that women are able to dress much cheaper than men at the present time. The remark was repeated, with much laughter, in the House of Representatives.

Justice Henry Billings Brown, of the United States Supreme Court, today sent in his resignation to President Roosevelt. Old age was said to be the reason.

An investigation of the New York Police Department is under way, and several officials may be indicted for graft.

Sir Mortimer Durand, British Ambassador, returned from Nashville, Tenn., where he had been visiting for several days.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

SHALL WE EAT RAW FISH?

DR. H. B. WARD presents evidence of the increasing prevalence of broad tapeworm among the people of the United States and Canada. This threatens to become the predominating human parasite worm within a generation or two unless steps be taken to control it.

Many years ago an occasional case was reported, sometimes from the North and sometimes from the South, but always in some one who had but recently come from Europe. Just about the beginning of this century this worm appears to have established a stronghold in northern Michigan and in Minnesota, generally in the vicinity of Lake Superior. There is evidence now that it is pretty well established in the upper Mississippi Valley, east of the Rocky Mountains and west of the Alleghanies and around Lake Superior, well into Canada, mostly to the westward. However, it is capable of spreading almost anywhere in North America, since it is spread by the fish of lakes and rivers, and the temperature of the water is not important.

The best measure of control is for every one, collectively and individually, to refrain from eating raw and undercooked fresh-water fish. Salted fresh-water fish are capable of spreading it unless well cooked. The disease is quite prevalent among cooks because of the habit many cooks have of tasting fish during the act of cooking it.

The life cycle of the parasite is as follows: The infected person or animal voids the worm eggs. These get into sewage and reach fresh water, or else they are carried there by shore wash. Infected dogs and other animals, including bears, are largely responsible for pollinating the streams. In the fresh-water lakes and streams the eggs hatch and the larvae are taken up by cyclops, a part of fresh-water plankton. The larvae develops in this small animal until animal and larvae are eaten by fish.

The fish which are most apt to become infected are pike, pickerel, and perch. Man, bear and other animals catch these fish and eat them. If the infected fish is well cooked the meat can be eaten with safety. However, great racial and nationality groups are accustomed to eating fish either raw or underdone.

POOR CIRCULATION.

B. A. writes: What causes discoloring of the hands in cold weather? When in a warm room, coming in from the cold, the hand becomes very red.

REPLY.

TREATING ANEMIA.

Mrs. C. F. writes: 1. Is there any cure for anemia in a middle-aged person?

2. How low does the blood count get with anemia before it is considered dangerous?

3. Is the liver extract better than the liver itself?

4. What foods are best for anemic people?

5. Does one's stomach trouble in anemia?

REPLY.

1. There is more than one kind of anemia and between the different kinds there may be little connection. I will assume that you mean pernicious anemia and will answer your questions on that basis. Pernicious anemia, properly treated, can be held in check for years.

2. Pernicious anemia is dangerous from the start.

3. Not necessarily. Since the treatment must be long-continued, one can be used as a rest from the other.

4. Liver, heart, tripe and ordinarily used substantial foods.

5. Yes, in many cases.

ROCKIES ENVELOPED BY SNOWS AND COLD

Mid-Western States Begin Digging Out; Rain, Sleet Move Eastward.

Kansas City, March 6 (A.P.).—The March lion, which pounced upon the Rocky Mountain region early this week with growling winds, swirling snows and zero temperatures, moved eastward today with diminishing ferocity.

While Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexcio continued to dig themselves out of drifts and to shiver in near-zero weather today, skies had begun to clear and warmer weather was in prospect.

In Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma, however, an abnormal, early spring had given way to wintry cold. Temperatures ranged down from 12 degrees to zero and snow fell in wide areas, changing to sleet and rain as the storm neared the Missouri River.

The vanguard of the storm had crossed the Mississippin River today and reached as far east as Terre Haute, Ind.

Snow Covers Wide Area.

In its wake was a strip 200 miles wide, extending north and south along the Nebraska-Iowa and Kansas-Missouri borders, in which snow was 3 to 6 inches deep and no longer falling. Many roads were blocked and railroads were using snowplows.

East of this area precipitation was general and gentle, mostly in the form of rain and sleet, although snow was falling in Keokuk, Iowa, and Peoria, Ill. At Keokuk it disabled transmission lines from the Keokuk Dam Power Plant between 6 a. m. and 9 a. m., affecting St. Louis and other cities and telephone lines were out of order.

The general precipitation augured well for farms in the central plains area, middle Mississippi States and the Ohio Valley, but promised to be disagreeable as the temperature falls.

Mild Fall in South.

North of the path of the storm, a high pressure area was bringing cold to the Dakotas, but the weather at St. Paul, Minn., was mild and clear.

To the south, mild snowfall was fairly general in Oklahoma and the weather in the interior of Texas was disagreeable. South Texas, however, continued to enjoy mild springlike weather and temperatures in the 60s.

West of the Rockies the weather was pleasant.

The Kansas City Weather Bureau reported today that the storm is the "fifth precipitation area" to pass over the Ohio Valley since the drought.

Reds Thwarted in Reichstag.

Berlin, March 6 (A.P.).—The Reichstag today rejected a Communist motion censuring Dr. Joseph Wirth, minister of the interior, for attacking the proletarian "godless" campaign in his speech before the chamber yesterday.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agri., Weather Bureau:
Washington, Friday, March 6—8 p. m.

Forecast—For the District of Columbia, rain, possibly mixed with snow; slightly colder, Saturday; Sunday rain; gentle to moderate northeast or east winds.

For Maryland, rain, possibly mixed with snow in east and snow in west portion Saturday and Sunday; slightly colder in east portion Saturday; increasing northeast or east winds.

For Virginia, rain in south and rain, possibly with snow in north portion Saturday and Sunday; slightly colder in northeast portion Saturday and in southwest portion Sunday; increasing easterly winds.

The Atlantic disturbance is advancing eastward with center tonight several hundred miles south of Newfoundland. The southwestern disturbance has moved slowly eastward and it still has two centers, Vera Cruz, Mex., 29.60 inches, and Little Rock, Ark., 29.64 inches. This disturbance has been attended by general precipitation within the last 24 hours in the southern Rocky Mountain region, the central and southern plains States, the Ohio, the lower Missouri, and middle Mississippi Valleys, and portions of the west gulf States. The precipitation was in the form of snow over the greater part of this area. Local snows have again occurred in New England and the interior of New York. Another disturbance that extends from Hudson Strait southwestward to northern Manitoba is advancing eastward. The Pas, Man., 29.96 inches. Pressure remains low over Greenland and the Aleutian Islands, and is high elsewhere over North Atlantic, Akiavik, District of Mackenzie, 30.72 inches; Ketchikan, Alaska, 30.50 inches; Rapid City, S. Dak., 30.30 inches, and Marquette, Mich., 30.24 inches. The temperature has risen in the southeastern States and the western Canadian Provinces, and it has fallen in the southern Rocky Mountain region, the southern plains States, Missouri, Arkansas, and the interior of Texas. The weather has become much colder in portions of Texas, Oklahoma, and New Mexico.

The southwestern disturbance will likely move northeastward, and it will be attended by precipitation over the entire Washington forecast district within the next 36 to 48 hours. The weather will remain fair Saturday, however, in New England, New York, and portions of the South Atlantic States. The temperature will not change materially from the Ohio Valley and the lower lake region eastward to the Atlantic Coast, but colder weather will overspread Tennessee and southern Kentucky Saturday and Saturday night, and the South Atlantic States, during Sunday and Sunday night.

Operation of Love Market Charged to California Trio

Three Arraigned in Los Angeles on Statutory Counts After List of 100 Girls Reveals Evidence of Trips to Mexico With Men.

Los Angeles, March 6 (A.P.).—A wealthy real estate and oil promoter, John P. Mills; a dancer, Mrs. Olive Clark Day, and an erstwhile theatrical press agent, William Jobelmann, were arraigned here today on statutory charges involving a love market. Preliminary hearing was set for March 31.

The district attorney's office said disagreement over money matters and a fist fight between Jobelmann and Mrs. Day led to the exposure.

Mrs. Day had given a card index to a friend for safe keeping. He looked into it and found his 13-year-old sister-in-law listed with some 100 other girls and scores of men clients, and turned the matter over to the district attorney.

A luxurious apartment in the Hollywood Hills, and records of week-end assignment of young girls for trips to Lower California and elsewhere, and notations about the "fees" were found. A number of the girls listed in the index, aged between 12 and 20, were investigated and placed in technical custody as witnesses for the State.

Mrs. Day, formerly Olive Love Clark, of Lewiston, Me., and a dancer here, was on the verge of collapse during arraignment in the municipal court. She was taken to the district attorney's office after arraignment, where, it was announced, she related details of furnishing young girls to business men for entertainment purposes.

Lewiston, Me., March 6 (A.P.).—Olive Clark Day, charged, with other defendants, with the operation of a "love market" in Hollywood, was an honor student in the Jordan High School here in 1922.

At that time she was known as Olive Love Clark. In addition to her school work she acted as assistant instructor in dancing at a local studio.

Before she left here she commented on a suit filed in her behalf against Herbert Rawlinson, motion picture actor, charging him with assault. She asserted at the time that her relations with Rawlinson were entirely platonic and denied knowledge of the suit, which a year later was dismissed.

Several Paris Suburbs Menaced by Floods

Paris, March 6 (A.P.).—Several suburbs of Paris were under water tonight, and with the Seine River still rising conditions were more precarious than in the disastrous floods of last December.

Water covered the streets of Corbeil, Viry-Chatillon, Villeneuve and St. Georges. A slight snow fell throughout the day. The meteorological bureau expects a further rise of the Seine.

League Makes Ready For 1932 Arms Parley

Geneva, Switzerland, March 6 (A.P.).—Preparing for the world disarmament conference in May, 1932, the secretary general of the League of Nations asked the participating governments today to state the approximate number and rank of the personnel of their delegations and the accommodations they would require.

Replies before April 15 were asked, so the council may decide on the meeting place.

ARGENTINE CROWDS FELICITATE PRINCES

Wales and George Followed by Workmen Adorned in Undershirts.

Buenos Aires, Argentina, March 6 (A.P.).—The Prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George, followed by crowds of workmen in their undershirts, today made an informal inspection trip to the fair grounds of the British Trade Exposition. The Prince of Wales has come 12,000 miles to open this exposition March 14.

Motor trucks and sprinkler carts crowded the streets and the visit was most informal.

The temperature was above 90 degrees. The police guard was unable to keep the crowds of workmen away from the party.

The Canadian pavilion was one of the prettiest spots visited. The air had a northern tang from the piles of apples and other fruits from Canada already on show. The last pavilion inspected was jewelry and art where dozens of paintings were still standing against the walls.

The princes also visited the Military College at San Martin. They inspected the cadets and reviewed the drill formations showing great interest in the horsemanship and gymnastics.

The Prince of Wales wore a blue military uniform while Prince George was attired in a naval uniform.

On the way out, the party was held up by a funeral procession and the princes waited patiently with bared heads until the hearse had passed.

Villagers Try to Lynch Girl.

Illinois City Crippled By Downfall of Sleet

Quincy, Ill., March 6 (A.P.).—The most severe sleet storm in years tonight paralyzed this city of 40,000.

A stinging downfall ripped loose power lines and disrupted all telegraph communications save one lone wire. Every factory was shut down, radio station WTAD was forced to suspend operations, and the Quincy Herald was unable to publish owing to power failure.

Society Woman Freed By Jurors in Slaying

When the verdict was read Mrs. Thornewill threw her arms about her chief counsel, Edward Cunha, of San Francisco, and kissed him.

Wilbur Waits Oil Firm's Decision

(Associated Press.)

Administration officials last night awaited word from oil importers upon which they hoped to base plans for solving some of the urgent problems confronting the petroleum world.

Secretary Wilbur, as chairman of the oil conservation board, said he expected several days would be required by the importing companies to work out a definite program of curtailing imports.

He said it would require considerable study of marketing zones, the price in various areas and existing contracts binding the various companies to formulate the plan.

The Gulf Co., the Standard of New Jersey and most of the other leading importers have notified the Government they were willing to assist.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

World Honors Justice Holmes, 90 Years Old

Election as Bencher of Lincoln's Inn Among Notable Gifts.

HONORED with the greatest gift the Old World can bestow, Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes will, tomorrow, celebrate his ninetieth birthday. Surrounded by old books and old friends America's grand old man will enter another cycle that reaches to the century mark, while before him on his desk lies the crested note apprising him that he has been elected honorary bencher of the Honorable Society of Lincoln's Inn of London.

While the lights in the Capitol flickered in the last session of Congress, across the ocean in the British capital the dean of the American bar was going down into history with William Pitt, Oliver Cromwell, Benjamin Disraeli and William Gladstone. For the famous Inns Court of London includes four societies which were founded about the end of the thirteenth century for the study and practice of law. Lincoln's Inn, one of the four, is located on Chancery lane. The others are the Inner Temple, Middle Temple and Grey's Inn.

If the United States has placed one of its greatest jurists on the pinnacle of the bench Great Britain on Wednesday confered its highest gift upon Justice Holmes, whose fame rests not alone upon attainments in his chosen profession. For, like Thomas Hardy, of England, Justice Holmes, the darling of every American boy's imagination, may be called the dean of American letters.

In the old house on I street where memories abound and where old friends gather to recount tales of other days, Mr. Holmes still pursues the relentless search in the realm of knowledge which has marked his entire life. Following still the habit of years, he keeps voluminous notes of every case tried before the Supreme Court of the United States, notes which he has jotted down, day by day, during the long months that the court is in session. And these are his essays and poems; and always friends dropping in to laugh about this and that.

"Joe" Cannon, of Illinois, is gone and so is "Jim" Tawney, of Minnesota, two virile House leaders whose poker game was as brilliant as their political acumen. With the late Joseph McKenna (California Jim), of the Supreme Court, and "Eddie" White, Chief Justice, it was a case of the effete East pitted against the free and breezy West in a friendly game of cards in the library of the Holmes house.

Buddies they were, the fivesome of the early twentieth century, whose anecdotes, political strategies and poker victories remain rare memories for the small and fortunate circle of Washingtonians cherishing their friendship.

Gone, too, is the old Shoreham, where Justice Holmes and Mrs. Holmes often dined. With dignity and grace they held court in the famous hotel where all the world crossed paths and all the world was eager to match wits with two keen brains.

Up to the minute in national affairs and with a keen sense of humor, Mrs. Holmes was the center of sparkling conversation which ran the gamut from literature to politics and turned the dinner hour into one of simple fun and pure delight. Since her death a few years ago Justice Holmes has remained within the seclusion of his library after the day's work on the bench of the Supreme Court.

News has been received in Washington by the Second Secretary of the Brazilian Embassy, Mr. Jayme Sloan Chermont that his father, the Brazilian minister to The Hague, Mr. E. L. Chermont, has been promoted to the rank of ambassador and will soon go to his new post in Chile.

Mr. Chermont will be remembered by many in Washington, who knew him when he was Secretary of Embassy here about twenty years ago. Mr. Sloan Chermont was then a small boy and attended school in Baltimore, his mother's old home. The late Mme. Chermont was Miss Helen Sloan, of Baltimore.

Mr. Chermont has remarried since the death of his first wife, and with Mme. Chermont will leave The Hague the end of this month for South America, where they will visit Mme. Chermont's mother, and will go from there to Santiago.

Jahncke to Entertain For Japanese Admiral.

The Assistant Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Ernest Lee Jahncke, will entertain at luncheon at the Mayflower on Monday in honor of Rear Admiral T. Hatano, of the Imperial Japanese Navy, who will arrive in Washington tomorrow from New York. Admiral Hatano is en route to his home in Japan after a trip around the world.

He will remain in Washington about a week, during which time several entertainments have been planned in his honor. The Ambassador, Mr. Katsuji Debuchi, will give a dinner for him next week, the date of which will be fixed to suit the admiral's other plans.

Maj. Gen. Stephen O. Fuqua, chief of Infantry, who has been under treatment in Hot Springs, Ark., for several weeks, returned to Washington yesterday.

MISS BEVERLY RITTENHOUSE, who is engaged to Mr. Lawrence Scott Carson, jr., of Chattanooga, Tenn. The wedding will take place in Washington in the spring.

Two Capital Girls Engaged To Be Married

Betrothals Announced of Miss Rittenhouse and Miss Moore.

Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Basil Norris Rittenhouse announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Beverly Rittenhouse, to Mr. Lawrence Scott Carson, jr., of Chattanooga, Tenn. The wedding will take place in the early spring, although no date has been chosen.

Col. and Mrs. Rittenhouse make their home at 2007 Belmont road. They have a son, Ensign Basil Norris Rittenhouse, jr., U. S. N.

Mrs. Bessie Addison Moore announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Lucy Biddle Moore, to Mr. Thomas Jackson Waters, of Baltimore and Washington.

Miss Moore is the sister of the late Robert Addison Moore. Mr. Waters is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Waters, of Baltimore, and grandson of the late Judge Robert C. Combs, of St. Mary's County, Md.

Mr. B. Alexander Singer has gone to New York in company with his parents, Consul General and Mrs. Berthold Singer, whom he will see off on a cruise of the West Indies. Mrs. Singer accompanied the party for part of the trip, leaving them to visit her aunt, Mrs. Robert Nelson Tompkins in Atlantic City. Both Mr. and Mrs. Singer will return to their apartment in the Shoreham next week.

Maj. and Mrs. Robert W. Strong will entertain at the dinner dance at the Shoreham Hotel this evening in compliment to Baron and Baroness de Luz.

Woman's Country Club Elects Officers.

The board of governors of the National Woman's Country Club at its meeting yesterday afternoon at its headquarters on Sixteenth street, re-elected as officers of the club the entire list of officers who during the past year have carried the club to even more than anticipated success.

The list includes Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman, president; Mrs. Claude A. Swanson, Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, Mrs. Henry F. Dimock, Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury and Mrs. Virginia White Speel, vice presidents; Mrs. Effingham Townsend, secretary, and Miss Florence E. Ward, treasurer.

With this election the club enters on its second year of activity, with a roster of notable members from all over the country and with a clubhouse which is becoming increasingly popular with Washington hostesses whose membership entitles them to entertain in its inviting atmosphere.

On Monday at 1 o'clock the club will entertain at a luncheon in honor of the reelected officers.

The First Secretary of the Argentine Embassy, Senor Don Adolfo Arquiza and the Second Secretary of Embassy, Senor Don Eduardo Vivot, will entertain at dinner on Wednesday evening in honor of the Argentine Ambassador and Senora de Malbran.

Commissioner Carmen Adams Newcomb, jr., of the United States Court of Claims, and Mrs. Newcomb entertained at dinner at the Shoreham Hotel last evening for Col. Raymond Benjamin and his daughter, Miss Barbara Benjamin.

Nona Martin Coming Out in Philadelphia

Katherine Hilles to Be Presented at Court in England.

Miss Nona McAdoo Martin, daughter of Mrs. Clayton Platt, jr., of Philadelphia, and granddaughter of the former Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. William Gibbs McAdoo, will be among the debutantes of the coming season in the Quaker City.

Miss Martin will be introduced to society at a small dance to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Platt on September 14, at the Lilacs, their home in Chestnut Hill.

The future bud is the namesake of her maternal aunt, Mrs. Edward S. Cowles, the former Miss Nona McAdoo.

Another interesting debutante will be Miss Katherine Lee Bayard Hilles, daughter of Mrs. William S. Hilles, of Wilmington, Del., who will be included on the first list of American girls to be presented at the Court of St. James this season.

Mrs. Hilles is a daughter of the late Thomas F. Bayard, Secretary of State in the Cleveland administration. With her daughter, Mrs. Hilles has been a frequent visitor in Washington when her brother, former Senator Thomas F. Bayard, was in Congress.

The British sovereigns, King George and Queen Mary, will hold court at Buckingham Palace on May 19 and 20, and on June 9 and 10.

Mrs. Joseph Richardson Baker has concluded the series of informal at homes on first Saturdays of the month and will not be at home today.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Loesch, of Chicago, and the latter's mother, Mrs. Stephen G. Browning, left Washington yesterday for Pasadena, and will return to the Mayflower the first of April. They have been in residence at the hotel since the early winter.

M. Pierre Henry de la Blanchetal, First Secretary of the French Embassy, entertained at dinner last evening at the Mayflower.

The Attache of the British Embassy and Mrs. Harold H. Sims have gone to Montreal, Canada, where they will be the guests of Mr. Sim's mother, Mrs. A. Haig Sims. They will return to Washington Wednesday.

On Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. Sims will entertain at dinner in honor of the retiring Commercial Counselor of the British Embassy, Sir John Joyce Broderick, and Lady Broderick. Sir John has been appointed British Minister to Cuba.

Mrs. Charles Elmore Cropley has returned to Washington after a visit of several weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Bristow Wornall, in Kansas City. Mr. and Mrs. Cropley will be at their apartment for the remainder of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Jones will sail today from New York on the S. S. Mohawk for a three weeks' trip to Cuba and Florida. Mr. and Mrs. Jones make their home in Washington at the Burlington.

Maj. Scanlon Coming Here From London

"Mike" to Go to Hospital for Observation on Some Ailment.

An arrival awaited with interest by many in Washington's younger set, is that of Maj Martin Scanlon, assistant Military Attache for Air of the United States Embassy in London. "Mike," as Maj Scanlon is known to his friends here will arrive by the first steamer from England and will come to the Capital where for some time at least he will not be able to accept the many invitations which will be extended to him. For the popular young bachelor who was stationed in Washington several years ago is coming here not for duty, but for observation at Walter Reed Hospital.

Maj. Scanlon has been in London for two years and before that was in the States at Langley Field and at Fort Worth, teaching and studying the finer points of aviation.

Four years ago he was attached to the American Embassy in Rome, and there, as in all his former posts made a name for himself as one of the most attractive and genial of the bachelors there and in other cities in Italy where he frequently visited during his vacations.

The place which Maj. Scanlon leaves open in London will not be filled until his health improves and he can return to active duty.

Mrs. R. Hunter Dulany has arrived in Washington from her home, Grafton Hall, Upperville, Va., and will be at the Mayflower for the remainder of the month. Her daughter, Mrs. Frederick McElphone, and her granddaughter, Miss Dorothy Randolph, are with her.

The Women's City Club will present in program tomorrow at 4 o'clock a lecture on Oberammergau, with illustrated slides by Mrs. Arthur Keith. There will be a program of music, and tea will follow. Miss Sara Grogan is in charge of arrangements.

The Arts Club will give a tea tomorrow afternoon in honor of the Australian art exhibition, which goes on view tomorrow at the Arts Club.

This is the first contemporary all-Australian exhibition in the United States and is under the patronage of the Right Hon. J. H. Scullin, prime minister of Australia. Mrs. Elizabeth Egans Graves, of the art committee, will be the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Silvanus J. Macy, of Warrenton, Va., have left for a motor trip to Georgia, where Mr. Macy will judge at the Augusta horse show the latter part of this month. They have been guests for the past few weeks of Mrs. Macy's mother, Mrs. Caruth.

Mrs. Tracy Dows went to New York yesterday and is at the Berkshire.

Judge and Mrs. James M. Remick, of Concord, N. H., entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton, where they are spending the winter and spring season.

Mrs. Fernando Cuniberti entertained at luncheon yesterday for her mother, Mrs. H. E. Lovejoy, of Janesville, Wis., when there were nine guests.

Randolphs Buy Famous Estate In Charleston

Have Been Living Near Lincoln Residence in Georgetown.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Randolph have purchased the Simonton place in Charleston, S. C. Rich in historic lore, the house was built in 1776. The gate to the estate is an elaborate and beautiful example of early American architecture and the house boasts a palatial ballroom on the main floor.

Mrs. Randolph was before her marriage Miss Jessie Lincoln, daughter of Mrs. Robert Todd Lincoln, and the late Mr. Lincoln, and granddaughter of President Lincoln.

Mr. and Mrs. Randolph are now residing in Georgetown. Their home is near the Robert Lincoln residence on N street.

Representative and Mrs. Frederick R. Lehlbach have discontinued their Sunday evenings at home for the season. They will leave Washington next week and later in the month will depart on a Mediterranean cruise.

New Swedish Attache Soon To Come Here

Successor to Mr. Bagge at Legation Also Bachelor.

Arriving in this country at Easter time, Mr. von Hartmansdorff will come to Washington to succeed Mr. R. R. Bagge as attache of the Swedish Legation.

Mr. Bagge will sail in two weeks on the S. S. Caronia for Europe, preparatory to going to Madrid, where he will assume the duties of attache at the Swedish Legation. En route to Spain, he will stop off in France for a short time.

Mr. Bagge, one of the attractive of the young foreign bachelors in Washington, will be succeeded here by a bachelor. This news will doubtless be received with pleasure by Capital hostesses, since "eligibles" in Washington are generally at a premium.

Mr. von Hartmansdorff will come from Paris, where he has been serving as attache at the Swedish Legation.

Mrs. C. A. Paul will entertain at luncheon today at the Shoreham Hotel.

The annual commanders' ball, Sons of Confederate Veterans, will be held in the Willard Hotel on Thursday, March 19. The guests of the evening will be Commander in Chief Charles T. Norman, of Richmond; Mr. Walter L. Hopkins, adjutant in chief, of Richmond, and Mr. John W. Rust, president of the Manassas Battlefield Association. The ball will be given for the benefit of the Confederate Memorial Home and the Manassas Battlefield Park.

Mr. F. B. Myers is the chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Mr. L. G. van Hoorn, Counselor of the Netherlands Legation, was among those who entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton.

Mrs. McNary Gives Luncheon for Mrs. Deneen.

Mrs. George Chase Lewis, of New York, is passing several days in Washington at the Mayflower and was a guest at the luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. Charles L. McNary in compliment to Mrs. Charles S. Deneen.

Representative and Mrs. N. L. Lichtenwalner, of Allentown, Pa., are at Wardman Park Hotel for a few days before returning to their home.

Count Felix von Luckner, who has been in Palm Beach for some time, is now in New York where he will be joined at the Ambassador later by Countess von Luckner.

SEVERAL local programs have engaged much attention recently, chief among them the Wilkins period devoted to "Reading the Funnies" each Sunday morning from station WRC. Children, and grown-ups, too, are invited to spread out the pages of The Washington Post just before 8:45 o'clock a. m. and then dine in one S. P. K. Lewis, who reads them to his daughter, Jean. The Bumps, the Bungles, the Man in the Brown Derby, the Katzenjammer Kids, Gasoline Alley and the others will be read and commented upon.

Many listeners who have been fans since the old WCAP-WRC days will recall Louis Annis, tenor soloist with Harold Veo and his orchestra tonight (WRC, 7:30 p. m.), when he sings "We'll Be the Same" and "Walkin' My Baby Back Home."

A new theme song "Just Wonderful," has been composed for this period by Harold Veo, and will be used as the signature tonight.

LOUIS ANNIS is also a member of the Radiotone Quartet, other members of which are William Abernathy, Blaine Cornwell and Horatio Rench. The Radiotones are heard each week in the Studebaker program and are also the Melodious Milkmen. Directed by Rudolf Schramm, this quartet is becoming well known, filling many outside engagements in addition to their radio work.

The University of Maine Band will occupy a half hour this afternoon on WMAL), 4:30 o'clock.

Battle maneuvers of the concentrated United States Army Air Corps fleet over Manhattan Island on May 22 and 23 will be described over an NBC network, in one of the most elaborate descriptive broadcasts ever attempted. Thirty Army planes will participate in the night attack and 72 planes will take part in the daylight attack.

AMOS 'N' ANDY" will leave Chicago for New York immediately following their broadcast tonight, where they will remain a week, devoting much of their time to visits to Harlem.

Henry-George listeners are assured of another year of weekly "blackout" sketches with the signing of a new contract for that period.

His ideas of the need for progressive legislation will be discussed tonight by Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, WMAL, 9:30 o'clock.

Music and mimicry will be presented by Josef Bonime's Orchestra and Elsie May Gordon in the premiere of a new program tonight, WMAL, 8:30 o'clock.

A listener must have been thinking of two other programs when she wrote the Parnassus Trio, which broadcasts daily under the direction of Olga Serlis, this letter:

"I have been listening to your broadcast for two mornings and would like to have a sample of Parnassus, as you suggested."

RADIO's production and sound men are most versatile, but there are some sounds entirely beyond their ingenuity—for instance, the song of a nightingale. In playing Respighi's "Pines of Rome" the other day, the song of this bird was introduced by means of a phonograph record, made in Italy for that purpose.

B. A. Rolfe, conductor, once spent his last $5 bill for a vaudeville audition. The audition "took" and he went on the road.

Herluf Provensen, WRC's Danish announcer, whose middle name is Ansgar, was named for one of his ancestors, Ansgar, the famous missionary, who in the year 826, went from France to Denmark. In the latter country, he is credited with bringing Christianity to the north of Europe.

A RADIO actor thought he had reached the ultimate in speedy growth when he played a 12-year-old boy in one play and ten minutes later the part of an 85-year-old man. He changed his mind during a group of radio skits the other day, however, when he had to whine like an infant in one act and two minutes later take the role of a nonogenarian sea captain.

PUTTING A SPOKE IN HIS WHEEL
CENTURIES AGO FARMERS USED A WAGON KNOWN AS A THREE-WHEELED BUTT. IT HAD NO SHAFTS AND A HORSE COULD NOT CHECK THE VEHICLE GOING DOWN HILL. THE FARMER INSERTED A BAR OF WOOD CALLED A SPOKE THROUGH ONE OF THE WHEEL HOLES, THUS DRAGGING THE WHEEL.
HOW LIFE PRESERVERS BEGAN
PHOENICIANS, THE FIRST SEA-FARING PEOPLE, CARRIED WATER ON THEIR SHIPS IN SKINS. THEY SOON LEARNED THAT THESE SKINS, INFLATED WITH AIR, WOULD SUPPORT THEM IN CASE OF SHIPWRECK, AND HANDED DOWN TO SUCCEEDING GENERATIONS THE IDEA OF LIFE PRESERVERS.

TEA WAS FIRST BROUGHT INTO ENGLAND FROM HOLLAND IN 1657 BY ONE, THOMAS GARWAY. IT REMAINED, HOWEVER, FOR CATHERINE OF BRAGANZA (PORTUGAL) SOON AFTER HER MARRIAGE TO CHARLES II IN 1662, TO SET THE FASHION FOR AFTERNOON TEA, OF WHICH SHE WAS VERY FOND.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

She Lies Perfectly.

WHEN we asked readers to tell our correspondent, "Mrs. J. N. J.," whether it was ever pardonable for a wife to tell her husband anything but the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, we knew there would be a lot of husbands broadcasting with gestures on the subject. We were a bit rash in offering as our own opinion that whatever kept the domestic wheels going around smoothly was all right with us and would be if we were a husband.

Our husband may tell us anything he likes, conceal anything he likes. All we care about it that we shall not begin to show by any facial twitches that we know when he is lying and when he is not. We think the whole business is a bore. What difference does it make where a man was or what he was doing—once it is done? What does truth or lie avail? So we implied our careless indifference to the whole matter. And you should hear the husbands! The husbands no less! The noble-hearted souls. Listen in to these modern George Washingtons:

"Your request that readers state their stand on the subject of whether any circumstance ever justifies a woman telling her husband a lie is one of a more serious nature than you seem to perceive. To you the whole thing seems a joke. In effect you say 'what difference does it make?' Well, that depends upon the man. Here is my opinion. If I found that my wife had ever lied to me I would leave her without one moment's hesitation. I would not knowingly marry a liar. To me a lie is the most abject admission of cowardice. And I detest a coward. P. J.

to live by lying.' And she wins."

A beautiful sentiment. I did it, father, with my little hatchet—have a look. But we have seen wonderful wives lie and lie and lie. We have listened to a friend talk of a terrible cold in her head to account for red eyes and conceal from a high-tempered husband the fact that his mother had been around on one of her badgering expeditions, denouncing him as a son and a husband and a father. We saw the wife hand out $50 to get the motheriy old soul out of the house. And feel reasonably sure she would account in some way for the $50 if necessity arose. Was it cowardice? Would it be brave to spoil a man's dinner, upset his nerves and humiliate him with the truth?

A saint from down in Dixie has the whole thing figured out:

"All women lie. My wife lies perfectly and I despise her perfectly. She lied herself into marriage and she will lie herself into alimony. Women could not exist on any basis of honesty or integrity. They do not know the meaning of the terms. Let them lie. They fool no one. The very judge who gives a woman alimony knows she is lying, but, like any man, he thinks, 'She is a woman. She has to live by lying.' And she wins.

Yet was it a woman who invented the lie? Seems to us we once read that a trifling evasion took place in that incident in the Garden of Eden, but that is worse than going back to the hatchet and the cherry tree. The whole argument should be. Is it ever justifiable for any one to run a temperature over anything.

By the way—is it?

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE give me a list of four or five evergreens which will develop in a few years into a windbreak. I am anxious to protect my vegetable garden from the north winds in winter.

MRS. FREDA R. O.

Among the evergreens are the pine, spruce, hemlock and Douglas fir, while among the deciduous trees, the Norway maple, Oriental plane, the oaks, and for fast growers, birches, poplars and willows. If you choose the deciduous trees just named, better plant a few dogwoods, thorns or sweet magnolia in between, for in any mass planting you must have some wide-spreading trees in between the taller varieties.

Are aquatic plants necessary for the life of fish in an aquarium? I have a beautiful bowl, but the fish always die and I have been considering adding an aquatic plant or two.

ELSIE D. W.

Water plants are necessary to keep fish alive in a bowl, for they supply food, both in green form and as oxygen, to the inhabitants of the water. The plants in turn, live on the carbon dioxide and waste material given off by the fish. Among the available aquatics we have fanwort, lettuce leaf and water fern.

When pruning a pine tree should I cut beyond the foliage? A. B. T.

Please give me a list of six easily grown plants suitable for rock gardening. MRS. MAZIE T. T.

Please tell me something about transplanting a holly tree. I mean a tree a foot high. Some one told me to remove all the leaves. Is there any authority for such a procedure?

MRS. ANNIE H. S.

One of our best authorities on holly trees tells us to "remove the leaves entirely or at least two-thirds of them to reduce transpiration. The roots are fibrous, allowing a large ball to be dug. Do not expose the roots to air for any length of time, but wrap them in burlap." Always plant holly in well-drained soil. Top dress with manure rather than placing it in the soil. Do not transplant before May, and do it in the spring rather than in the fall.

Please tell me why my geraniums grow tall and spindly in the house when they do so well in the open in summer. Also, why do the leaves turn yellow and fall off?

AN OLD READER.

Lack of sun, too much water or fertilizer or lack of fresh air may be causes why geraniums act as yours are acting. These plants indoors must be kept a trifle potbound, kept on the dry side and given no fertilizer. They must be in strong sun at all times, watered only every other day and be kept growing in small pots. All the above directions apply to young plants, as geraniums which have bloomed all summer are of little use for house plants. You can hang old plants roots up to the rafters of the cellar, where they will live but not grow.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Paris, March 6.

IT may be only the first week in March, but it's high time that you gave a serious thought to your Easter outfit! For Easter comes early this year, don't forget—and one simply has to have something new in the way of spring clothes, no matter what or how.

For reasons other than that they are delightfully smart and young looking on, the tunic is back in favor. A tunic like the one I have illustrated for you today, for instance, similar to one I saw at the Ritz, appears in all of the smart collections. Maggy Rouff, Heim, Patou, all show their smart tunics, some that fasten at one side like this one did, some that slip on over the head, all of them much thought out as to design and cut, and sometimes matching the lining of a jacket. The one illustrated is white satin, with a black satin skirt and a smart black satin collar—delightful for a blonde. Then there are two other original tunic collars sketched, and ever so many more details of tunic chic that I haven't room to sketch.

Whatever the details, a tunic has many uses and occasions, and a tunic is smart and spring-like—so better select a tunic frock for your Easter ensemble.

• • • •

And, of course, your Dah-ray has figured out one for you which you can make yourself—out of two and a half to three yards of material. It is the one sketched today, so better cut out this drawing and save it, and better send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet which tells you how to make it. Not only how to make this one, but how, with different collar effects and matching skirts, you can have three or four completely different ensembles! That's an idea, now isn't it? Better get that envelope ready right away!

Are evening gown skirts hinting at getting shorter? It seems so—for Patou, no other, shows some new evening gowns this season, made of transparent materials—and showing a knee-length underskirt beneath. Lanvin has a decided tendency in this direction, for her favorite skirt this season, which appears on almost all of her evening models, is arranged in such a way that it shows the leg almost to the knee, in several places. About six times in one skirt. I wonder——?

• • • •

And square crowned hats! These, too, are a Patou offering—square hats for sports and tailored wear—a relief from the scalp fitting crown that we have known for two years or so. These new hats have a definite crown line, rather square, sometimes round, but always right up and off the hair. Nice!

• • • •

And flowers! You can't imagine how many boutonnieres and corsages of artificial flowers make their appearance for spring! Always nice flowers, always expensive ones, always well placed, never more than two, and they are not too large. For variation one evening dress had flat flower straps, another had a continuation of the corsage, which was placed at the shoulder, and which went around the back of the neck.

• • • •

Tomorrow, again, is the day for Dare's weekly fashion letter. Make it a point to look for it in the big Sunday Post.

Au Revoir!

What Today Means to You

"PISCES."

IF March 7 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 2 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. to 9:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m. and from 5:30 p. m. to 7:10 p. m.

March 7 will probably bring you some financial benefit from outside sources. In other respects the day is not one of very good augury, and jealousy and misunderstandings are liable to cause rifts and disagreement, even with those nearest and dearest to you.

A child born on this March 7 will be temperamental and its youth must be surrounded with watchful care. Rashness and impatience will accentuate evils that tenderness and affection will eradicate. This child will be more suitable for professional than for commercial pursuits.

You, if born on March 7, learned at a very early age that the best way of getting up in the world is to get down to your job. Regardless of your early environment, you have always been anxious to rise and keep rising. Allied to this creditable ambition you have a great ability for work, a great liking for an active life and an unquestionable desire, above all things, to be true to yourself and your ideals. You have never considered any work beneath you and tackle any job entrusted to you with the best that is in you.

In your effort to outstrip others you have denied yourself many pleasures, and as the years roll by, you will find it very difficult to grow old gracefully. You are never happy unless working, and you make no provision for the overhaul that every human engine needs. Therein lies your chief danger, and if you could curb, at times, your voracious appetite for labor you would live longer! You try to put too much of accomplishment into too brief a space of time.

Away from your duties you are not very companionable, and this is felt more strongly in your home than elsewhere. You lack all sympathy for all those not cast in an iron mold and can not appreciate the value of emotion, although you are more than careful in doing what you consider to be your duty.

Successful people born March 7:
Goold Brown, grammarian.
Richard M. Upjohn, architect.
Daniel Giraud Elliott, scientist.
Edward P. Roe, Presbyterian clergyman.
Luther Burbank, horticulturist.
Thaddeus Dodd, founder of Washington College, Pennsylvania.

Helping the Homemaker

A SUNDAY IN MARCH.

Breakfast.
Chilled Diced Pineapple
Waffles and Honey
Broiled Bacon and Coffee

Dinner.
Baked Chicken, Bettina Gravy
Mashed Potatoes
Buttered Asparagus
Bread Butter
Head Lettuce and Relish Dressing
Cherry Shortcake Coffee

Supper.
Peach and Cheese Salad
Bread Butter
Nut Cookies Tea

Baked Chicken, Bettina.

½ cup flour.
1 teaspoon salt.
¼ teaspoon paprika.
¼ teaspoon celery salt.
5 tablespoons fat.
1 cup water.
3 tablespoons butter.

Wash and clean chicken and cut into serving pieces. Rinse well Sprinkle with flour, salt, paprika and celery salt. Heat fat in frying pan. When hot add and brown chicken. Remove browned chicken to baking pan. Pour water into frying pan, and boil one minute. Pour over chicken. Dot with butter. Cover and bake two hours in slow oven. Inspect frequently and turn chicken to allow even baking. Cooking chicken this way preserves the flavors.

Relish Dressing for Head Lettuce.

½ cup French dressing.
3 tablespoons chili sauce.
2 tablespoons pickle relish.
2 tablespoons catsup.
¼ teaspoon salt.
3 tablespoons lemon juice.

Mix and chill ingredients. Beat with fork and serve.

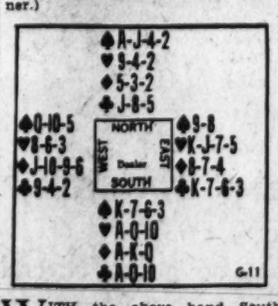
Cherry Shortcake.

2 cups flour.
3 teaspoons baking powder.
¼ tablespoon salt.
4 tablespoons lard.
2-3 cup milk.
2 cups cherries.
½ cup sugar.

Mix flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in lard with knife. Add milk. When soft dough forms, pat it out until it is 2-3 inch thick. Bake 15 minutes on greased pans in moderate oven. Mix and chill cherries and sugar. Split shortcake, add portions of cherries. Replace top and spread with remaining cherries. Serve at once. It is best to add the cherries just before serving to prevent shortcake from becoming soggy.

WORK ON BRIDGE

(This article is intended for the Auction and Contract Bridge beginner.)



WITH the above hand South would bid one No Trump at Auction Bridge, three No Trumps at Contract Bridge. Either bid would obtain the contract.

West, in either game, would open by leading the Jack of Diamonds, which, of course, South would have to win; and South naturally would start Spades—the only long suit in either hand—and would want to take advantage of the Ace-Jack finesse in dummy. As there is a possibility of a singleton Queen in the East hand (a very remote chance, but still a chance), South should lead first the King of Spades and take the finesse on the second round. A finesse always should be postponed until a second round if doing so does not upset the plan of play.

Declarer, when planning the play of this hand, should note that in the closed hand he has two Ace-Queen-Ten suits and it may be that he may wish to lead twice toward Hearts. That will be the case if the first round is won by West with the Jack, or by South with the Ten, which would mark the King-Jack in the East hand. The Club suit will only need one North entry, as the Jack can be led and the Ten played under it if the King does not cover. Consequently Declarer needs three entries in the North hand and South should lead the King of Spades to trick 2 and the Seven of Spades to trick 3. On this trick he should take the finesse, and when it wins and four Spade tricks are assured, he should try leading the Club Jack. If East covers with the King, of course South wins with the Ace; if East does not cover, South plays the Ten.

In the latter event Declarer shifts to Hearts. North leading and South playing the Ten if East plays small. Then to put dummy in again on the third round of Spades, South should be careful to lead the Six, winning with dummy's Ace; and then to lead for the second Heart finesse.

It will now be necessary to get in dummy once more; and that can be accomplished on the fourth round of Spades by leading the Trey (note the importance of retaining it) and taking with the Four.

Frequently extra entries can be obtained in the dummy by manipulation of this kind of the small cards in the long suit.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

"Donald Mackie" means "World-Mighty-Son-of-Fire." "Edna Butler" means "Pleasure Bottle-Keeper."

THE family name "Butler" is very common in England and Ireland, but is ultimately of French origin. It is derived from the old French "boutellier," meaning "the bottle-keeper," "the bottle-bearer," and "the cupbearer." It was originally applied to servants who had charge of the wines and liquors, but it later took on a more extended meaning, and was applied to head servants in general. Furthermore, there is evidence that in a few cases this name originally meant "the bottle maker," and indicated the occupation of the persons who were first so called. A certain Katrina la Butelere and a Clement le Buttiller are mentioned in the Hundred Rolls, a famous list of English names published in 1273. "Butler" is one of the most famous of the Anglo-French families in Ireland. It appears to have originated in that country during the reign of Henry the Second. At that time a certain Theobald Walter was appointed to the office of chief butler of Ireland. This man was the founder of the Irish Butler families.

The family name "Mackie" (also spelled "Mackey" and "Mackay") is of Irish and Scottish origin. In Ireland it is especially common in Ulster and Connacht. It is derived from the Gaelic and Irish "Mac Aodha," meaning "the son of Aodh." "Aodh" (also spelled "Aedh") was an old personal name meaning "fire" and "ardor." When this personal name was originally applied it signified "the fiery warrior." It is one of the oldest Irish personal names of which we have record, since there is distinct evidence that it was used in the time of Julius Caesar.

What Will the Poor Deb Do Now?

The girl who works seems to have rather pushed aside her sheltered sister in capturing the matrimonial prize. This article tells the story of secretaries of public men who became both wife and secretary and explains why the debutante finds her social charm shadowed by the ability of her more practical sister.

CRUISER TO SEEK CREW OF DERELICT

Hope for Seven Missing Men of Schooner Emerett Is Still Kept Up.

Salisbury, Md., March 6 (A.P.).—A search by sea and air for the seven men missing from the derelict schooner Emerett was promised today, relatives of the captain, William S. Roberts, said, by the Navy Department. The search is to start Monday, provided the fate of the seven is not determined by then.

Capt. Roberts' son, M. DaCosta Roberts, bank cashier and owner of the vessel, said Navy Department officials at Washington telephoned that a cruiser with airplanes would be sent to the vicinity where the abandoned four-masted craft was sighted Wednesday, 405 miles east of Savannah, Ga.

The schooner, apparently swept off her course by a storm, is out of the jurisdiction of the Coast Guard.

The Emerett sailed February 25 from Jacksonville, for Porto Rico with a cargo of lumber. Abandoned and with one lifeboat missing, she was sighted Wednesday by the steamer Sea Thrush.

Norfolk, Va., March 6 (A.P.).—Coast Guard headquarters here today said the wreckage of the four-masted schooner Emerett, sighted 405 miles east of Savannah by the steamer Sea Thrush, is nearer the Bermudas than the American coast and therefore out of the coast guard's jurisdiction.

The cutter Modoc has been sent from Southport, N. C., to destroy the wreck which sunk, except for the topmast, inside Frying Pan Shoals near Cape Fear.

Deaf Couple Plan Unique Wedding

Ceremony of Government Worker to Be Carried Out on Fingers.

A romance which flourished through six years with never an audible word passing between the couple will culminate in a silent wedding March 29, when Robert Werdig marries Miss Jennie Jones, accountant in the Post-office Department. The two young people, both deaf since infancy, met while students at Gallaudet College.

At the wedding, the officiating clergyman, the Rev. A. D. Bryant, assisted by the Rev. S. Mieland, of Columbus, Ohio, will conduct the services in the sign laguage, not only for the benefit of the bride and groom, but for many of the guests as well, as a number of former classmates from Gallaudet are expected to attend.

Mutual interest and a common bond furthered the romance from the time the young people were college students. "One of our greatest bonds is our work for others who are deaf," Miss Jones said through her interpreter. "There are so many who need help and there is so much that can be done for them."

Buses May Use Fans To Drive Out Gases

Special fans designed to drive out poisonous gases and bring in fresh air are being tested on buses of the Washington Rapid Transit Co., under direction of the Public Utilities Commission and may be ordered placed on all buses operating in Washington.

Health Officer William C. Fowler conducted tests some time ago and reported to the commission that the amount of carbon dioxide in crowded buses was too high.

Yet you'll find me at the crossroads store"

When Jack's ashore he's liable to be going several places at once! But there's one thing Navy men can get together on—whether in Hong Kong, Seattle, or Newtown Center: Taste is what they want in their cigarettes—the taste that comes from milder and better tobaccos, and from nothing else! They know their cigarettes, these men of the fleet. That's why Chesterfield is the Navy's choice!

Chesterfield

They Satisfy —that's Why!

FOR NINETEEN years, our Research Department has kept intimate touch with every new development of Science that could be applied to the manufacture of cigarettes. During this period there has been no development of tested value or importance to the smoker which we have not incorporated into the making of Chesterfield cigarettes.

WHEAT PORRIDGE REGAINING VOGUE

As Shown by Calvin Coolidge Ancient Dish Has Many Nutritive Qualities.

The example of former President Coolidge in serving a member of the Federal Farm Board for breakfast recently at his home in Northampton, Mass., a cereal of wheat and rye porridge was carrying out the recommendation of the Bureau of Home Economics of the Department of Agriculture, which recently urged the people to "serve more wheat" and thus not only gain good nutritive qualities for the family but assist the farmers to dispose of their overcurplus of wheat as well.

Former President Coolidge's recipe for this seldom-used dish was two parts of wheat and one of rye, put in a double boiler and cooked whole until the kernels burst. The former President's enthusiasm for wheat porridge has aroused a new interest in this revised version of an ancient dish. It is a well known fact that Caesar's conquering legions did their fighting with boiled wheat as their principal ration. Wheat porridge is just as good without the rye, according to Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the Bureau of Home Economics.

New Interest Aroused.

Many other appetizing ways of utilizing the cooked whole wheat have been developed by the bureau. It can be combined with meat, fish or vegetables and served as the main dish of a meal. It can be used as you do cooked rice, as in stuffed peppers. The flavor is similar to that of nuts and if properly cooked the grain retains its shape. These recipes can be secured at the bureau.

A family of ten with three adults and seven children can fill a week's market basket as outlined by the food guide for an average cost of $12.37. This is a minimum allowance of food which the bureau says can not be lowered with safety unless supplemented by products raised at home. They urge, rather, an increase in the various items wherever possible, and suggest that the guide be used as a foundation for a more extensive diet.

The cities in which the figures were gathered to calculate the above cost are given in the order of the value of a week's market basket for a family of ten: Los Angeles, $10.60; Kansas City, Mo., $11.76; Chicago, $11.79; St. Louis, $11.87; Detroit, $11.95; Philadelphia, $12.06; Pittsburgh, $12.13; Boston, $12.52; New York City, $12.88; New Orleans, $12.89; Charlotte, $12.92; Washington, D. C., $13.07; Dallas, $13.07; Atlanta, $13.69.

For Family of Ten.

A family of ten including three adults and seven children should buy every week:

Washington flour and cereal (1½ lbs. bread equal 1 lb. cereal)	30-40 lbs.
Whole fresh milk	42-56 qts.
Or canned unsweetened milk	42-56 tall cans
Dried beans, peas, peanut butter	2-5 lbs.
Tomatoes, fresh or canned, or citrus fruit	12 lbs.
Other vegetables (including some of green or yellow color), and inexpensive fruits	30-40 lbs.
Fats, such as lard, salt pork, bacon, margarine, butter, &c.	6 lbs.
Sugar and molasses	7 lbs.
Lean meat, fish, cheese, eggs (1 doz. eggs approximates 1 lb.)	10-14 lbs.
Eggs (for children)	8 each
Coffee	1 lb.
Tea	¼ lb.

Menu for One Day.

Breakfast.
Stewed Prunes Toast
Cooked Cereal and Top Milk
Coffee (for adults) Milk (for children)

Dinner.
Whole Wheat, Fish and Tomatoes
Spinach
Baked Potatoes (for children)
Apple Sauce

Supper.
Cream of Vegetable Soup
Potatoes au Gratin
Oatmeal Cookies.
Tea (for adults) Milk (for children)

Note: These recipes serve five people.

Methods of Cooking Whole Wheat.

Sort the whole wheat grains and wash thoroughly. For each cup of wheat add one and one-half cups of water and soak over night.

For wheat cooked over direct heat in the morning add three cups of water and one teaspoon of salt to each cup of soaked wheat. Boil gently for three and one-half hours or until tender and no uncooked starchy flavor. If necessary, add more boiling water during the cooking to keep the right consistency.

For Steamed Wheat—In the morning drain the wheat and place in a thin layer in the top of a steamer. The water must be kept boiling in the lower part of the steamer and it is necessary to add boiling water during the cooking period. Steam the wheat for 3½ hours. Sprinkle salt over the wheat before serving.

For Wheat Cooked in the Fireless Cooker—In the morning add 1 cup of water and 1 teaspoon of salt to each cup of soaked wheat. Place in a kettle and bring to the boiling point over direct heat. Cover and place in a kettle between the heat stores. After three hours, reheat the stones and cook the wheat for 2½ hours longer. Wheat cooked in any of these ways may be served as a breakfast cereal or combined with other foods.

Whole Wheat, Fish and Tomato.

1 quart canned tomatoes
½ cup chopped celery.
1 teaspoon salt.
⅛ teaspoon pepper.
2 cups cooked whole wheat.

Drain the fish, reserve the liquid and flake the fish into small pieces. Cook the tomatoes, celery and fish liquid until the mixture is fairly thick. Add the seasoning, wheat and fish, and cook a few minutes longer and stir to blend well. Serve on crisp toast.

Men Are Fond of Variety In Dishes Served to Them

Fried Bananas Is One Choice and Others Are Sweet Potatoes With Marshmallows and Pumpkin Pie With Maple Syrup.

Does men's taste in food differ much from women's? Do women scorn the steak which many men choose as their festive dish? How many healthy men will turn down a pudding with a rich sauce?

While women are supposed to eat more fruit, the man of the house is usually responsible for the disappearance from the fruit bowl of the apples and bananas the children may have left. And speaking of fruit, George Frederick, in his book, "Cooking as Men Like It," says one of his favorite dishes is fried bananas. He reports:

"They are the particular, private delight of many men who have once enjoyed them. How is it done properly? You cut some medium ripe bananas into three slices, the long way, and then dip them into beaten egg, and then dust with cracker meal. Now handle them gently with a spatula and place them carefully into a heated iron frying pan, in which plenty of butter has been melted. You fry to a rich brown, then sprinkle with cinnamon and serve with a slice of lemon. Men, you are dining upon one of the best foods a bountiful nature has offered to her favorite offspring!"

Women seem as a rule to like vegetables more than men; but most men are truly devoted to such vegetables as baked potatoes, corn, cabbage and fried onions. Recently nine men were asked their favorite dishes. One selection was fruit, and the rest were: Steak, French fried onions; apple pie; ham and eggs; cheese cake; corn-beef hash; sweet potatoes with marshmallows; pumpkin pie with maple syrup.

The recipe for some of these favorite "man" dishes may be helpful.

Sweet Potatoes With Marshmallows.

5 sweet potatoes.
Hot milk.
Butter.
Marshmallows.
Seasoning.

Cook the sweet potatoes until soft. Pare, press through the ricer and add seasoning and hot milk enough to make a soft consistency. Add a tablespoon of butter to each pint of potatoes and place in a greased baking dish. Cover with marshmallows and bake in a hot oven 500 degrees F. until brown. Two or three sliced bananas or one cup shredded pineapple may be added to the potatoes after they are made.

Pumpkin Pie With Maple Syrup.

¾ cup brown sugar.
1 teaspoon cinnamon.
1 teaspoon nutmeg.
½ teaspoon ginger.
½ teaspoon salt.
2 eggs.
2 cups milk.

The pumpkin may be steamed or baked or canned pumpkin may be used. Mix in the order given and bake on crust like a custard pie in a hot oven 450 degrees F. for ten minutes. Then lower temperature to 325 degrees F. and bake until set. Serve hot or cold, garnish with whipped cream. Just before serving pour maple syrup over the cream.

Deep Fat Prefererd For Making Fritters

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

1 cup liquid, either juice from canned corn or milk, or the two mixed.
1 cup drained canned corn.
1¾ cups sifted soft-wheat flour.
1 tablespoon melted fat.
1 egg.
2 teaspoons baking powder.
¾ teaspoon salt.

Mix the flour, baking powder, and salt. Mix the juice from the canned corn or milk, or whatever liquid is used, the egg after it has been beaten slightly, and the canned corn. Stir this liquid mixture gradually into the dry ingredients. Add the melted fat. If the corn is very moist, even after the liquid has been drained from it, more flour may be needed. Dried corn which has been soaked and cooked until tender may also be used.

Fry the corn fritters in deep fat or, if preferred, in a skillet in shallow fat. In either case drop the mixture by spoonfuls into the fat and fry rather slowly. The fritters need time to cook through to the center before the outside becomes too brown. Drain the fritters on absorbent paper and serve hot.

It Pays to Employ the Pantry Pals

You'll find your baking problems fully met if you will adopt the "Pantry Pals" in your baking.

Washington FLOUR

is made of that special growth of wheat best adapted to kitchen facilities and always comes to you uniform in quality and nourishing strength.

The "Pantry Pals" are sold by grocers and delicatessens in all sizes from 2-lb. sacks up, and all Washington Flour—Plain or Self-Rising—is guaranteed to give satisfaction or your money will be refunded.

U. S. GIVES RECIPE FOR FRIED CHICKEN

Done in Southern Style It Is Most Delectable Dish; 2 Important Points.

FOWL MUST BE YOUNG

When the subject of chicken, properly fried in true Southern fashion, becomes sufficiently important for a mere man to voice his feelings and ideas on the matter in a lengthy magazine article, it is apparent that there must be one right way and many wrong ways of preparing this always delectable dish. The United States Department of Agriculture was therefore asked for a satisfactory recipe, and here it is. The two points important to a good Southern cook are "partly cover," so the chicken will cook through, and "drain on absorbent paper" so it will not be greasy. Experience must be depended on to some extent in the matter of cooking time, for even frying chickens differ in size and plumpness, but the larger pieces will almost certainly take from 20 minutes to half an hour to become done. Keep the cooked pieces warm until all are ready, but do not let them get dry and hard in a hot oven.

Select young, plump chickens. Remove pin feathers, wash the chicken, draw, and cut into pieces suitable for serving, and wipe dry. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and rub well with flour. In a heavy skillet, heat a generous quantity of well-flavored fat to just below the smoking point, put in the larger and thicker pieces of chicken so that each piece will be surrounded by the hot fat, partly cover, and watch closely to pevent scorching. Turn the chicken as soon as it becomes golden brown, reduce the heat, cook until tender, and drain on paper to absorb the excess fat. As the larger pieces are removed, add the smaller ones and all will be finished about the same time.

For gravy, to each 2 tablespoons of fat in the skillet allow 2 tablespoons of flour, cook for a few minutes, stir constantly, add 1½ cups of rich milk, and cook until thickened. Add more salt and pepper if needed, sprinkle finely chopped parsley over the gravy, and serve hot with the chicken.

Cranberry Muffins Are Delicious to Eat

1 egg.
¼ cup sugar.
¾ cup milk.
¼ teaspoon salt.
2 cups sifted flour.
4 teaspoons baking powder.
1 cup cranberries.
2 tablespoons sugar.

Break the egg into a mixing bowl. Beat it lightly. Add the milk. Sift the dry ingredients. Then add the milk and egg mixture; also the melted butter. Roll the cranberries in the 2 tablespoons of sugar, and fold them carefully into the batter. Place in greased muffin tins. Bake in a moderate oven, about one-half hour, or until brown. This makes 12 muffins.

CAREFREE AFTERNOONS ARE YOURS

NOW you can have the afternoons for bridge games, movies, shopping tours, romps with the children, or any of those things you've never been able to do . . . with never a worry about rushing home to start dinner. When you have an Electric Range, that worry won't spoil any more afternoons.

It seems almost too good to be true. A little timer on the range and the heat control dial do all your worrying for you. Just slip the meal in the oven and adjust the dial any time during the day. A perfectly cooked meal will be ready when you return.

For at the right time the heat turns on. It stays on at uniform, sustained temperature until the meal is cooked. And when it turns off, the meal stays deliciously warm in the flavor-sealed insulated oven.

You owe it to yourself to investigate this modern method of cooking. Truly, its economies will prove a delightful surprise.

SPORTS The Washington Post. SPORTS

16 WASHINGTON: SATURDAY, MARCH 7, 1931.

NATS' VETERANS REPORTING EARLY, EAGER TO PLAY

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, March 6.—It is an odd thing that of all the sports on the varied American program, the one that has moved people to the most profound reflections on life is the six-day bicycle race, the fiftieth of which is being contested or, at any rate, performed, in the Garden at the present time. These reflections are, for the most part, of a rather depressing nature, having to do with the futility and brevity of human existence and the fact that oblivion is but the goal for the bike riders vanish from view when a race is over.

Magazines and newspapers from time to time have commissioned prominent essayists to visit the six-day bike races at both the old and new Gardens to do something that would really live about this strange affair. But there has always been a general lugubrious sameness about their work.

As the spectator sits there, watching the athletes pedaling around the rim hour after hour, day after day, even the most frivolous nature is likely to become pensive and to see in the monotonous repetition an analogy to the average human life and no encouraging one, either. The riders start on Sunday night to seek the bubble reputation, and they ride furiously or drowsily, according to the state of the competition, until the following Saturday night, when they dismount and disappear.

Even Mr. Tammany Young, who is no cynic, has been heard to compare the boys on the bikes to so many donkeys chasing wisps of hay suspended from sticks before them, and even noted authors with middle names are unable to write about the six-day race without some reference, done in false light-heartedness, to the squirrel racing in a whirling cage or man hurrying nowhere on the treadmill of life.

PEDALING NOW HERE IN LIFE

The six-day bike race is the sport that makes the people think, but I am not sure that it is to be commended just on that account, for the thoughts which it engenders are not of an ambitious and stimulating kind. On the contrary, it makes people reflect that, what the hell, a guy hustles and hustles, with a boss to spur him on with little prizes for winning sprints, but that he will last just as long and come to the same end if he takes it easy.

Romantic writers, who use the word Homeric and refer to the smoke and surge of battle in describing football games which Notre Dame wins by the score of 49 to 0, become philosophic at the six-day bike race and touch more upon the theme of futility than the heroic nature of the struggle. This is not because the riders are professionals nor is there any suggestion any more that they are indulging in a mockery as some of them used to do. The riders are among the athletic prodigies, game, daring and strong, and sometimes they go crashing down the banks, collecting a couple of cords of pine splinters in their sides, in horrible tangles from which it seems that no man can emerge alive. But, even when this happens, the customer is likely to think, "Well, symbolically, that represents the time I went broke."

There will always be some division of popular opinion as to whether these affairs are veritable contests or mere performances, a fact which offends Mr. John Chapman, the proprietor of the New York and Chicago races. But Mr Chapman merely hires his riders by the week at private terms and bars as outlaws all riders who do not find his terms agreeable. And he conducts the scoring by some intricate and mysterious system of his own, rendering no account to any public body, so it is hard to allay all doubt.

PEDALERS HIRE OUT BY WEEK

He has the utmost confidence in his own integrity, and he asks the customers to rely on him, but if he were returning from Europe with his bags absolutely empty the United

C. U. to Stage Lone Meet Tonight

Conger Is Magnet in Only Local Indoor Track Carnival.

3 District Titles at Stake; 286 Entries Seek Honors.

By JACK ESPEY.

WASHINGTON'S only indoor track and field fixture, the Catholic University meet, will be held tonight in the first renewal in Brookland Gymnasium, beginning at 8 o'clock. A full and varied program awaits an anticipated crowd of 1,500—the capacity—and one of the greatest runners in the world will appear—Ray Conger.

Conger, sleepy-eyed, winged-foot representative of the Illinois Athletic Club, holds the national amateur championships at 1 mile (outdoors), and 1,000 yards (indoors). He will compete against four of the best middle distance runners available in the Ryan Thousand, named in honor of the rector of the university. This event goes on the boards at 11:45 o'clock, approximately one-half hour before the close.

Former G. U. Star Opposes Conger.

Prominent among Conger's rivals is Jim Kennedy, of the Newark Athletic Club, formerly a freshman star at Georgetown University. Kennedy holds a decision this season over Phil Edwards, joint holder of the American outdoor 880-yard record. Lloyd Johnson, of William and Mary College; George Gwinn, of the Baltimore Police Department, and Alfred Christenson, of Lafayette College, round out the field.

With notice of Conger's coming announced several weeks ago, officials of the meet have been beseiged with requests for tickets, and indications are that all seats will be sold before the program gets under way.

A total of 285 individuals representing 35 schools, colleges and clubs appear in the entry list, predominantly of a local flavor. Catholic and Maryland Universities will be represented by full teams as will Tech, Eastern and Central High Schools.

Three District of Columbia A. A. U. championships are carded—the 50-yard dash, high jump and 3-mile run.

The biggest team entry is that of the Naval Academy, which is favored to carry off high scoring honors in the intercollegiate division. Among Navy's best representatives is Capt. G. MacKenzie, 9.4 sprinter.

The order of events follows:

1. 45-yard high hurdles, open, handicap, heats and semifinals.
2. 50-yard low hurdles, high and prep, heats and semifinals.
3. 50-yard low hurdles, intercollegiate, heats and semifinals.
4. 50-yard dash, high and prep, heats and semifinals.

THE COWBIRD—ALWAYS LAYS ITS EGGS IN OTHER BIRDS' NESTS

TWENTY-FIVE years ago William Warnock became famous for growing gigantic squashes and no one seems to know just how he did it. It is reported that Warnock made incisions in the growing vegetables and fed them honey, but however he did it, residents of Goderich, Ont., claim that he produced the biggest squash ever seen in America and they're still waiting for some one to prove otherwise.

• • • •

A cowbird doesn't know the first step when it comes to raising a family—and yet there are plenty of cowbirds. The mother cowbird herself never even builds a nest and when the time comes for her to lay an egg she picks out the nest of a small warbler or some other small bird and leaves a single egg with others already in the nest. After this the cowbird forgets all about the matter but the small bird that has to hatch the cowbird's egg along with her own soon finds a big youngster in her nest almost as large as herself—and soon much larger. The baby cowbird hogs all the food and grows healthily but the smaller birds remain undersized and often starve. The cowbird is soon able to take care of himself and leaves the nest to join his brothers and sisters that have grown up in other nests.

24 COLLEGES SEEK TRACK CROWN

NEW YORK, March 6 (A.P.).—Three hundred picked track and field athletes from 24 colleges and universities compete tomorrow night in the intercollegiate A. A. A. championships in the 102d Engineers Armory. The track there is claimed to be the fastest indoor track in the world.

An added feature this year is a nonchampionship event, an invitation half mile, in which Russell Chapman, of Bates College, America's current half-mile champion, will strive to break the world's indoor record of 1:51 2-5 for the distance. The record was set in 1928 by Lloyd Hahn, of Nebraska, on the same track.

Phil Edwards, of Canada, former New York University captain, and several others will be in the race but principally as pacemakers for the flying Maine student.

Coan and McCluskey Threaten Records.

Several intercollegiate records will be in jeopardy, including the 1-mile, 2-mile and pole vault marks. Carl A. S. Coan, of Pennsylvania, is favored to break the mile track mark of 4:17 4-5; Joe McCluskey, of Fordham, has run several two miles this winter under the record of 9:22 4-5, and Everett Colyer, of Cornell, has done three inches better in the pole vault than the mark of 13 feet 7¾ inches.

Local College Court Season Ends Tonight

The basket ball season for local colleges will close tonight with two games, one here and one on a foreign court. Strayer and Bliss Electrical clash in a Washington collegiate conference game at Silver Spring, beginning at 8 o'clock, while Columbus University meets Lynchburg (Va.) College on the latter's floor.

Contest Fans Resort to Verse

THE POST'S baseball contest has had the strange effect of causing several Capital fans to wax poetic in the expression of their views concerning the make-up and the prospects of the Nats for the 1931 season.

Two of yesterday's contributors set forth in rhyme their opinions of the Washington Team in the attempt to win the block of six box seats to the inaugural games which The Post is offering to the fan who best states his or her opinion of the Nats, their probable line-up and their 1931 chances.

BROWN SEEN ACE

Mrs. R. M. Henry, of 4461 Conduit road northwest, approves of Washington's chances to win the pennant in clever verse in which she expresses the belief that Lloyd Brown will be the club's outstanding pitcher, that Jack Hayes will be given the preference over Buddy Myer at second base and that Harry Rice will supplant Sam Rice in right field.

Stephen J. Lewis also resorts to verse in his attempt to qualify as the winner of The Post's contest. He is not so outspoken in his belief that the Nats will win the flag, but sees the race between the Nats and the Athletics.

Whether swayed by civic pride or keen judgment, the great bulk of the fans of Washington lean toward first place as the Nats' niche in 1931. Their reasons are varied and abundant. April 1 is the closing date of the contest. Address your letters of not more than 250 words written on one side of the paper to the "Baseball Editor" of The Post. Every fan is eligible.

U. of Va. Grid Position To "Butch" Slaughter

University, Va., March 6 (A.P.).—Appointment of Edward R. "Butch" Slaughter, for the last four years line coach at North Carolina State College, to the coaching staff of the University of Virginia was announced today by James G. Driver, athletic director.

Coach Slaughter, a former Michigan all-American guard, will teach the Cavalier line next fall. His selection completes the Virginia staff of coaches, which includes Fred Dawson, formerly at Nebraska, as head coach; Gus Tebell, late of North Carolina State, as backfield coach; Gus Welch, Carlisle Indian captain and coach at Washington State and Randolph-Macon, as scout and reserve coach.

$30,000 LOST ON MIAMI MATCH

Fewer Than 10,000 Paid at Carnera-Maloney Bout.

MIAMI, Fla., March 6 (A.P.).—As a result of the shrinkage of ringside estimates today, sponsors of the battle of the cracked rib between Primo Carnera and Jimmy Maloney faced a loss of $30,000 or more on the last of Miami's winter fistic ventures.

This was based on the financial report, showing gross gate receipts of $53,115.89, including the Government tax, and net figures of only $43,136.89, although Promoter Frank J. Bruen declines to make any statement other than he experienced "some loss." Bruen had figured he would need between $75,000 and $100,000 to break even.

There were fewer than 10,000 cash customers in the Madison Square Garden stadium last night, although the generous distribution of "Annie Oakleys" added perhaps 50 per cent to the actual attendance.

Carnera Shows No Ill-Effects.

Carnera, who scored an unpopular decision through the verdict of Referee Elmer (Slim) McClelland, of Detroit, appeared publicly today without manifesting any ill effects or further damage to his fractured side. His board of managers appeared jubilant over the victory he scored under handicaps and scouted talk of another match with Maloney in New York or Boston prior to Carnera's engagement to meet the winner of the Schmeling-Stribling title match.

Bruen declared his hat was still in the promotional ring. He may seek to match Carnera somewhere early in the summer. The giant Italian, however, can not meet any one of the ten so-called top flight heavyweights without forfeiting $25,000 posted with the Madison Square Garden Corporation of Illinois for a September title match.

Talk of a gambling coup was circulated today. It was based apparently on the sudden lengthening of odds in Carnera's favor just before the main go but otherwise had no foundation. At the ringside few takers appeared when 2 to 1 was offered on the Italian.

Maryland U. Hold First Baseball Drill

First organized baseball practice of the year at Maryland University was conducted yesterday under the supervision of Coach Burton Shipley, whose basket ball team last Tuesday won the Southern Conference championship. Fourteen players reported for the initial diamond drill but this number did not include Berger, Chalmers and Wilson of the victorious basket ball team, all of whom will enjoy a rest until the middle of next week.

Eastern Five Beaten at W. & L.

Charlotte and Spartansburg Advance in Early Games.

LEXINGTON, Va., March 6.—Charleston (S. C.) High School upset the dope here this noon, stopping the favored Eastern High School of Washington, 35 to 28 in a last minute rush by Normie Brinker, sharpshooting wizard that swept the Washington team out of the Washington and Lee annual cage tourney.

The Gamecocks were forced to take the defensive as the game got under way as the Washington team, utilizing their heighth to advantage tallied several snowbirds. Noonan, lanky center and Courtney, scrappy guard, went through the Charleston defense without trouble and the first period found the Eastern High team in front 15 to 7. Norman Brinker and A. Brinker aided by Johnson were the only Carolinians to get within the scoring ranks.

Charleston Shifts Tactics.

Charleston shifted tactics at the second period and the Brinkers were sent through while Johnson and Bull Winkle covered up the defense. Courtney and Kane scored for Eastern, however, and at half time, the Charleston team was trailing, 17 to 23. Norman Brinker, who dazzled spectators with his high scoring yesterday was just swinging into action as the half ended. A. Brinker moved back and intercepted Eastern High rushes and then came up to score, Bull Winkle and Norman Brinker followed with baskets and knotted the count at 23 to 23. Normie Brinker came through and gave Charleston the lead for the first time. Noonan got in for a foul and a field goal as the third period ended, 27 to 26. Johnson, Brinker and McNeil found the basket in the last period to win for the Gamecocks.

Charlotte Drubs Hometowners.

Charlotte (N. C.) High School gave the home-town team a basket ball lesson this morning, drubbing Lexington (Va.) High School, 49 to 19.

The Red Birds, of Spartanburg High were too fast for Newport, Tenn., this morning by the score of 41 to 19

The Spartanburg Guards were breaking for the basket and there was a marked loosening of the Red Bird defense. Newport scored five field goals in rapid succession before Spartanburg could get its attack in motion again. Kropf and Hartsell were finding the hole open on the right side of the basket.

With two minutes to play, the Red Birds unleashed their most furious attack of the game. Dodd Ferguson and Berry were free beneath the basket repeatedly and ran up 8 points just before the end of the game, when Dodd dropped in the final basket just as the whistle blew.

Staunton Gains Semifinals.

Staunton Military Academy advanced into the semifinals of the prep school division by defeating Hargrave Military Academy, 34 to 22. Layman, Staunton center, slapped in baskets for an early lead, which the Staunton Team never relinquished. M. A. led at the half, 17 to 9.

Raleigh rolled up 25 points in the second half to defeat Wilson (N. C.) High in a second-round game by the score of 35 to 10.

Green Briar Military School, of Lewisburg, W. Va., forged into the semifinals of the prep school division this afternoon, taking Forkunion, Va., Military Academy, 42 to 24. The West Virginians led all the way, with Capt. Felker doing the bulk of the scoring.

The Purple Cyclone from Porter Military Academy, Charleston, S. C., swept the Danville, Va., Military Institute out of the second round this afternoon, 31 to 18.

Benedictine School, of Richmond, breezed through the second round of the prep school division, taking Virginia Episcopal School, 38 to 21. The Richmond team outpassed and outshot the Lynchburg quintet throughout.

A scrappy Charleston (S. C.) High School five went down to defeat, 43-38, with colors flying, here tonight, as Raleigh (N. C.) High School moved into the finals of the high school division.

Normie Brinker, with 19 points, almost did a single-handed job, but Raleigh's last quarter spurt was fatal.

The Red Birds, of Spartanburg (S. C.) High School, State champions, scratched the Tarheel State champions, Charlotte High School, to shreds in the semifinals and won, 29 to 18. The Gamecock champions improved as the pace got hotter and Charlotte seemed to wilt under the strain.

Bucky Harris to Rely On Pitchers in Pinches

Sacramento, Calif., March 6 (A.P.).—Detroit Tiger pitchers will pinch-bat for themselves this year, with the customary exceptions to prove the rule, Manager Stanley R. Harris has announced.

"I'm convinced," he said, "that in the majority of cases, the lifting of a pitcher for a pinch hitter has disastrous results. You know what a pitcher who is working for you can do, but you have no idea what the relief pitcher is going to do. When we are one or two runs behind, I'm going to let the pitcher bat for himself. The average pitcher is just as likely to wallop the ball as the average pinch hitter."

Peck Expects Goldman to Succeed

Youthful Players Dot Chisox Line-Up; Camp Notes.

NEW ORLEANS, March 6 (A.P.).—Jonah Goldman was being counted on by Manager Roger Peckinpaugh of the Cleveland Indians today as a hitter and the man to guard the station that lies halfway between second and third base.

Goldman has demonstrated at daily workouts that he is to be shortstop this year or know the reason why. He has taken a new war club—a club that carries heft at the far end, and is being permitted to swing it in his old style—from the post.

Bush Decides on Line-Up.

San Antonio, Tex., March 6 (A.P.).—Manager Donie Bush has decided on the battle front that will oppose the Houston club of the Texas League tomorrow.

Bill Cissell will be lead-off man, followed by two rookies, Ray Radcliff and Mel Simons. Smead Jolley will be in the clean-up spot, followed by Red Eickrodt, Luke Appling, Willie Kamm and Frank Grube. Vic Frasier will be the starting pitcher, with Jimmy Moore to finish.

Goslin's Team Wins At Browns' Camp.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 6 (A. P.).—Bill Killifer's young Brownies trounced a rival Brownie team here today, 6 to 2, in the second five-inning exhibition game arranged during the training season.

The youngsters were reinforced, however, by Goose Goslin and Pitcher Blaeholder.

Robins Buy Hartford For Farm.

Clearwater, Fla., March 6 (U.P.).—Purchase of the Hartford Eastern League Club today provided Brooklyn with a "farm" for rookies who fail to win berths with the Robins. Brooklyn will transfer players from Macon, of the recently disbanded South Atlantic League, to Hartford, and also will send many players now in camp here to the "farm." Ernest Lombardi, rookie catcher, joined the squad today.

Webb Must Have His Practice.

Pensacola, Fla., March 6 (A.P.).—Earl Webb, slugging ace of the Boston Red Sox outfield squad, is in such excellent shape he is worrying Owner Bob Quinn. Although he has been in camp only a few days he can stand more work than most of the players who have been training here since February 21.

After taking his turn at bat today Webb found a patch of soft dirt in the outfield and instituted a one-man sliding practice. Quinn, who does not approve of sliding practice in any form, held his breath until

Manush Joins Rice, Judge At Biloxi

Johnson Is Asked to Pitch Exhibition by Citizens.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Post Staff Correspondent).

BILOXI, Miss., March 6.—"The spirit of '76" is as nothing compared to that being shown by the Nationals this spring and this is noticeable in more ways than one. Not only is every one of the batterymen on his toes and giving all he has in the daily drills, but the veterans seem to have the fever too, the result being that practically every train brings a player several days before he is due.

Joining Sam Rice and Capt. Joe Judge today was Outfielder Heinie Manush. This trio was not due here until next Sunday, but simply could not wait and Manush says that Harry Rice, who trained at Hot Springs with him, also would have shown up today but for the illness of his wife.

With so many coming in ahead of time, only a dozen more are due to show up here ready to start real practice next Monday morning. The regulars still missing are Infielders Oesie Bluege, Joe Cronin and Charles (Buddy) Myer. Near regulars to report are Outfielders Dave Harris and Harry Rice and First Baseman Joe Kuhel, while the following rookies are yet to make their appearance: Infielders Wally Dashiel, Baxter Jordan and Montague and Outfielders Tom Clark, Leo Burns and Tommy Gilligan. With all on hand, Manager Walter Johnson will be bossing a squad of 35 beginning next Monday.

Daily Routine To Change.

With the arrival of the full squad, several changes in the daily routine will be put in effect. The pitchers' arms will have become strong enough for them to put more on the ball and to take longer shifts on the mound, while every one of the squad will come in for a share of hitting practice with the regulars, of course, having the right of way.

And while the batters are practicing against the pitchers, and vice versa, not only will the team be lined up to field any balls hit, but between pitches Uncle Nick Altrock will be hitting to the infield, with Skipper Johnson probably giving the fly chasers plenty of legwork as they hustle his famed long fungoes.

The regulars will have to do some tall hustling almost from the very day they arrive, for the exhibitiontion games start next Thursday when the Baltimore Orioles, who are training at Gulfport, will be the Nats' guests here. This means that some of the regulars will see competitive action with only three days of practice behind them.

Citizens Importune Johnson to Pitch.

Baltimore also will play another game here on the following Sunday, and a committee of Biloxi citizens this morning asked Manager Johnson to pitch at least three innings. He says he won't, as he is through as a pitcher, but he took an extra long session on the hill at this morning's drill and maybe he will take a fling at it after all. One thing is certain, he has been showing more stuff ever since the training camp opened than have any of his men.

Paul Hise, Biloxi sandlotter who wanted a chance to try for a pitching berth with the Washington Club, must have gotten cold feet, for he has failed to show up. There was another youngster on hand today, though, a protege of Outfielder Sam Rice.

The newcomer, a shortstop from Rice's home town, Watseka, Ill., who answers to the name of Everett (Chick) Monroe, is just a youngster who has been playing semipro ball. He loked to be a flashy fielder, but is quite small and did not look particularly good at bat. He will be given a few more days in which to accustom himself to big league surroundings before his chances will be given consideration. The lad is a right-handed hitter.

Already the results of Coach Patsy

Spanish Play And Finalist Favorites

Field of Ten Named; Boys Howdy Bears Havana Hopes.

MIAMI, Fla., March 6 (A.P.).—Ten of the winter turf's ranking 3-year-olds have been named to go postward in the renewal of the $10,000 Florida Derby at Hialeah Park tomorrow.

This mile and one-eighth jaunt figures, however, to be a three-horse affair among C. H. Knebelkamp's Spanish Play, the Howe Stable's Finalist and Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Lightning Bolt.

Boys Howdy Bears Cuba's Hopes.

From Havana comes Oriental Park's best 3-year-old, H. C. Hatch's Boys Howdy, to contest the issue with the trio of favorites. The following are the eligibles, with the jockeys, owners and probable odds:

Horse. Jockey and Owner	Probable odds
Matadi. H. Thurber. Oakland Farm	30-1
Impish. C. Corbett. Wheatley Stable	10-1
Boys Howdy. G. Riley. Howe Stable	15-1
Mynheer. J. Denke. W. E. Caskey, Jr.	10-1
Donic. A. Robertson. Calif. Stable	20-1
Lightning Bolt. Kurtsinger. Mrs. J. M. Whitney	4-1
Finalist. E. Ambrose. Howe Stable	2-1
Spanish Play. C. Landolt. C. H. Knebelkamp	2-1
Kensington. T. Malley. W. H. Travers	15-1
The Spaniard (doubtful starter)	200-1

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Miami Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

THE Florida Derby at Hialeah Park, Miami, will be run this afternoon, the fifth race on the closing-day program of the racing season of 45 days, and ten 3-year-olds, including one filly, have been named overnight for the $10,000 added prize, at a mile and a furlong.

This field includes the best horses of the division engaged in winter racing, the most popular of the lot being the invader from New Orleans, Pat Nabelkamp's SPANISH PLAY. This colt has been compared with Omar Khayyam as a development of winter racing, and he appears much the best in the race today, both on his past performances and his work-out a few days ago. Mrs. John Hay Whitney has the contender in LIGHTNING BOLT, although beaten in his last race by Finalist, which also will start today. The charts, as well as witnesses of Lightning Bolt's defeat, agree that it was due to bad handling and being pocketed. MYNHEER is rated third. First race PRINCETON, a beaten favorite, running one of his dullest races when he was odds-on, is selected to win the first race, in which Estin will be favorite. Estin wants a longer route than 6 furlongs and must be accorded the contender's place. MISS ROSEDALE should be in the money.

SECOND RACE—G. D. Widener's IMPEACH is regarded best of the two-year-olds in the second dash. FREDERICK, which beat the Widener juvenile the other day takes up weight, while IMPEACH takes off seven pounds and the finish is expected to be a reversal of the previous race. SUN PLEASURE should hold the others safe.

THIRD RACE—BLACK DIAMOND should come home in front in the third race. GOLD STAR should be the contender in this mile and a sixteenth. CUDDLE should get third money. Dea may run well.

FOURTH RACE—PERKINS is picked to beat JACK BERRY. The last race of Perkins should not be regarded seriously, for he was in a sprint race with the fast Estin on a sloppy track. This is a mile. PUNISHMENT is the probable show money horse.

SIXTH RACE—PROTRACTOR, about the fastest sprinter at Miami, is selected in the sixth race. ANGRY is rated the contender. PENNANT LASS beat Angry last out, but she takes up weight and Angry takes off impost.

SEVENTH RACE—GLENNO should win right back in the seventh race, which is two miles, the longest gallop on the Southern tracks. He won his last start and BETTY BARRETT, second to him then, shoud again be the contender. SAM PASS is best of the others at this great distance.

The racing shifts to St. John's Park, Jacksonville, Monday.

Ban Johnson Grows Weaker in Life Fight

St. Louis, March 6 (A.P.).—Ban Johnson, former president of the American League, grew steadily weaker tonight and it was said at St. John's Hospital, where he is a patient, that it was only a matter of hours before the former prominent baseball leader would pass away.

All hope has been abandoned by his physician, Dr. Robert Hyland, who said Johnson's strong heart is keeping him alive. Johnson, who has been seriously ill for weeks with diabetes and complications, is delirious and sinks into a stupor at times.

Skotz and Thomas Draw In Feature at Quantico

Special to The Washington Post.

Quantico, Va., March 6.—Though knocked down for a count of nine in the first round, Johnny Skotz, of Triangle, Va., was given a draw with Johnny Thomas, Quantico middleweight, in the feature four-round bout on a fight card here tonight before 1,200 spectators.

The main attraction was a rather drab finish to an otherwise exciting program in which the most popular affair saw Honey Boy Phelan, 132, outpoint Kid Anderson, 129, in four rounds.

In other bouts, Louie Dill, 150, knocked out Kid Ringbaugh, 150, in 1 minute 5 seconds of the first round; Johnny Becker, 168 defeated George Schmidt, 165, by decision in four rounds; Young Mayer, 150, fought a draw with Kid Ice, 145, in four rounds, and George Edwards, 140, battled on even terms with Barney Medlock, 140, in four rounds.

SPECIALTY STOCKS SUFFER IN DECLINE

Bears and Bulls Wax Warm in Fight With Former Depressing List.

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—The eternal conflict between the bulls and the bears waxed warm in today's stock market, but the party working for lower prices had the heavier artillery and final quotations averaged 8 points lower in a turnover of 3,000,000 shares.

The bears shot big holes in a few specialties, including Auburn Auto and the recently conspicuous Mullins Manufacturing. They also peppered the oils, steels and, in the later trading, the utilities. The latter group, which this week has held the fort for the cause of the bull pools, ran up strongly during the morning, only to react with greater speed when the decline became general. Rails and amusements softened.

Auburn broke precipitately and closed at the bottom with a net loss of 17½ points. Professional sponsors of the stock during its sensational advance of recent memory stood aside, perhaps partially influenced by published but unconfirmed reports of State investigation was being made of the late rise. Case, Eastman Kodak, Worthington Pump, Mullins and Allied Chemical lost 5 to 7.

Oil Prices Tumble.

Price cutting by the oil industry loosened holdings of the petroleum stocks. Standard of New Jersey tumbled more than 2 points to the new 1931 low of 45⅜, although the decline was reduced by late covering which in general benefited the entire list. Texas Corporation, Mexican Seaboard, Standard of California and Sinclair also appeared in volume, dropping a point or more net.

Stocks off as much as 3 points included American Can, American Telephone, American & Foreign Power, Union Pacific and Westinghouse. U. S. Steel recovered a point of an extreme dip of 2¾. Declines of 1 to 2 below the previous close were very numerous. Chrysler, one of the few leading shares to finish higher, halved a one-point rise.

The weekly business statistics and surveys of trade were more favorable than otherwise. Bank clearings reached the largest total for any week since the first of the year, augmented by the seasonal March 1 settlements. The major part of the gain was in New York. The decline from a year ago is 16.3 per cent, according to Dun's. The same company reported that commercial failures showed an improvement in comparison with most of the previous weeks of 1931; nevertheless they remained larger than a year ago.

Bearish Farm Estimates.

Bradstreet's said evidence of "deliberate but steady" progress were accumulating as business moved toward spring. Volume of wholesale and retail distribution is gaining rather steadily. Dun's survey of the commercial field noted a sustained "undercurrent of better feeling in various quarters," and called attention to the narrowing decline in commodity prices.

Bearish estimates of the farm reserve and the snowfall in Kansas stimulated some selling of wheat, but the net losses were confined to minor fractions. Corn likewise closed with nominal losses, reflecting large Argentine exports, and a limited cash demand. Cotton reacted under realizing, losing 16 to 17 points net.

Money held firm. The renewal rate was still 1½ per cent but a 2 per cent quotation was posted in the afternoon when withdrawals, partly for Treasury requirements, increased.

Foreign exchanges, although mixed, showed minor fluctuations. Sterling cables dropped about ⅛ to 4.85.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, March 6 (A.P.).—Improved prospects for domestic winter crops led to increased selling today by houses with connections in Southwest, and dragged down both wheat and corn, but in the face of wheat setbacks corn failed to maintain independent strength. Smallness of export clearances of American wheat, and big primary receipts in this country and Canada tended to stimulate selling.

Wheat closed irregular at ⅝ cents decline to 1 advance, corn ⅛ off to ¼ up, oats a shade to ¼ higher, and provisions showing 10 to 20 cents gain.

At first, the dominant factor was fear that storms would seriously curtail the movement of corn. Subsequent receipts of corn in Chicago and at other primary centers were reported, and a new estimate of farm reserve stocks of corn, 725,000,000 bushels, compared with 739,000,000 a year ago, acted also as a bullish influence. However, yesterday's corn price upturns appeared to have largely exhausted ardor to buy, and the bulk of the day wheat instead of corn took the leadership.

Big primary arrivals of wheat contrasted with diminished movement of corn, and totaled 1,356,000 bushels, against 1,280,000 a week ago and 809,000 at this time last year. The fact that no export business of consequence in domestic wheat was apparent added to the bearish aspect of increasing supplies and of crop prospects improved by widespread snow. There were reports that farm board auxiliaries would sell to domestic millers wheat on a basis that would allow a profit on export flour, but later advices said such a move had not been decided upon. Corn at one time advanced well above yesterday's close, but in the last hour sagged with wheat. Oats were upheld by enlarged shipping demand and by extreme scantiness of receipts.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—July, 63¢ @63¼, 64; September, 63, 64. Corn—May, 64, 64¼@65; July, 66¼@66⅝, 67¼@67⅜; September, 66¼, 67⅛.

FIRM IMPROVEMENT SEEN IN BOND MART

Corporate Domestic Issues and Foreigns Spurt to High Levels.

New York, March 6 (A.P.)—Bond prices showed distinct improvement today. European and South American obligations spurted. Corporate domestic issues profited from a better inquiry, particularly for utilities, many of which forged ahead to new highs for the year.

As was to be expected, the semi-speculative group was heavy with stocks. Amusement and oil issues carrying warrants or convertible privileges reflected the pressure against shares for which they are exchangeable. Warner Bros. convertible 6s tumbled 2½; General Theaters 6s, 1½; Phillips Petroleum 5½s, 2¾; Shell Union 5s, about 2. Texas Corporation 5s were turned over in large volume at the previous day's closing price.

The announcement by the Treasury of a heavy oversubscription for the March 16 financing program was no surprise to Wall Street. It had been expected that the $500,000,000 3½% bond issue would be absorbed through exchange by holders of the 3½ per cent notes which are being paid. Transactions in the Government group on the exchange were in small volume, with prices fractionally higher.

Inquiry for domestic bonds appeared to be centered in utility obligations. Bonds of American Telephone, Buffalo General Electric, Detroit Edison, International Hydro-Electric, Laclede Gas and North American were quite active and higher. Omission of the preferred divided by Postal Telegraph was reflected in an 8½ point decline in the 5 per cent bonds.

Advances of from 1 to 3 points featured trading in foreign loans. There was a huge demand for German 5½s for the second successive session. The issue closed at 83, up 1¾. Other strong issues were Brazil 6½s and 7s, up more than 2; Columbia 6s and Mortgage Bank issues, Peru 6s and 7s, Sao Paulo 7s and 8s and Prussia Free State 6s. French 7s, usually very stable, sagged a point.

PROBLEMS OF CITY BANKS TO BE TOPIC

Reserve Association Will Convene April 19-22 at Richmond.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

While the country bank was the chief topic for discussion at the recent bank management conference of Central Atlantic States bankers held in this city, the bulk of the program of the twentieth annual meeting of the Association of Reserve City Bankers will be devoted to the subject of city bank operations.

Numerous local bankers expect to attend the meeting to be held this year at the John Marshall Hotel, Richmond, April 19-22. In the preliminary announcement of the meeting sent out by Guy Emerson, Bankers Trust Co. of New York, president of the association, there is a tentative program in which President Robert V. Fleming of Riggs National Bank, of this city, is scheduled to deliver an address.

His subject is "Should the Association Set Up a Permanent Federal Reserve Committee?" He will speak at the first session of the conference.

Trips to University.

The entertainment program will include a trip to the beautiful University of Virginia at Charlottesville with stops at Monticello, the home of Jefferson, Williamsburg, Yorktown, Jamestown, a journey to Westover, home of William Byrd, founder of Richmond and a dinner probably at the Commonwealth Club.

Knapp & Co., Inc., investment securities firm, opening a local office in the Shoreham Building, announced yesterday that within four or five months, they will move their main office, now located in the Chancellor Hotel Building at Parkersburg, W. Va., to this city. Besides here, the company has branch offices at Clarksburg, Charleston and Morgantown, W. Va., and Marietta, Ohio.

Organized in 1928, the company specializes in conservative marketable securities for individual investors. It has been prominently identified with the fixed investment trust movement, being one of the twenty original members of Distributors Group, Inc., sponsors of North American Trust Shares in which more than $150,000,000 has been invested by some 70,000 investors here and abroad.

J. Henry Knapp, jr., president of the company, was connected with Hopper, Soliday & Co. in Philadelphia for many years.

Directors Are Reelected.

All officers of Union Cooperative Insurance Association of Washington, D. C., with headquarters at 1200 Fifteenth street, were reelected at the annual meeting Thursday. They are Charles P. Ford, president; William F. Kelly, vice president; G. M. Bugniazet, secretary-treasurer; Dr. J. Rozier Biggs, medical director; E. R. Crowson, actuary; C. P. Nesbit, insurance counselor; C. L. Noyes, assistant manager; Ivan N. Fuqua, superintendent of agencies.

Directors reelected are D. F. Cleary, G. M. Bugniazet, William F. Kelly, James S. Meade, T. C. Vickers and Charles P. Ford.

Business Revival Reports Persist

Undercurrent of Optimism Encouraging, Despite Uncertainties.

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—The weekly mercantile reviews report a sustained undercurrent of better feeling in trade.

Dun's tomorrow will say: "Conservatism in appraising such uplift in business as has occurred recently reflects the continued presence of numerous unsatisfactory phases, yet the undercurrent of better feeling in various quarters is sustained. Since sentiment is an important element in commercial revival, the gain in confidence, although tempered by the existing uncertainties, is encouraging. Tangible evidences of expanding activities are not generally visible."

Bradstreet's tomorrow will say: "While business, meaning wholesale or retail distribution and industry, maintain very much the same moderate pace that has distinguished it since the outset of the year, there seems adequate foundation for the statement that this movement is going in a forward direction, slowly, perhaps, and carefully, but with volume gaining rather steadily as the year enters the first of the spring months."

Curb Review

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—Selling of the utility and oil shares gave the curb market a rather pale complexion today, although a few miscellaneous issues again pushed higher and declines were less severe than on the big board.

Liquidation was in large volume in spots, however, and the day's transfers emerged 757,700 shares, or 79,500 more than yesterday's. Electric Bond & Share dropped 2 points, and closed 1½ net lower. American Gas & Electric sold down 3, and closed off 2¾. Associated Gas A, Eastern States B, American & Foreign Power warrants, Electric Power Associates A, and United Light A were among issues losing a point or so. Niagara Hudson was firm, however, and closed a fraction higher.

Oils reflected the reductions in crude prices this week, together with unsettled conditions in the gasoline market. Vacuum fell back 3 points, and Gulf, Humble and Indiana lost about 1. Plymouth Oil slipped off a point to a new low. Cities Service yielded only a fraction.

Industrials were mixed. Mead Johnson fell back about 3, then recovered all but ¾ of a point. Deere & Dow Chemical lost 2 points. Issues off a point or so included Cooper Bessemer, Tubize Chatillon and Shaeffer Pen. Some of the low-priced radio manufacturing issues, notably Pilot Rolynet, pushed up to new highs, and Technicolor, British American Tobacco and Anglo Chilean Nitrate advanced about 1 point each.

In the investment trust and holding company group, Atlas Utility pushed up 1½ to a new high, at 7½, then lost all but a fraction of its gain. Utility Equity rose a point. United Founders lost ½ point.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, March 6—Commercial failures reported to R. G. Dun & Co. this week reflected an improvement in comparison with most of the other weeks this year, although showing a continued increase over figures for last year. Insolvencies this week totaled 614, against 659 last week, 722 two weeks ago, and 527 in the corresponding week last year. Defaults with liabilities of more than $5,000 each totaled 389 this week, against 410 last week, 455 two weeks ago and 333 in the like week of 1930.

There was a decided change in the position of domestic packer hide markets this week, with developments on the constructive side, Dun's reports in its weekly review of the hide market. The recent check to the decline in prices had been considered significant, and the movement this week was sharply in the direction of advance. Thus, increases of a full cent or more were established in various instances.

February bookings of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, including Standard Steel Works, Baldwin-Southwark Corporation and Midvale Co., exceeded shipments for the first month in nearly a year. Business booked last month totaled $3,015,000, against $2,150,000 in February, 1930. Shipments last month amounted to $1,676,000, against $4,282,000 in the like month last year. Unfilled orders February 28 amounted to $6,416,000, against $6,278,000 January 1, 1931.

Harry E. Hughes has been elected a director of Montgomery Ward & Co., succeeding Charles H. Thorne. The vacancy caused by the death of F. Edson White was not filled.

Rubber Company Loses $6,980,141 in Year

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—Drastic charges for depreciation and obsolescence of old equipment, the sharp decline of rubber prices, and general slackening of business activity in 1930, were reflected in the annual report of the United States Rubber Co. today.

The company reported a net loss for the year of $6,980,141. This compared with a net profit of $576,009, equal to 88 cents a preferred share, in 1929. Among other things, it reflected a charge of $7,347,183 for depreciation and obsolescence of old plant.

CAPITAL IS SAFEST CITY IN NATION FOR CITIZENS, IS CLAIM

Traffic Survey Shows That Washington Has Lowest Accident Record.

IOWA REPORTS HIGH RATE OF FATALITIES

Strict Enforcement of Laws in District Is Credited With Achievement.

The District of Columbia is the safest city in the country for citizens. There is less chance of a person being killed or injured here than in any other city in the country. Also, the District is getting safer every year.

This information was pointed out yesterday by Traffic Director William H. Harland in a report of the public safety division of the National Safety Council for 1930.

Iowa Rate Is High.

Out in Iowa motor-vehicle deaths increased 48.1 per cent during the past year, which was the highest increase recorded, while the District, with 68 deaths, showed the greatest decrease, 28 per cent.

Throughout the country there were 32,500 deaths in 1930 due to automobile accidents.

Washington continued at its position of having the lowest accident mortality rate per 100,000 population in the list of cities having over 350,000 population.

Rigid Enforcement of Laws.

The District accident mortality rate was slightly over 12 per 100,000 population.

Traffic Director Harland attributes the safety in Washington to the rigid enforcement of the motor vehicle laws. In 1930, he said, 1,339 permits were either revoked or suspended for various infractions of traffic rules.

18 Miners Given Heroism Medals

(Associated Press.)

Award of medals or certificates of honor to eighteen workmen for personal heroism in connection with mining operations was announced yesterday by the Bureau of Mines.

They were selected by a group of professional and industrial organizations, including the American Federation of Labor, the American Mining Congress, the Red Cross and others.

Those receiving awards included C. A. Able and James Vaughn, of Stotesbury, W. Va.; Otis Jones, of Vivian, W. Va.; Thomas Petheringham, Andrew Schram and Frank Roeder, of Wolf Run, Ohio; A. E. Hedden, of Leyden, Colo.; Lee McKenzie, of Virginia, Minn.; Peter J. Kearney, John Barrish, Robert Stevenson, William Mason and E. L. Haas, of Parnassus, Pa.; Henry Kirchdoerfer, of Tomhicken, Pa.; Homer E. Power, of Waco, Mo.; W. A. Stayton, jr., and William Hawkins, of Lowell, Ariz.

Five District Residents Get West Point Berths

Two Washington ersidents have received appointments to West Point from President Hoover, and three others have received appointments on the recommendations of the District Commissioners, it was announced yesterday. James Y. Adams, 3138 Highland place, and Louis R. Hurd, 1666 Harvard street, received the President's appointment as cadets at large, subject to entrance examinations.

Pelham D. Glassford, 282 Q street, as first alternate, and Seth L. Weld, 1704 Kenyon street, as second alternate, received conditional appointments on recommendation of the Commissioners. John S. Dick, 1514 Seventeenth street, recently received appointment to a cadetship from the District of Columbia.

Parent-Teachers to Give Plays in Southeast

The Parent-Teacher Associations of Southeast Washington will present their entertainment tonight in the Hine School Auditorium, at Seventh and C streets southeast, this being one of the series of entertainments entered in the competition series sponsored by the Southeast Center.

Several one-act plays and farces will be given by both adults and children, and there will be dances by Lelia Mitchel, William Evans, Alice Canter, Martha Cox, Katherine Willoughby, Augusta Chernowsky, Margaret Colin, Mary Colin and Loraine Smith. Musical numbers and songs will be furnished by Florence Kudolla, Katherine Lawrence, Janet Guess, Dorothy Talkavull, Pat Bishop, Ernest Cornwell, Kathryne Hardy, Iva Smith, Paul Brawner, Alice Cady, Alice Bessimer and a quartet from the Columbia Heights School Orchestra.

Business Bureau Warns Of Fake Ticket Sales

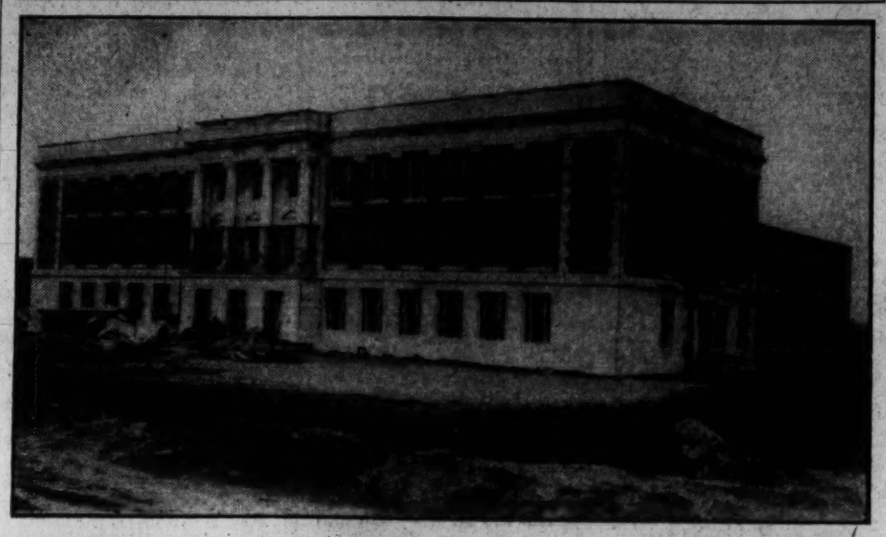
An increasing number of fake benefits, founded on the unusually good opportunities offered by unemployment, are yielding promoters rich returns in Washington, according to Louis Rothschild, director of the Better Business Bureau. Several of the organizations are under the observation of the bureau, he said, but the bureau finds it almost impossible to obtain criminal warrants against them.

The usual proceedure is for the promoter to issue tickets for a charity benefit, and to select contributors from a "sucker list," being careful to choose prospects who are not likely to attend the "benefit." In some instances the promised functions are actually carried through, but seldom do the contributors attend, Mr. Rothschild said.

Building Code Amended.

So that plans of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission for widening Twelfth street may not be hampered, the District Commissioners yesterday amended the building code to prohibit projections on Twelfth street, between Pennsylvania and Massachusetts avenues.

NEW JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL NEAR COMPLETION



Louis Johrden, Post Staff Photographer.

The completion of this new junior high school is cated at Eighteenth and B streets northeast, directly in the rear of Eastern High School, will greatly relieve congestion in schools of the eastern section of the city. The new school will be named for Charles W. Eliot, late president of Harvard University. It is being erected at a cost of $452,000 and contains 14 classrooms and 10 special rooms. It will be completed in August.

BELL IS EXECUTED FOR KILLING IN 1929

Cordoza Bell, 24-year-old colored murderer, walked to his death yesterday morning in the District Jail with a disdainful smile on his face which did not fade even as he took a seat in the electric chair and had the leather helmet and mask adjusted over his head and face.

Bell was led from his cell at one minute before 10 o'clock, and the 2,200-volt charge was sent into his body at 10:03. When the electricity had coursed through his body for exactly two minutes the current was released at a given signal by a guard, and Dr. J. Magruder McDonald, deputy coroner, pronounced him dead at 10:08.

The Rev. E. W. Smith, colored pastor of the Vermont Avenue Baptist Church, walked before Bell from the cell to the chair, singing a hymn. The condemned man carried a Bible in his hand which was removed only after he was pronounced dead, and the book lay in his lap.

Bell's electrocution paid the Government for the killing on August 16, 1929, of his 25-year-old sweetheart, Alive Metz, who died as the result of shotgun wounds. Six newspaper men, who acted as official witnesses, and jail officials were the only persons who saw the execution.

Robbery Reports Are Called Jokes

Police Cancel Inquiry After Two Cases Are Found to Be False.

After investigation yesterday, police are convinced that Cornetist Carl E. Schaefer of the Marine Band, was joking when he summoned detectives and police pell-mell to his home on Hamilton street northwest with a tale of having been held up for the second time in two weeks by a colored man.

Thirteenth Precinct Detective Elmer F. Lewis and H. K. Wilson, of headquarters, got their heads together yesterday morning and after a deal of inquiry obtained facts which, when placed before Inspector Shelby, moved that official to order further investigation of the alleged holdups canceled.

C. Taylor Branson, ledaer of the Marine Band, and the cornestist's superior officer, told the detectives that he would assume responsibility for their writing the case off the books.

5-Cent Bread Loaf Nonunion, Say Bakers

The sum of $10,000 has been appropriated by the Bakery Salesmen's Union, Local No. 33, of Washington, for a campaign to educate the public to "the fact that it is to its benefit to patronize Washington industry and union industry," it was announced yesterday. The sum is to be matched by the bakers, according to present plans.

The 5-cent loaf of bread recently introduced to the city will be the subject of the campaign. The unions contend that this bread is manufactured outside of Washington, where a lower wage scale prevails. They feel that the loaf is an encroachment on their rights, Robert Lester, of the Bakery Salesmen Union, said.

Patrolman Langdon Is Ordered Dismissed

Dismissal of Robert F. Langdon, Fifth Precinct policeman, was ordered yesterday by the District Commissioners in accordance with the recommendations of the trial board, to take effect today.

Langdon, who was a material witness in the Limerick murder, was tried for liquor possession under the charge of conduct prejudicial to the Police Department. He did not appeal from the finding of the board.

Pressure of Gas Ordered Reduced

Public Utilities Writes New Letter Requesting Volume Be Reduced.

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday wrote another letter to the Washington Gas Light Co. ordering that gas pressures which have not yet been reduced in accordance with the commission's previous ruling must be lowered at once.

Declaring that there are "at least two areas in which gas pressures are still in excess of the commission's temporary allowance of 8 inches," the utilities body stated that this condition must be corrected by March 16.

The commission's letter was sent following receipt of a letter from George A. G. Wood, president of the gas company, explaining the utility company's inability to comply with the entire demands of the regulatory body.

Four Contracts Let For Sewer Work

Commissioners of District Agree on Figures of Bidders.

Four contracts for sewer construction were awarded by the District Commissioners yesterday. William A. Pate was low bidder on the construction of the New Hampshire avenue replacement sewer, between M and Twenty-first streets northwest. Total cost is $2,970.10.

Bright-Shepherd Co., Inc., was awarded the C street sewer job, between Nineteenth stret and Seventeenth place northeast. Cost is estimated at 3,310.20. The contract to build the sanitary sewer at Eighteenth and Irving streets northeast went to Corson & Gruman Co. Total cost is $1,844.36.

Construction of the Piney Branch area combined sewer system in the vicinity of Arkansas avenue and Upshur street northwest will be by Warren F. Brenzier Co., at a cost of $1,971.43.

Given Warns Vets To Guard Bonus

60 Facing Drunkenness Charge Told Not to Flash Money in Bars.

"Veterans who are being benefited by the bonus law and who find themselves given to drinking should at least take the precaution before indulging of safeguarding their money," declared Judge Ralph Given in Police Court yesterday. Approximately 60 persons, many of whom said they were war veterans, had been brought before him on charges of intoxication.

Penalties ranging from small fines to 60 days, which was meted out to Theodore C. Chadwick, were dispensed with the warning: "To frequent speakeasies and bootlegging establishments flourishing large rolls of money is a dangerous practice, at least, and doubly so when a man is drunk."

It was Chadwick's third appearance before Judge Given this week. M. P. McInerney, of the Veterans' Bureau, testified Chadwick had been acting disorderly at the bureau. Following his arrests Wednesday and Thursday, he was given a suspended sentence and permitted to forfeit $15 collateral.

Hearing Slated Soon On Bus Service Pleas

A hearing set for the week of March 22 by the Public Utilities Commission yesterday on requests of the Capital Traction Co. to remove its F and G street service west of Seventeenth street and to substitute buses.

The street car line also proposes to improve the service to and from Takoma Park and to replace the owl cars with bus service throughout.

Clothing Valued at $200 Taken.

Arthur C. Gorbach, owner of the Spindler's Cleaning & Dyeing Co., at 415 Neal place northwest, reported to police yesterday that his place had been entered by forcing two doors and $200 worth of clothing taken.

WAR-NAVY SITE ROW IS AGAIN DEADLOCKED

Settlement Is Expected at Meeting Set for 10 This Morning.

Settlement of the much fought over question of picking a location for the new War and Navy Department buildings is expected to be made by the public buildings commission at a meeting in the Senate finance committee office at 10 o'clock this morning.

Members of the commission last night refused to predict what site would be selected. The commission met again yesterday to consider selection of a site and came to no decision. Another meeting was called for today.

Selection of a site has been in sharp dispute for some time. Representatives of the two departments, the Fine Arts Commission, the Public Buildings Commission and others charged with the development of the Government building program have been involved.

Some want the new departments constructed on Pennsylvania avenue west of Seventeenth street northwest. There also is sentiment in favor of placing the new buildings west of Seventeenth street but south of Pennsylvania avenue.

Others object to location of the buildings in this section, declaring that to do so would mean an unbalanced Government building development, not in harmony with the Mall development plan. They want the War and Navy buildings built on a site in the Southwest section of the city, south of the Botanic gardens.

The heart of the dispute lies in the fact that when plans were made for the Government building program in the National Capital and various sites were allocated to the various Governmental agencies the War and Navy Departments were left out of the figuring.

Man Jailed as 2 False Alrams Are Turned In

Stanley Livingston Pant, 27, dropped in at the Second Precinct early yesterday just to bid the men the time of the day. He was brought back a few minutes later and charged with turning in two false alarms.

Soon after he departed an alarm was sounded from a nearby corner. Itl was false. Another came in a few minutes later from a box at New York avenue and Fourth street. Some passerby told Patrolmen E. L. Gibbons and A. E. Predette that a young man who seemed to enjoy the proceedings was walking down the street.

HUGE FOOD MARKET PROJECT COMPLETE

Unit, When Constructed, to Cost $5,000,000 on H and I Streets.

Plans providing for erection by the Kent Automatic Garage & Washington Market Corporation, now being organized under Virginia laws, of an immense building combining market, garage, storage, restaurant and recreational facilities on the block bounded by Tenth, Eleventh, H and I streets northwest, were announced yesterday. The entire unit when completed will represent approximately $5,000,000 in value.

Acquisition of the block, it was stated, gives the corporation a site of 60,000 square feet for its building, which will be of the latest steel and concrete construction with tapestry brick finish. The market section, according to the plans, will be 200 by 200 feet and approximately 110 feet high, while the garage, 100 by 200 feet, will be nearly 130 feet high.

Under the plans, the market section of the building will contain three floors, the first, the meat and fish section, the section, eggs and dairy products, and the third for dry groceries. There will be 150 stalls on both first and seconds floors and each department of the third will be kept separate. The basement will house the heating and refrigeration units.

Offices will be located on the outer sections of the first and second floors. There will be storage space for marketmen's trucks and cars under the market section floor.

The automatic garage section, called for by the plans, will have a parking capacity of 1,000 cars. The announcement states that the structure will be built under supervision of Boyd, Able & Gugert, architects and engineers, Philadelphia; construction will be by Cramp & Co., Inc., Philadelphia, on property assembled by Thomas D. Walsh & Co., of this city. G. Bascom Slemp and Louis Titus, local attorneys, are named as the legal department for the project, the general plan of which was worked out by R. T. Lipscombe, industrial engineer, Richmond, Va.

The announcement states further that John W. Newman, former Commissioner of Agriculture for Kentucky, will manage the corporation and that assisting him in the market department will be Charles H. Waleigh, for years in charge of Washington Central Market, and Joseph C. Fosco in the garage department. It is expected to begin demolition of buildings on the site within 60 days and construction within 90 days, according to the announcement.

School Officials Get Half Holiday

Employes at the Franklin Administration Building will realize the meaning of a half holiday on Saturday for the first time in the history of the building this afternoon.

The new Saturday half-holiday law applies to the school administration officers, their secretaries and clerks and to the janitors and laborers. In accordance with the new law, Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, issued a formal order yesterday that the school building will close at 1 o'clock on Saturday afternoons beginning today.

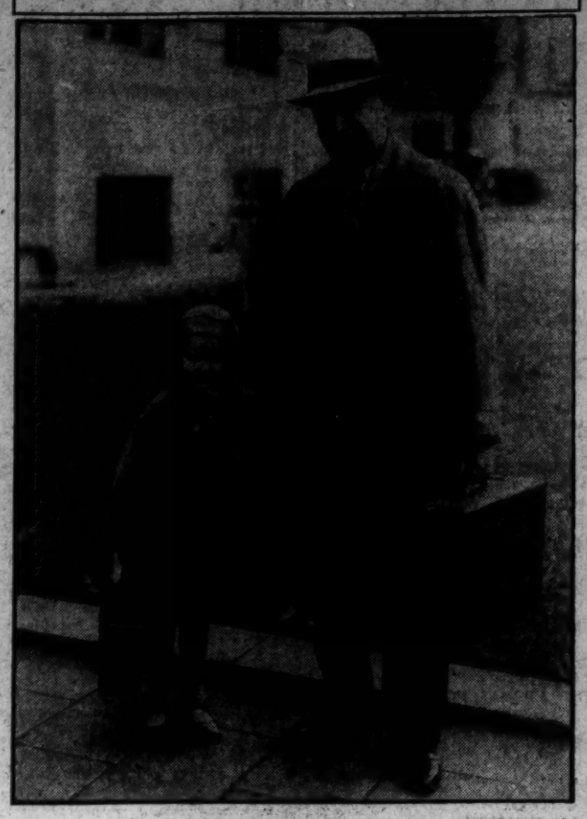
Employes at the main school building yesterday were expressing elation over the ruling.

Hayden Johnson Named National U. Chancellor

The position of the late Dr. Charles F. Carusi as chancellor of National University and dean of its law school will be filled by Hayden Johnson, Washington attorney, and outstanding lecturer on equity jurisprudence, it was announced yesterday.

Mr. Johnson is a native of Washington and has received LL.B and LL.M. degrees from Georgetown University. In 1925, National University conferred upon him the degree of LL.B. in recognition of his work for that institution. He has been connected with National University for almost nineteen years.

'BIG TRAIN'S' DAUGHTER IS MASCOT



Harris & Ewing.

25 ACCUSED ESCAPE GAMING RAID SQUAD

A raiding squad of policemen yesterday broke into an alleged gaming establishment in the Evans Building on New York avenue near Fourteeth street and arrested George W. Stevens, 33, of H street near Fifth street northwest. He is charged with permitting gaming.

While the raiders were breaking into the place, about 25 men leaped from a window on to an adjoining roof and escaped through another building. A quantity of racing charts and betting slips were confiscated.

Detective F. O. Brass led the squad which smashed through glass doors in the suite of four rooms; but heavily barricaded inner doors blocked their entrance. The door was three inches thick.

Detective Brass gained entrance by climbing through a window. In the rooms were large scoreboards and amplifiers to carry the track descriptions of races. Others on the raiding party were T. M. McVeary, C. D. Champ and G. Thornton.

Question of Jobs Is Debated at G. W.

Women Team at Odds Over National, State Control of Insurance.

Agreeing upon the necessity for and the desirability of unemployment insurance, George Washington University and Boston University women teams debating the question, "Resolved, That a system of unemployment insurance should be adopted by the several States," here last night differed as to the relative merits of State and national control of such a system.

The George Washington debaters, Louise Bruce, Elizabeth Reeves and Louise Fulligant, contended that unemployment is a national problem, that depression strikes without regard to State boundaries, and that the evils of unemployment can be alleviated by national legislation. The Boston University debaters, Elizabeth Crouser, Anna Craig and Louise Spiers, argued on the other hand that Federal legislation would not meet the diverse needs of the several States. They cited prohibition enforcement as an example of the failure of national control. No decision was rendered.

Trials of Police Set Wednesdays

Half Holiday Brings About Change of Trial in Board Sessions.

Because of the Saturday half-holiday given to District employes by Congress, the police trial board will hold its session on Wednesday instead of Saturday. The last Saturday session will be held today in the squad room at headquarters. The new rule will go into effect next Wednesday.

The decision to change the day of the trials came as a result of conference between Police Department officials and members of the corporation counsel's office. Many business men who were summoned as witnesses in police cases complained against having to leave their business houses on Saturdays, because of the volume of trade on that day.

John N. Garber Dies Suddenly at Dinner

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., John N. Garber died suddenly tonight at 5:45 p. m. while attending a benefit dinner at the Presbyterian Church. He has been in feeble health for some years.

Mr. Garber, a retired Harrisonburg financier, was president of the Miller Train Control Co. His son, John N., jr., and his widow survive.

4 BANDIT SUSPECTS CAPTURED BY POSSE

2 Men and 2 Women Seized in Florida Swamp After 400-Mile Chase.

Milton, Fla., March 6 (A.P.).—A trial of banditry and terrorism that spread over 400 miles from the east coast of Florida to a swamp in the northwestern tip of the State ended here tonight at the Santa Rosa County jail with two men and two women locked in cells.

They were captured in the swamp near here today by a posse of 200 men, many of whom had been trailing them since they started shooting their way westward from Jacksonville Wednesday night.

The men gave their names as Dex Hayes and Bert Oglesby. The women were registered as Mabel Wertz and Fay Harris. They gave conflicting accounts of their addresses. The men first said they were from Tulsa, Okla., and the women from St. Louis. Later the men said they were from St. Louis and the women from Tulsa.

Aside from that all were noncommunicative.

Chief Deputy Sheriff W. H. Cobb, of this county, who led the posse, said that when they came upon the quartet in the swamp, where they had tracked them from their abandoned automobile, one of the men attempted to draw a gun but officers "covered" them and they surrendered without resistance.

Search for the bandits was extended into virtually every county in western Florida, southern Georgia and southern Alabama with officers and citizens participating.

Tulsa, Okla., March 6 (A.P.).—Bert Oglesby and Leonard (Tex) Hayes, under arrest at Milton, Fla., in connection with a series of robberies and shootings, are wanted here as suspects in a $1,700 robbery at the United Service Co.'s office December 12, Sheriff Charles Price said tonight. The two escaped jail at Springfield, Mo., January 27 while being held there in connection with an attempted theater robbery.

Brutal Methods Denied by Police

Schroeder Was Not Placed Under "Third Degree," Court Is Told.

Indianapolis, March 6 (A.P.).—Testimony that Harold Herbert Schroeder, charged with the murder and burning of an unidentified hitchhiker, was not subjected to "third degree" methods, was given at the trial here today.

Clarence Golder, a detective sergeant of the Indianapolis police department who participated in the questioning of Schroeder, testified that the defendant had not been mistreated by the Marion County authorities. He said Judson L. Stark, then prosecuting attorney, asked most of the questions.

The State had almost concluded its case when court adjourned until Monday morning. The defense has stated it would take two or three days to present its evidence and it was estimated arguments would begin late next week.

Elliott Will Bequeaths Entire Estate to Widow

New York, March 6 (A.P.).—The will of the late Arthur Farnsworth Elliot, publisher, who died recently aboard his yacht off Fort Myers, Fla., was filed for probate today and, while no estimate of the value was given, bequests indicated the estate would aggregate several millions.

The widow is the sole beneficiary during her life under the will, which, however, makes several contingent bequests.

Sam Warner's Widow To Stay With Husband

El Paso, Tex., March 6 (A.P.).—Lina Basquette, widow of the late Sam Warner, executive of Warner Bros. Pictures, said today she was definitely decided to remain the wife of Peveri Marley, a camerman for Cecil B. De Mille.

Stopping in El Paso on her trip from New York to California, the motion picture actress said Marley would meet her at Yuma, Ariz., and accompany her by motor to Hollywood. The actress recently said they had decided to separate.

2-YEAR SENTENCE GIVEN GLASSMAN

Behrle Gets Like Term as Six Others Receive 18-Month Penalty.

Herbert Glassman, former garage proprietor, Samuel Goldstein and Harry Behrle were sentenced yesterday by Justice Oscar R. Huhring in District Supreme Court to serve two years in the penitentiary and fined $5,000 each. They were found guilty recently of conspiring to violate the dry law.

Justice Luhring, in passing sentence, characterized their deed as "arrogant and contemptuous violation of the law."

Six other defendants drew eighteen months imprisonment and fines of $2,500 each. They are Irving Rosenberg, Alton Cissel, Antonio d'Ambrosio, Jacob Miller, Harvey O'Connor and F. J. Paxton.

Harry Whelan, defense counsel, noted appeals for all defendants except D'Ambrosio, who withdrew his motion for a new trial. Pending completion of the bill of exceptions, the nine were remanded to jail but Justice Luhring said he would entertain a motion for bail when the bills were filed.

Whelan asked leniency for Glassman, citing the defendant's records as a soldier overseas during the World War and as a policeman in the metropolitan department. Glassman was seriously wounded in line of duty during the race riots here in 1922.

Shortly after sentence was passed, Frank W. Hill, 2029 Hillyer place northwest, filed suit for $11,444 against Glassman, charging he suffered this loss after the Government padlocked the Fourteenth street garage he owns and which was used by Glassman as liquor ring headquarters.

Florists Protest Sale Of Street Merchandise

A delegation of florists yesterday appeared before a meeting of the District Commissioners and made formal protests against the selling of flowers, apples, balloons, toys and other merchandise on the streets. While their principal cry was against flower vendors, they also presented a petition signed by F and G street merchants concerning other articles.

Z. D. Blackstone headed the group. He was accompanied by representatives of George C. Schaffer, Gude Bros. and the Du Pont Flower Shop. The Commissioners took the matter under advisement.

Eight New Hack Stands Ordered Established

Eight new hack stands were ordered established yesterday by the District Commissioners upon recommendation of E. W. Brown, assistant superintendent of traffic. One of the stands, on New York avenue, near Fifth street, is intended to serve patrons of the new Center Market.

The seven other stands are on Eleventh street, near F; Twelfth street, near G; Eleventh street, near F; Tenth street, near U; Seventeenth street, near U; Rhode Island avenue, near Ninth street, and Connecticut avenue, near Zoo entrance.

Police Score 910 In Pistol Match

Open Series With, Cleveland Team; Mail Results Being Awaited.

The Washington Police Pistol Team yesterday opened a series of four intercity pistol matches, scoring 910 in a postal contest with the Cleveland police force on the Georgetown University pistol range.

Members of the team last night were awaiting receipt by mail of the Cleveland scores. The team next week will take on Dayton, Ohio, police, and afterward, the Boston police and Massachusetts State troopers. The matches are sponsored by the Interstate Police Pistol League.

The highest local score yesterday was made by Sergt. J. E. Fondahl, of the Traffic Bureau, who scored 187 out o a possible 200. Others in the first five counted were J. G. McCormick, of the Seventh Precinct, 184; Detective Sergt. H. E. Brodie, headquarters, 182; S. M. Stewart, Seventh Precinct, 180; Lieut. L. E. Kelly, Seventh Precinct, 177. M. T. Bridges, Traffic Bureau, scored 176, and A. Ritchitt, Traffic Bureau, 167. The match was fired under supervision of Lieut. H. J. Hunt, jr., executive officer of the Washington Pistol Club.

Veterans to Celebrate Post's 12th Birthday

The twelfth anniversary of the founding of George Washington Post No. 1, the pioneer post of the American Legion, will be celebrated tonight at 8 o'clock at the post clubhouse, 1441 Rhode Island avenue northwest. Prominent speakers will be on the program, which will be followed by a "smoker."

The post was organized March 7, 1919, in the Cosmos Club Auditorium. The name of the post selected at this meeting was "General Pershing Post No. 1," but was later changed to George Washington Post No. 1, in order to conform with the national constitution which prohibited naming of any post after a living person.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

MORE MIAMI NOTES—THE DOG TRACKS.

MIAMI BEACH, March 6.—Southern Florida's major night sport. The stock market on a kennel basis. Roulette played with puppies. Poker with the canines wild. The answer to the halfwit speculator's prayer. The ideal sport of the man who will bet you how many hairs there are in a beard, which way a gnat will jump and how long before a cuckoo will lay an egg.

• • • •

You have to see it to believe it. Fairly intelligent looking human beings on a half dozen tracks in Miami and Miami Beach rushing feverishly to the betting windows to risk real money on the mood, temperament, disposition and ability of a dog they never saw before. Hundreds of men and women standing in the "paddock," critically studying a bunch of highly excited greyhounds and trying to determine which one will come nearest to overtaking a mechanical rabbit.

• • • •

The fan to whom they are just six or eight skinny dogs out for some night work. The form sheet fan who studies breeding and past performances of each pup and thinks he can beat the game. The tipster who nudges you and whispers "Play Sweet Sister's Chief, the Number Five dog, and get a big bet down. I'm a trainer and I know that one. I'll meet you here after the race." The girls who look at the hounds and cry, "Oh, isn't that black and white one cute? Put $2 on him for me, George!"

• • • •

The jingled fan who gets a laugh insisting "I'd know which pup to play if I knew which had the right flea for a jockey."

• • • •

THE swanky parade to the post. You have to pinch yourself to make sure you're not watching a musical comedy. The bells ring, the bugle blows and the hounds are taken to the post with the maximum pomp. Presidents, Secretaries of State, trans-Atlantic flight heroes and visiting ambassadors have been given less formal escorts.

• • • •

Around the track fly the hounds after the rabbit which, thanks to Thomas Edison, no dog ever catches. The crowds yell. Hysterical women try to root home a winner. Wild-eyed men plead loudly for some kiyoodle to help pay the room rent. It seems like something out of the comic papers.

• • • •

Looking at the spectacle you suddenly realize what's wrong with this picture. It's the dogs that are chasing the mechanical rabbit when it should be the spectators.

PIPE DREAMS.

LAST night I found my "full dress"
It didn't squeeze my tummy,
And it was safe to sit.

My shirt was stiff but comfy
And spotless as you please;
The stud holes all were limber—
The studs went in with ease.

The coat lapels were glossy,
Their satin had a sheen,
My dress coat wasn't shiny—
The trousers weren't green.

I wore that soup-and-fish dress,
And how that outfit shone!
The moths had chewed the mothballs
But had left the cloth alone!

—HARCOURT STRANGE.

"Hoof Likely to Be Coshen Head of Moose"—headline in the Staten Island Advance. It's a good trick • • • if they do it.

"The other evening," write Mervin Lane, "we found ourselves in the midst of a discussion of interior decorating. Later one of the ladies exclaimed 'Oh, I'm crazy about period furniture!' I ended the discussion by saying, 'Margaret, you should be more careful with your punctuation. You should have said: 'I am crazy about furniture. Period.'"
